A Japanese Air Record.
Girls Are Bigger, Better.
$1,500,000 for Cancer.
The Nervous Crime Life.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

ON THE NORTHWEST corner of Thirty-fourth street and Park avenue, in New York City, opposite the Vanderbilt Hotel and east of Col. Friedsam's great emporium, a handsome Protestant church has just been torn down to make room for commerce. Yesterday a powerful steam shovel was scooping out the remnants of the church.

A smiling individual operating the shovel had a bright green flag with a harp fastened to a beam above the shovel, another beside the entrance to the cab in which he worked.

That particular celebration of his day would have interested St. Patrick.

A JAPANESE semi-rigid dirigible, setting a world's endurance record for that kind of airship, came down in Tokio yesterday after 60 hours in the air without refueling. Sixty hours travel at 100 miles an hour would take a ship across the Pacific Ocean.

We shall soon have real flying and it will interest us when it brings us within comfortable flying distance of Europe and Asia. Goodby to safe isolation, then.

PRESIDENT JACOBS, of Ashland College, has been studying physical measurements of girls for 15 years, measuring 6,000 of them in five different institutions for higher education.

He finds that girls of today, in spite of short skirts and light clothing in cold winters, weigh more, are taller and have a much bigger lung capacity and bigger measurement around the chest.

DR. JACOBS says it isn't true that we are growing "weaker and wiser." On the contrary, we are growing "wiser and stronger," at least, young women are. Physical training in high schools, before the college age, goes much to develop girls.

THE MISFORTUNE of the individual, thanks to human nature, which is fundamentally good, often brings a blessing to others.

Egbert C. Fuller, of Connecticut, endured the agony of seeing his wife die of cancer. He is dead now, and in the Anna Fuller fund, in her memory, leaves $1,500,000 to fight the world's most dangerous disease.

The money will be spent to alleviate cancer suffering, to study its cause and treatment, and, wise provision, to educate the public as to prevention and treatment of cancer.

FROM PASADENA comes news that Dr. Millikan, the famous scientist, who aided Dr. Charles O. Lauritsen in the development of a million-volt treatment for cancer, is encouraged by the result.

Rays from the million-volt tube are the first ever developed that will reach a tumor located in any part of the body. Ordinary radium treatment has been confined to growths near the surface.

OUR CRIME wave imitates war fairly well.

The Phillips Oil Company is laying a pipe line on the edge of the Mississippi, across the river from Missouri, the Chicago Bridge and Iron Company doing the work under "open shop" methods, unions not recognized.

Guards were hired to protect non-union workers. One hundred men with shotguns and rifles ambushed the guards and shot four.

The deputy sheriff guards traveling in three automobiles were surprised in a ravine by 25 automobiles coming from a side road. They "began circling around us in Indian fashion," according to Deputy Sheriff Jack Johnson, who was shot in the leg.

NEW YORK reports a new kind of killing. It was desired by criminals to "shut the mouth" of a young woman named Georgia Gray. She is dead of double pneumonia, and the Anti-Crime Society believes that the pneumonia germs were administered to her as a method of silencing her. It was successful.

A LIFE of crime must be hard on the nerves. New York's police yesterday stopped a taxi, compelled six men to get out, and found three revolvers on the floor of the car. They say one of the six was being "taken for a ride."

He would have been murdered on reaching a convenient spot, and probably did not know that he was the individual to be put on the spot. He may have thought he was to help kill one of the others. Imagine his chagrin on discovering that the ride was planned for him.

IN THE YEAR ending last October the Toronto Liquor Control Board, of Ontario, sold $52,283,001 worth of liquor, wine and beer, and made a profit of $9,315,967.

In the same period this country spent many millions to prevent the sale of liquor without succeeding, and forfeited an income of more than 700 millions that was collected in taxes on beer, wine and whisky before prohibition.

The Canadians think their plan is better than ours.

'Trick' Bids Charged by McGovern

FURNITURE CONTRACTS ATTACKED

Commissioners Rescind Motion to Award Order; Ban on Competition Hinted

Trick specifications that eliminated competition in county purchases and awards to high bidders were charged today by County Commissioner C. C. McGovern.

He accompanied his charge with a demand for an explanation of the method of purchasing costly solid American walnut furniture for equipping the new county office building, nearing completion.

McGovern's demand followed the letting of contracts yesterday for desks, chairs, tables, bookcases and other furniture for offices in the new structure, on specifications which made it impossible for more than one furniture house to meet items of the order.

When the news of the trick specifications leaked out, unprecedented signs of activity were evidenced in the County Commissioners' offices, and an announcement was made that the motion awarding the contracts had been recalled pending further discussion of the bids at this afternoon's meeting of the commissioners.

'MISTAKES' REPORTED

Clerks said that a mistake had been made in the preparation of the list of bidders and their bids. Instead of the Pittsburgh Office Equipment Company being low in practically every instance, as the

EVANS SCORES 78 CONTRACTS

Former City Controller Henry Oliver Evans, granted a hearing by Council on his charges that irregularities exist not alone in the Department of Supplies, but also in the Department of Public Works, today sent Council a letter in which he listed 78 sewer and paving jobs as proof of his contention that the system of letting city improvement contracts is "careless, unbusiness and opens the door to fraud." These were specific instances of the general charges recently published.

In many of these cases the final costs were for in excess of the contract prices, Evans said. He explained that he wasn't trying to put anybody in jail, but regarded the case as a business discussion.

Evans added:

"I am a business lawyer, not a prosecuting attorney. I want to put this up as a business proposition: Whether the pres-

STUDENTS STRIKE AT W. & J.

Demand for Resignation Of President Baker Made After Walkout in Chapel

By JOHN NEILSON
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 18.—Demanding the resignation of President Simon S. Baker, the student body of Washington and Jefferson College went on "strike" this morning. As result of the walkout, classes in one of the oldest educational institutions in Western Pennsylvania have been suspended.

The walkout occurred at chapel when Dr. Baker arose to make his customary announcements.

A petition, signed by about 350 of the 412 students enrolled, demanding the removal of Dr. Baker was to have been presented to a member of the board of trustees today. It cited some 10 reasons why Dr. Baker should be ousted.

ARREST BLAMED

Dr. Baker said the strike was undoubtedly the result of the arrest last night of two W. & J. football men at a downtown hotel following an altercation with a policeman. Dr. Baker said:

"It (the strike) came as a complete surprise to me. I believe it is simply a misapprehension on the part of the students. I have not said that I would dismiss those fellows, and from what I hear of the case this morning I don't feel that they should be expelled."

The students involved in the fight were said to have been Charles Armstrong and Don Rhodes, who were attending a fraternity dance at the George Washington Hotel. A "free-for-all" fight started when hotel detectives ordered Armstrong from the floor. Rhodes went to the defense of Armstrong and both were severely beaten.

The hotel incident was reported to Dr. Baker late last night and he is said to have threatened the two youths with expulsion, students say.

Student leaders claim they have the support of the entire faculty in their demands for the removal of the college head, but aside from a more or less passive support of

BEAUTY SCORES IN KILLING QUIZ

NICE, France, March 18.—(AP.)—Magistrate Vachier indicated today at the close of his first examination of Mrs. Charlotte Nash Nixon-Nirdlinger that the former St. Louis beauty would not be charged with first degree murder for the slaying of her husband in their apartment here a week ago.

Stylishly dressed and tugging at her fur collar in an effort to hide her face from crowds of spectators and photographers, Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger stepped out of a horse-drawn prison wagon and entered the chambers of Magistrate Vachier to tell her story of how she shot her husband a week ago in their Nice apartment.

The examination was held in secret with only the prisoner, the magistrate and the three defense attorneys admitted to the courtroom.

The American beauty's attorneys said she repeated to the magistrate her story to police that she shot in self-defense when she slew the Philadelphia theater owner, and quoted her as saying to the judge, as she sobbed:

"I have led a dog's life, but I always will regret I was in a position where I was forced to take a human life."

Thurston Uses Tear Gas In Fight With Harris; Jane to Sue Mate

DETROIT, March 18.—(INS.)—The Thurston family row reached the courts today when Mrs. Jane Thurston Harris, 20, daughter of the world-famous magician, Howard Thurston, swore out a warrant charging her husband, Harry Harris, 27, with assault and battery.

Harirs, the son of the late Senator John Harris, of Pittsburgh, will be served with the warrant at Harpers Hospital here, where he is recovering from the effects of having a tear gas fountain pen discharged into his face by the magician during an admitted family quarrel.

Mrs. Harris announced also that she would institute divorce proceedings against her husband.

THURSTON'S STORY

The warrant against Harris was signed by Judge W. McKay Skillman.

Regarding the fight, Thurston said:

"In a previous attack he had broken my rib. When he made the lunge at me yesterday during a family row, I discharged the tear gas."

According to Thurston, differences between Harris and Mrs. Harris had previously reached the point of violence. Separation was said to have taken place several days ago.

Farmer Asks Hoover For Loan of $100

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP.)—A Kentucky farmer needing cash to make his next crop would like to borrow $100 from President Hoover. In a letter to the President he offered a lumber stand of 200 pine and poplar trees "and three times that amount in ash," as security, so he can "make my family something to live on."

Furthermore, he wrote the President that "if you don't believe I have got timber you can send any man you want to come and count the trees."

Record Steel Order Placed With Pittsburgh Mills

An order for 125,000 tons of structural steel, the largest single contract for this type of material ever placed, has been awarded to the United States Steel Corporation.

The major part of the steel will be rolled in the mills of the Carnegie Steel Company in the Pittsburgh district, and a large share of the fabricating work will be done in the plants of the American Bridge Company here.

The steel will be used in building the Rockefeller "Radio City" in New York.

While the amount of money involved in the contract has not been made public, it is understood to be about $4,500,000.

With other small awards, the total tonnage of structural steel orders placed with steel companies last week reached 146,147 tons, a record week's business.

The award also carried the structural steel bought so far this year over the total of the corresponding period of last year.

Orders this year stand at 469,675 tons, against 398,722 tons at the same date in 1930.

MEETING BARED IN JAIL FAKE

ERIE, March 18.—(AP.)—The government today continued its effort to prove Attorney Samuel Y. Rossiter and two others conspired to substitute James Patrone for another men sentenced to serve a term in the Erie County jail with the testimony of a deputy United States marshal, who said Rossiter, two other attorneys and three prisoners in his custody met and ate together in the Fort Pitt Hotel in Pittsburgh shortly after the prisoners pleaded guilty to liquor smuggling charges.

Deputy Marshal Walter W. Meyer testified he took Fred Black, Joseph Jarvis and Paul Schoenbein, the prisoners, from the Federal Building in Pittsburgh to the Fort Pitt Hotel in a taxicab. They were accompanied by Attorney Max Schoonmaker, he said. They went to a room on the fifth floor of the hotel and Rossiter and Joseph Donovan, another of the defendants at the present trial, came in, he testified.

Assistant United States Attorney James I. Marsh asked:

"Who else came in?"

Meyer said:

"Stanley Wells. I learned later."

FAILS TO KILL MUSMANNO MEASURE IN HOUSE

Attempt to Send Bills Back To Committee Defeated; Governor's Stand Assailed

By ED PRENDERGAST
Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, March 18.—The Musmanno coal and iron police bill broke Gov. Pinchot's control of the House today.

On a motion to recommit the two measures of Representative M. J. Musmanno, of Allegheny County, to the Law and order Committee, the administration suffered its first defeat of the session when, by a vote of 87 to 54, the attempt to "kill" the bills was defeated. They now remain on the floor of the House.

GREETED BY SHOUTS

D. Glenn Moore, Pinchot floor-leader, made the motion to shunt the bills back to the Pinchot-loaded committee. The motion was greeted by shouts.

Musmanno, in a talk that stirred the House and turned both friends and foes of Pinchot to his support, asked that his bills be permitted to go on. Musmanno asserted:

"It seems Gov. Pinchot has chosen to throw his lot with the coal industries rather than with the people of Western Pennsylvania."

"FAIRNESS" PLEADED

Representative Moore said the sole purpose of his motion was to permit consideration of the Musmanno bills in conjunction with the rival administration bill. He said he was asking fair play for the governor.

He said he was not asking for a stifling or killing of the Musmanno bills. He said he himself as well as the Governor were open-minded on details as to how the Governor's campaign pledges should be fulfilled.

Representative Turner, Delaware, said in fairness the administration should have sent its bill to the Judiciary General Committee. He said the Law and Order Committee should send the administration bill to Judiciary General, which has been studying the subject for weeks.

"TIRED OF FOOTBALL"

Representative Bryer, Philadelphia, said he was tired of the football game of kicking legislation around from one committee to another for the purpose of stifling them. He said he had suffered by having his bills sent to the Law and Order Committee, which he called a "catspaw."

Representative Musmanno said he had conferred again and again with the Governor and that he had no quarrel with the Governor. The Governor, he said, had told him he would be satisfied with whatever the Legislature did.

BORKOWSKI CASE CITED

Musmanno arose again to answer Moore's charge that he presumed to interpret the executive's mind. Musmanno said:

"I talked with the Governor before I ever put in my bill. He told me that I had a right to my opinion, that the bills had a right to go in.

"There is no reason to delay this. I speak for humanity. I don't speak because of a cam-

'Lysistrata' Makes Clark Blush; Sleuths, Too

Picture James M. Clark, the safety director, with hanging head and face flushed with embarassment.

That's what "Lizzie" did to him—"Lysistrata," the ancient Greek comedy in town this week.

Clark says he will positively close the show unless the management of the Alvin Theater agrees to remove the "dirt and vulgarity" from the lines of the play. It is Clark's opinion that "Lysistrata" without them would not be "Lysistrata."

This afternoon Clark wants to confer in his office with the management of the show and the theater. The theater argued the comedy played in Philadelphia 12 weeks. And Clark commented:

"If Philadelphia tolerates dirt it is all right; we do not want it here."

The director viewed the Monday night showing. Thoroughly embarrassed, Clark sent two of his detectives to the theater last night to check up on his impressions. The "dramatic critics" were also embarrassed, they reported to Clark.

The director's personal opinion of the show follows:

"It's the rottenest show I ever saw. It is vulgar to the core. I am no prude, and I have seen some tough shows, but when I witnessed the performance Monday night I was embarrassed. I had to hang my head."

T. D. Bonneville, manager of the Alvin said:

"It's art, this piece, and beautifully done. It has played all over the country and there were never any complaints about it."

He hasn't had any word from Clark—doesn't know what he'll do.

GOV. PINCHOT EMBARRASSED BY COYNE-KLINE MEASURES

CITY CABINET PAY RAISE FOREMOST

Foresters Own Program In Peril Unless Allegheny Leaders Can Be Placated

By J. W. PRENDERGAST
Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, March 18.—Gov. Pinchot today faces the most precarious political situation of his administration, perhaps the most serious of his gubernatorial career.

The Kline-Coyne judge bill, which virtually forces him to appoint a Kline candidate as one of the judges in return for election support in Allegheny County, has already boxed him. The second Coyne bill providing at City Council's discretion, salary raises for Council members in Pittsburgh from $8,000 to $12,000 a year, was passed last night by the House and next week will also be at the Governor's desk.

NEW WOES IN SIGHT

And more Coyne-Kline bills are to come eventually to add to the Governor's woes, although the Senator sidetracked two that his friends and the people of his county told him were inadvisable.

Although peculiarly sensitive to public criticism, the Governor has little alternative, his friends say, but to sign the judgeship bill and name former Judge Frank I. Gollmar and Charles A. Waldschmidt.

On Waldschmidt, it was learned, rests most of the objection raised by Kline's opponents.

Friends of Edward G. Coll, Pittsburgh attorney and veteran of 125 murder trials, yesterday visited Harrisburg in his behalf. Some of the Kline group favored him, but Senator Coyne has not given his backing as yet, they said.

William McFall of the bar association, and many, perhaps a large section of the bar, would gladly back Coll, his friends added. Their argument was that he would be an ideal compromise to supplant Waldschmidt.

KLINE NOT SATISFIED

A slightly similar situation in Philadelphia found a solution in Mayor Harry A. Mackey getting patronage. But Mackey has no Coyne in the Senate, nor Coyne influence in the House. And Mayor Kline, of Pittsburgh, is not satisfied with patronage.

Kline recalls that he was named judge in 1919 along with Stephen Stone, when a similar bill was passed over the objections of the people. And Kline made a good judge, he believes.

The Coyne salary raiser swept through the House for passage at the evening session. The vote was 138 to 23, with seven members of the Allegheny delegation including some of Coyne's lieutenants, absent or not voting.

THREE OPPOSE BILL

Three of the delegation voted against the measure, Louis Hagmaier, of Aspinwall; Arthur Storer, of Elizabeth, and Carl Baldridge, of Edgewood.

Some who voted for it said it was their policy to let the responsibility in such matters rest with the council in Pittsburgh, and that if the people did not elect councilmen who represented their wishes, it was their own problem.

It was pointed out that the constitution forbade salary raises going into effect until the present terms of the beneficiaries had expired. Unless and until present cabinet members are reappointed, they will not benefit by the raises, even if City Council decides there should be some. It was said, however, they could resign and be reappointed immediately.

PHILADELPHIA BILL PUSHED

Philadelphia's bill asking three additional common pleas judges moved out of committee yesterday and passed first reading.

Reports that Kline promised western support in return for backing for his bills may be borne out, in swift passage of the Philadelphia measure.

Some doubt as to whether the Philadelphia group wanted the additional jurists now, with Gov. Pinchot holding the right to veto or to appoint, must have been overcome, it was indicated by the appearance of the bill on the floor.

With the Governor called upon to sign two Coyne measures about which varied opposition has developed, the forester's friends are wondering just how far he feels he can go with the Kline-Coyne combination without openly splitting and losing their support, to the danger of his major program.

VOTE MACHINE ACTION TODAY

County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong believes that if voting machines are in operation by next primary day, he will not have as hard a fight to be re-elected as he had in the past.

Armstrong, as chairman, was about to adjourn a meeting late yesterday when Commissioner C. C. McGovern said he wanted to urge prompt action on pending bids on voting machines. McGovern said:

"We have fooled around for about a year on this question and the time has come to do something if we expect to convince the people of our good faith. We ought to do it tomorrow or the next day."

Armstrong asked what time would be convenient for his colleagues to meet, and 2 p. m. today was agreed upon. Armstrong said:

"I also want the machines, for I think if Joe Armstrong gets a square deal he will not have so hard a fight to be elected as he has had in the past."

Fake Bill Suspects Identified by Police

WHEELING, W. Va., March 18.—(AP.)—Police here identified newspaper photographs of four men under arrest in Akron, O., as racketeers who have operated in the Wheeling district.

Officers said the men were Robert Ringer, 22, and Andy Paige, 35, Wheeling, and Dominic Cocco, 21, and Argent Cassianna, 34, Bellaire, O. The four were said by Wheeling police to have gone to New York two weeks ago. They were believed to have obtained then the $2,000 in counterfeit bills which Akron authorities reported finding in their automobile.

resident of Coburg, Ont., is the man for whom Patrone, under the name of Jarvis, was substituted to serve the jail sentence. Rossiter, Donovan and Lester Beals are accusing to conspire to make the substitution possible.

Federal Judge R. M. Gibson testified today that Rossiter told him the only connection he had with the case of Jarvis and Beals was in arranging bond for the defendants after their arrest.

Rossiter, the judge testified, said he happened to be in court with a client when the prisoners pleaded guilty to the liquor charges. The attorney said he paid no particular attention to them at the time, the judge testified, and it was not until later that he recognized a man he saw on a train and in a hotel as the defendant he had been asked to represent and whom he thought had pleaded guilty and had been sentenced.

U. S. MAY AVOID NAVAL TREATY

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(INS.)—After talking over the trans-Atlantic telephone today with American Ambassador Dawes and Senator Morrow (Rep.), of New Jersey, in London, Secretary of State Stimson announced it looks as if it would be unnecessary for the United States to participate in the drafting of the Franco-Italian supplemental naval agreement. So far, he said, the negotiations have been going along very favorably.

Stimson said the drafting committee, composed of representatives of Great Britain, France and Italy, will meet in London tomorrow.

Ambassador Dawes reported there would be a statement issued late today either from the French or the Italians, concerning the agreement.

Nine Killed as Ship Crashes Into Rocks

GLASGOW, Scotland, March 18.—(INS.)—Nine men of a crew of 11 were drowned today when the steamer Citrine crashed into the rocks of Bradda Head, southeast coast of the Isle of Man, and capsized.

Fog was held the cause of the mishap by the vessel's owners, who announced the crash.

Trapped in Theft, Boys Kills Himself

TAYLORVILLE, Ill., March 18.—(AP.)—Trapped in the theft of a small sum of money, and told he would have to work to repay it, Grover Mottershaw, 12-year-old Kincaid schoolboy, shot and fatally wounded himself. A coroner's jury gave this version of his death in a verdict.

ANTI-BLUE LAW BILL REPORT AWAITED

Protests at Hearing Force House Committee Action; Hopes for Passage Slim

HARRISBURG, March 18.—Proponents of repeal of the ancient blue laws were jubilant today with reports that the Musmanno bill, which provides local option, will not die in committee, but will be reported out to the House.

Even though the bill should be reported out with negative recommendation, this would be the first time in the Legislature's history that an anti-blue law bill ever got so far. Always such bills have died in committee, although once, in 1919, a bill to permit Sunday concerts was reported out of committee and subsequently died.

105 VOTES NEEDED

If the law and order committee should report the bill out yesterday's demonstration against the blue laws by 1,000 visiting citizens from Western Pennsylvania and Philadelphia will be credited with the victory.

With the bill out of committee 105 votes in the House would be necessary before it could be placed on the calendar for action by the Legislature. This is considered impossible.

MANY DISPUTES STIRRED

The protests at the public hearing on the bill yesterday reverberated through House and Senate, and led to discussions and arguments into the early morning hours.

With fear of the issue dominating the majority of the legislators, the telling arguments in favor of "home rule" decision on the problem introduced considerable heat into the discussion.

Speaking informally as one who favored the local option bill of Musmanno, Dr. Joseph G. Steedle, of Allegheny County, a member of the committee, said that the committee, 27 against repeal to 4 in favor, lacked the sportsmanship of committees of the last decade.

MINORITY STIFLED

He explained that from 1913 to war times, the minority favored prohibition. Repeated requests to allow dry bills to come onto the floor for debate were granted invariably, so that the dry members could show their vote "back home." Dr. Steedle added:

"With the position reversed, the minority doesn't seem to get a chance."

It was predicted the bill would be reported out Monday, and unless the "home rulers" get 105 votes, enough for passage, the laws of 1794 will remain on the books for at least another session of the Legislature, and continue the "phantom of political fears."

KERR TO SCAN LIBRARY BILLS

City Controller James P. Kerr today was preparing to scrutinize current bills for the North Side Carnegie Library prior to approval by City Council, following action taken by that body at its Finance Committee meeting yesterday.

The action was requested by Chairman W. Y. English, in the absence of Deputy Controller John Schilpp, Jr., who left the session before the matter was presented.

English later explained that Schilpp, as Kerr's deputy, usually approves bills, but in his absence it was decided to hold the bills in abeyance. He said there was nothing extraordinary in the procedure.

At the same time Councilman Harry Little moved that the city law department be requested to furnish information to determine the exact powers of Council in connection with activities at the library. Council's powers are contained in the old Carnegie-Allegheny ordinance passed several years ago.

Tax Figures Show People Own U. S., Coolidge Says

NORTHAMPTON, MASS., March 18.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

Tax returns made in 1930 reveal incomes that are beyond human comprehension. The total is over $140,000,000 gross and $35,000,000 net. Four-fifths belongs to individuals and one-fifth to corporations, about 4,000,000 individuals and 500,000 corporations make returns.

Mr. Coolidge

Thirty-six million persons gainfully employed make no returns. Their income would increase the total national gross income. These persons contributed as employes and consumers to the taxable income. More than one-half the net individual income is supplied by persons who have less than $2,000 annually. The people still own this country.

These figures show not only the stupendous earning power of the nation but they show conclusively the fallacy of thinking the government can be supported by taxing the rich. A national income as large as ours can only be secured by combined effort of all the people. The work and expenditure of all of us contribute to it. High taxes always keep the people poor, emphasize the cleavage between the classes and retard the distribution of wealth. The people at large have a great interest in economy in public expenditures.

Dry Repeal Asked By New York Senate

The resolution, sponsored by Assemblyman Richard B. Smith, Syracuse Republican, was adopted in the lower house of the Legislature nearly a month ago.

CHARGE TRICK BIDS MADE

commissioners were informed yesterday, it developed that they were high in several items.

Nobody, however, tried to explain the peculiar specifications.

Asked who drew up the specifications for the furniture, Commissioner McGovern said:

"They have a funny system of preparing specifications here. Take the voting machines for example: there a company was allowed to draw up specifications which finally landed us in court.

"And then there's those specifications on steam shovels. One company drew up a set which called for a shovel that they alone could produce. There is funny business like this all down the line, and I intend to find out about it."

NO ALTERNATIVE

Nine of 33 pieces of furniture had to be "as made by Dotenn-Dunton Desk Company," according to the specifications, which omitted the customary "or equal," found in other such invitations to bid on city and county necessities. Discussing this specification, McGovern said:

"They might call automobiles by name, but they can't call desks by name."

Another explanation forthcoming as the result of McGovern's demand is the reason for the manner in which the bids were presented to the commissioners. Tabulation of the articles of furniture divided them into 10 units.

The biggest contract, for nine units, was awarded to the Pittsburgh Office Equipment Company on a total low bid of $7,799.02. The contract for articles included in the other unit was given to the General Fireproofing Company on a low bid of $176.76.

DESK PROVISIONS

Specifications for the furniture, after designating the nine pieces of Doten-Dunton furniture, then authorized:

"Where Cutler desks and Standard desks are specified, desks and tables made by the Sikes Cutler Desk Company, Horrocks Desk Company, National Desk Company, Commercial Desk Company, Standard Furniture Company and the Leopold Company, that tally with the specifications in every way, particularly in the depth of the desk, would be considered."

The specifications warned that no bids on metal furniture of any other kind would be considered.

Dunlap Makes First Sale in Supply Job

For the first time since he took office Col. William R. Dunlap, successor to Bertram L. Succop as director of city Department of Supplies, acted as a sales agent today when he sold between 50 and 60 tons of scrap to the Steel City Scrap Company, highest bidder, for $271.25. The director sold also an obsolete mixing-and-placing machine for $200 to the Pennsylvania Drilling Company, only bidder.

FAIRNESS ASSUMED

"If it is necessary to call in witnesses, I assume Council will do so, and subpena them if necessary. I will proceed on the assumption that members of Council are on the square."

While Evans prepared to go before Council the double audit of the Department of Supplies continued, with the district attorney's representatives looking on.

John S. Herron, president of Council, has been given power by the finance committee to set a date for the hearing. Public Works Director Edward G. Lang has asked that the hearing be granted and that all the records of his department be checked back to the time he took office in 1926.

ANDERSON OBJECTS

When the motion was made confining the investigation to specific items, Councilman Charles Anderson objected, saying:

"I feel that I want the right to ask any questions which may come to my mind in this investigation."

Chairman English replied:

"It looks like your statement is an assumption that we are trying to cover up something. I assure you that you, as a member of Council, will have the right to ask any questions you desire."

NEW MUTINY FEARED AT JOLIET

International News Service.

JOLIET, Ill., March 18.—To forestall further rioting by thousands of enraged convicts, militiamen are to be stationed at the state penitentiaries here, it was reported today.

A demand was made upon the services of the guardsmen, it was said, after officials learned a plot was brewing to foment a new mutiny among the 3,000 convicts, the proportions of which would by far overshadow the disorders of last Saturday, when two prisoners were killed at the old penitentiary.

A new outbreak, according to Warden Henry C. Hill and his aides, would be of unprecedented seriousness because some of the convicts now are possessed with weapons. When they wrecked the kitchen and dining hall Saturday, they took several hundred knives.

RINGLEADERS CONFINED

Supposed ringleaders in Saturday's riot have not been released from their cells. They are living on bread and coffee. They are to be kept in confinement until after the legislative committee investigating prison conditions meets here Friday.

Boos and catcalls, revealing the sullen spirit of the prisoners, still resounded through the "big house" today.

Before the riotous prisoners are restored to privileges, the 120 guards at the old prison are to be reinforced with several companies of the Illinois National Guard, it was reported.

The 1,100 prisoners who took part in the riot at the old prison Saturday which resulted in the death of two felons and injuries to two others, let it be known that more riots are planned unless they are granted a voice in the administration of prison affairs. Their terms ask for "home rule."

Warden Henry C. Hill emphatically rejected an informal offer of prisoners to restore good behavior in return for milder treatment.

Hill said he would lock up the first man who presented such a petition into "solitary" and keep him there indefinitely on bread and water, adding:

"I intend to run this prison without any help from prisoners."

Still locked in their cells where they have been deprived of the usual recreation periods the 1,100 convicts continued yelling and pounding in defiance of prison orders. The din carries into other buildings on the prison grounds, causing a general unrest, according to officials.

URGE PETITION

Leaders of the rebellious convicts have urged their fellows to start a petition incorporating the peace terms with the intention of submitting the petition to the legislative committee now investigating the prison.

Renewed outbreaks at both Stateville and the old prison sent five convicts to hospital beds and four more to solitary confinement yesterday. The disturbances set in motion an investigation which uncovered reports that a plot was afoot in the new Stateville quarters to dynamite the buildings.

It was learned that 1,000 knives and other implements are missing from the penitentiary kitchens and tool houses, leading to the belief that many of the prisoners can arm themselves on short notice.

Herron Ridicules Probe, Coyne Boom Launched

The investigation of irregularities in the management of city government was the butt of the jokes that featured a gleeful testimonial dinner last night in the Morrowfield Hotel to Thomas O. Hasley. Most of the city's political celebrities were present. State Senator James J. Coyne was toastmaster.

Council President John Herron, introduced as a bricklayer and an optimist, entertained by hurling verbal ...cks at the food investigation ...e said:

"It seems to me the people are bothered too much with the little things, and pay no attention to the major interests of the city's welfare. After all, the city is getting better and better in every way.

"Not so long ago I came to this same hotel to tell the League of Women Voters why they should vote for me for City Council. Now the League of Women Voters and Henry Oliver Evans are coming down to see me."

He belittled the caricatures of the Mayor in the daily papers, referred to Coyne as the "big Chief" and wound up his oratorical effort with this reference to Mayview:

"Isn't it too bad they had a quart of strawberries out of season."

This last remark brought a stamping of feet, loud hurrahs, and shouts, of which the most prominent was "Coyne for County Commissioner."

Other speakers included Coroner William J. McGregor, Safety Director James M. Clark, Councilman Michael J. Muldowney, Leo Kusch, Fifteenth Ward Republican chairman; Alderman Sol Goldstein, Public Works Director Edward G. Lang and others. Many political celebrities were introduced. The police force was also represented.

called house detectives to his apartment in a downtown hotel.

Thurston said Harris went to his apartment demanding to see Jane, who was not there. Harris, the magician said, became abusive to himself and Mrs. Thurston. The magician added:

"Harris was attempting to make a lunge at me just before the detectives arrived. I set off a tear gas fountain pen to withstand the attack.

"We have been troubled a long time by Harris, but for Jane's sake have taken no action. Last summer he broke one of my ribs in an encounter. I am 61 and he is 27."

HARRIS SECLUDED

Harris was reported taken to Harper Hospital after the fracas in the hotel. He remained inaccessible to investigators.

Thurston and his daughter took part in their performance of magic as usual in the Wilson Theater last night.

Miss Thurston and Harris were married in Pittsburgh in December, 1929, under assumed names. Later they were remarried by a justice of the peace in Newport, Ky., and a third time in a religious ceremony at Cincinnati.

10 CHARGES PUT BEFORE GOVERNOR

'Wasteful and Incompetent' Management of Office Alleged by N. Y. Crusaders

ALBANY, N. Y., March 18.—(A.P.)—Charges preferred against the administration of Mayor James J. Walker, of New York, by the City Affairs Committee, made public by Gov. Roosevelt today, allege misfeasance in office in 10 specific cases.

The charges said that the Mayor had managed his office in the government of the city "in a wasteful and incompetent fashion."

The charges were contained in a letter to which was attached a memorandum containing allegations of failure to act in instances involving the Board of Standards and Appeals, the Department of Licenses, condemnation proceedings, health department, director of budget, department of hospitals, the dock department and the sinking fund commission, recalcitrant officials and the grand jury, magistrates' courts, and the police department. The charges said of Mayor Walker:

"He has failed properly to administer the government of the City of New York in the interests of the people. He has ignored conditions of inefficiency and corruption, and if under public pressure he has initiated investigations, he has allowed such investigations to lapse without report or result. He has appointed unworthy men to public office and kept in office unworthy men subject by law to his removal.

"His conduct of the office of mayor since he took office on January 1, 1930, has been incompetent, inefficient and futile with the result that the local machinery of government has failed to function properly and the administration of the city has been brought into disrepute."

The charges also allege that the Mayor "has brought the administration of the city into disrepute by daily neglect of the affairs of his office, by careless standards of public life and by complete indifference to the inefficiency and dishonesty of appointed surbordinates."

HINES ASKS VET LOAN FUNDS

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(A.P.)—Veterans' Administrator Hines has called upon the Treasury to provide $500,000,000 by April 11 for loans to World War veterans on their compensations certificates. This exceeded by $200,000,000 previous estimates for that period.

In making the request, announced by the Treasury, Hines estimated 75 per cent of the veterans would apply for loans, totaling approximately $1,000,000,000.

Up to last Saturday, 1,372,006 applications had been received and 282,874 checks issued, totaling $104,035,366, an average of $367.

The request found the Treasury $200,000,000 short of the amount asked by Hines. On Monday it sold $300,000,000 in six-month 1½ per cent Treasury certificates.

The $300,000,000 had been expected to meet all requirements until the latter part of May. How the remaining money will be raised has not been announced.

Wilkins' Aide Declares Test Run in Fog Proves Worth of Submarine

By CAPT. SLOAN DANENHOWER

Commander of the Submarine Nautilus, of the Wilkins-Ellsworth Trans-Polar Submarine Expedition.

PHILADELPHIA, March 18.—The Nautilus on her trial run down the shoal waters of the Delaware River encountered a blinding fog and a driving snowstorm which compelled us as a matter of prudence to seek shelter at the Philadelphia Navy Yard. The incident to my mind affords a striking proof of the feasibility of subsea travel in the polar basin.

Had we been in the Arctic, with deep water underneath, we merely would have submerged the Nautilus, and completed our run in comfort and safety, without any surface annoyance of wind, fog, snow and tide, and the hazards of surface shipping or shallow water such as we encountered yesterday.

As it was, operating as a surface ship, we were obliged to run to shore, just as any other surface ship would have done in shoal-congested water.

The outstanding feature of the short trial run down the river was the excellent demonstration of the Nautilus' stability, which caused everyone to congratulate her builder and designer, the veteran Simon Lake.

Considering the fact that the Nautilus had not yet taken aboard a cargo of oil for her Diesels and was operating solely on battery power and in fresh water, she behaved beautifully and smartly.

CREW PERFORMS WELL

What I consider a splendid augury for our 20,000-mile journey which we hope will take us under the ice to the North Pole, was the performance of the Nautilus crew, nearly all of them veterans, with an aggregate of 90 years' submarine experience.

With the Nautilus not yet shaded down, and by that I mean with the crew unaccustomed to each other, or to me, they performed consistently in the way submarine men should perform.

It all goes to show that experience counts.

We spent today tuning our Diesel engines, testing our air compressors, adjusting compasses and making all ship shape before running down Delaware Bay today and putting out to sea for New York Harbor.

TEST GEAR CAREFULLY

We realize that in our long journey under the polar ice we will be without the services of a "mother ship," and therefore we are beginning right now to subject each and every piece of gear in the ship to the severest test and scrutiny. We are starting out on that basis, because a flaw overlooked now would mean disaster possibly a short distance from our goal.

The Nautilus, with her ice drills, her under-the-ice "trolley pole," her electric refrigeration, heating and cooking devices, her modern means of interior communication, is unlike any submarine ever built, and we believe superior to any ever built, for the adventure we have ahead. For the sake of the adventure, and for the sake of the splendid scientific services we expect to be able to render mankind, we are, at the beginning, resolved to make assurance doubly sure.

8 SURVIVORS SIGHTED BY RESCUERS

Two Parties Working Way to Safety, Says Telegram; Spark in Powder Blamed

International News Service.

NEW YORK, March 18.—Hopes for the safety of Varick Frissell, motion picture man, missing from the wreck of the Viking off Newfoundland, were bolstered today by receipt of a telegram from Sir Richard Squires, Prime Minister of Newfoundland, by the family here.

The telegram, received last night, read:

"Up to 6 p. m. this evening three men have been situated from Horse Island. Five other men have been reported by sealing vessels as working their way to safety. There are now four sealing vessels within a radius of 600 miles, which are searching the ice, pan by pan. There are no heavy winds or swells to shift the ice. The weather is almost summer-like. If you knew as much about sealing as we do you would realize that no information can be conclusive until tomorrow, at which time I will send you a full account of the rescue work."

SPARK, POWDER BLAMED

The explosion aboard the sealing vessel Viking was attributed to the ignition of blasting powder in the hold.

Charles W. Bowring, of Bowring & Co., owners of the ship, received a message last night from Horse Island in response to a radio dispatch asking particulars. It read:

"Explosion caused by sparks getting to blasting powder while cans were being filled."

THREE MORE RESCUED

ST. JOHNS, N. F., March 18.—(AP.)—Three additional survivors of the wreck of the sealing vessel Viking off Horse Island were rescued from the ice floes by the sealer Beothic today, radio messages received here announced. All suffered severely from exposure.

The meager report failed to identify the men adequately, describing them simply as "Johnson, Kean and Best," previous reports from the sealer Ungava had described three men having been located on the ice, all suffering from injuries and exposures. One of these was believed to have been Alfred Kean, mate of the Viking. One of those who had not been accounted for was W. Johnson, master of watch of the Viking.

It was not clear whether the three men who were picked up had any relation to the party of 10—five on the ice and five in a dory—which Capt. Carter, of the Beothic, previously had reported having sighted.

Conflicting reports on the number who had made their way across eight miles of ice floes to the island left in doubt the number unaccounted for. Officials said they believed the final check would show approximately 20 in the death list.

118 ON ISLAND

Between 118 and 124 survivors were huddled on Horse Island, making the best of its meager facilities and waiting for the rescue ships Sagona and Foundation Franklin, with doctors and nurses, to take them off.

Aboard the Sagona were three injured survivors, rescued from the Viking's wreckage yesterday 15 miles from where the ship blew up. They were Harry Sargent, actor-explorer, of Boston, a member of Varick Frissell's motion picture expedition; Capt. W. Kennedy, navigator of the Viking, and Wireless Officer C. King, of the Viking.

BOY STOWAWAY MISSING

Newfoundland government officials said they believed the ship carried an official complement of 142, including Frissell's motion picture party. Two young stowaways were found aboard after the ship left here March 9, making a total of 144 on the sealer when she blew up.

Among the missing was Edward Cronin, 12 years old, of St. John's, one of the stowaways. The other stowaway, Michael Gardner, reached Horse Island.

Slump Past, Business Normal, Says Dr. Klein

DETROIT, Mich., March 18.—(AP.)—Business men were described today by Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce, as free from "economic shell shock" and "panicky psychology," while business climbs upward.

Depression has reached or passed its bottom, Dr. Klein told the Detroit Board of Commerce, although "we may bump along" for a while in returning to higher trade levels. He added:

"We have had enough of arm-waving hysteria, whether in a delirium of joy or despair. Business has, mentally speaking, stepped off the swooping coaster and is basing its plans on the solid realities . . .

"The available statistical record for February shows that business in that month underwent a normal seasonal improvement from the low levels of January. This is pretty good evidence that the long decline has at last been halted, and that an appreciable degree of recovery is in sight.

"The probability that the worst of the depression is behind us is not to be understood as foreshadowing a sharp and sustained advance from present levels back to normal. A brisk, spectacular ascending spurt might not be an unmixed good, even in the rather unlikely event that it should come.

"We are in the convalescent stage after a prolonged economic illness. We should be well satisfied, I think, if our improvement is gradual at first lest we suffer another relapse."

CANADA STARTS RUM BOAT QUIZ

WASHINGTON, March 18 (AP).—A second flare of diplomatic problem between the United States and Canada has resulted from prohibition enforcement efforts at the coast today.

Formal protest from Ottawa concerning the firing on and seizure of the Canadian rum runner Josephine K was on file today at the coast guard and the Prohibition Bureau for answer.

The protest, received and acknowledged yesterday by the State Department, charged the rum runner was fired upon after she sailing distance from shore in January while she was fired on by the coast guard cutter CG 149 off New York.

The basis of the defense is embodied in a statute limiting to which American ships may pursue suspected rum runners, a question of action which led to the fatal shooting of the Josephine K's captain, William Pinkett.

The first case of diplomatic incident resulting from prohibition enforcement followed the sinking of the I'm Alone off the Louisiana coast in 1929.

SMOOT FAVORS SAME U. S. TAX

WASHINGTON, March 18 (AP).—Senator Smoot of Utah said today he expected the Treasury defied to be lower than present estimates made in that department.

The chairman of the Senate Finance Committee estimated the deficit would be $500,000,000. He said it was possible to get along without an increase in taxes by reducing the rate of retiring the public debt. This he said would be better than to increase taxes at this time.

The first day's collections of income tax on the 1930 income dropped $5,000,000 as compared to the first day of a year ago. The tax paid Monday, March 16, was $17,100,762, as compared with $18,148,963 last year on March 15.

CHINESE SLAY 2 U. S. WOMEN

PEIPING, China, March 18 (AP).—Mrs. Vera Mosebar White of Battle Ground, Wash., and Mrs. Victoria Mahan Miller, Spokane, Wash., were slain in their sleep Sunday night at Yunnanfu. They were missionaries of the Seventh Day Adventist Mission.

The crime was attributed to Chinese servants at the Mission who had been discharged. The husbands of the women had gone on business to Talifu, 150 miles away.

A message to the United States Legation here from Consul Hans Stevens brought word of the killings. The skulls of both women had been fractured by hatchets. Two children of Mr. and Mrs. White were not molested.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—With a real vacation trip in prospect, the first of his two years in office save for seven days of fishing in Florida more than a year ago, President Hoover was ready to board a special sleeper for Old Point Comfort, Va., tonight.

Early tomorrow, he and his party will board the reconditioned battleship Arizona lying in Hampton Roads to begin a cruise of the Caribbean Sea with stops planned at Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

It is a "shake-down" run for the newly-overhauled dreadnaught, and she will loaf along to and from the Southern waters, bringing the President back to Washington at the end of the month.

No More Special Blend Coffee

Because of the low price at which we can now sell My-Te-Good Coffee we have discontinued the sale of our Special Blend Coffee.

Here's the REASON WHY

our new low price on My-Te-Good Coffee is possible and why we have quit selling our Special Blend.

All the Coffees Used in Our My-Te-Good Coffee Come From BRAZIL

Coffee, in Brazil, is in a highly chaotic condition—prices are demoralized, everything pertaining to coffee is topsy-turvy and there Brazilian Coffee is actually being exported for less money than it costs to grow it.

Consequently, being a blend of fine Brazilian Coffees, My-Te-Good can now be sold by us at a price practically as low as that at which we can sell the lesser quality Special Blend, as Special Blend contained some coffee which does not come from Brazil.

W. & J. STUDENT STRIKE ON

the movement they have not taken an action it was learned.

FEUD OF YEARS

The feeling against the college president has been brewing for several years, student leaders declare, who said that the opposition was general throughout the community. Sentiment crystallized with the arrest of the two football men and the reported dismissal of three of the college's most popular instructors. They were Gaston L. Malecot, instructor of French; W. E. Slemmons, instructor of religious education and pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, and Dr. George W. Martin.

Students claim the only reason for the reported dismissal of the three was that they "over-friendly" with the student body.

In 1922, an aroused student body buried Baker in effigy, because of the dismissal of J. Adelbert White, professor of biology, on similar reasons, students recalled today.

There was no indication of the impending walkout when chapel assembled. The students listned attentively to W. R. Farmer, secretary of Western Theological Seminary at Pittsburgh and at the close accorded him the customary rising courtesy.

After the students resumed their seats, Dr. Baker, for 10 years head of the institution, rose to speak.

QUIT CHAPEL

His opening remarks apparently was the signal for the walkout, the students moving to the doors in an orderly manner, heedless of the cries of Dr. Baker.

"Just a minute—just a minute."

Although a tour of the class rooms had been made by newspaper men, a few minutes prior to paying a visit upon Dr. Baker, the college president denied that sessions had been interrupted.

Dr. Baker also denied that any of the faculty members had been asked to resign.

Dr. Baker's general attitude toward the student body and athletics—mainly football—seems to be the principal reasons for desiring his removal. The students charged that he has attempted to enforce "childish rules," even going so far as to prohibit them from wearing corduroy trousers.

ATHLETIC FAILURES

The students claim Dr. Baker is alone responsible for the poor showing of W. & J. on the football field. They say that not only has Dr. Baker given basketball and football men no special consideration, but has discriminated against them, and frequently has insisted that they maintain higher scholastic standards than other students.

The petition, which was circulated by leaders of W. & J. fraternities between 10 o'clock last night and early today, will probably be acted upon by the board at its regular meeting on Wednesday, March 25.

Students declare that the board will have to act upon the ouster plea at that time, asserting that they will remain away from the college campus until they do act.

PINCHOT LOSES ON COAL POLICE

paign pledge. I speak because John Borkowski was slain by coal and iron policemen."

ALLEGHENY SUPPORT

D. Joseph Steedle, P. J. Malone, Charles Dwyer and others of the Allegheny delegation supported Musmanno.

Fred Patterson, of Beaver; Bart Richards, of New Castle; Willard S. Reader, of Beaver; Moore, of Washington; John Flynn, Grundy leader, and Heffran, of Charleroi, voted to send the bill back.

After the House adjourned Gov. Pinchot announced that he had invited 10 Pittsburghers to attend the conference on Friday on his coal and iron police bill, which would increase the powers of the coal police, but change their jurisdiction to the state police superintendent.

ASKED TO PARLEY

The meeting will be behind closed doors, newspaper men not being barred, the governor's office said.

The invited list includes W. L. Copeland, of Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation; the Rev. James R. Cox, pastor of St. Patrick's Church; R. W. Grier, Pittsbuogh Coal Company; County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, H. J. Miller, vice president of the Pittsburgh Steel Products Company; William E. Maire, superintendent of police, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company; Patrick T. Fagan, president of District No. 5, United Mine Workers; Philip Murray, international vice president of the Mine Workers; L. J. O'Neill, superintendent of police, Carnegie Steel Company; M. N. Musmanno, T. R. Johns, of Johnstown, general manager eBthlehem Mines Corporation; L. W. Householder, of Indiana, general manage: of the Rochester and Pittsburgh Coal Company; John A. Fellow Victim Aids Alma in Desperate Fight Against Dope

By ALMA RUBENS

CHAPTER XLI

Not a plain, honest, decent, hard-working man, and not a single self-respecting, decent, hard-working girl or quiet wife and mother or good husband, and son did I know in all New York.

I used to know men who worked for a living, lawyers, doctors, clerks in banks, grocerymen and healthy, clean-living young fellows who ran oil stations maybe, and hadn't a cent in the world.

I used to know ambitious young actresses who worked hard, and used to get to the top of the ladder by that hard work.

Miss Rubens

I knew good mothers and faithful wives, rich and poor, but now I knew nobody but derelicts — Gigolos and vamps, and their silly, half-crazy victims.

I lived in a world of fraud, cheating, lying, and deceit.

Everything was wrong, everything was out of focus.

Once when I was a girl, I stayed in a little country hotel for a day or so, and when I looked into the mirror which hung over the bureau in my bedroom I didn't know whether to scream with laughter or shudder with disgust.

Everything was wrong—my eyes were too high in my face, my mouth was twisted to one side. I looked like some hideous idol carved by some savage hand.

Twisted World

Well, that's the way the world I lived in—the dope world—was.

It didn't just look that way—it was like that—distorted, out of drawing, everything that should have been beautiful was ugly, what should have been strong was weak, and what should have been pure was soiled and degraded.

Adventurers, male and female, old and young—some dressed like the lilies of the field, and some in shabby, outworn clothing.

But almost all the women had been beautiful—once!

And all the younger men were, at first sight, what I suppose most people would call good looking.

I got sick of the sight of good looks.

I got sick of shining hair and manicured nails, square shoulders and wasp waists, in beautifully fitted coats.

There were times when I would have cried for joy, to have a decent hard working man in overalls for a companion—just to see what a real man looked like once again.

Poor, painted old women, their wrinkled claws, heavy with jewels, and showing their hideous backs and ugly arms as if they were sweet 16.

Little cold-blooded, calculating girls, not over 17 and capable of any crime on earth so long as there was money or dope in it.

Doddering old men with check books — always with check books or they had to dodder alone.

Sinks to Depths

I drifted lower and lower—finally I didn't even have money.

I just had dope.

Some one of the drifting girls always lived with me in my apartment.

But none of them ever stayed very long.

We always quarreled—over something.

Either over dope or over drink, or over some worthless good-for-nothing, who called himself a man.

Wilhelmina, Kitty, Charlotte—poor Charlotte stayed the longest.

Charlotte was a showgirl out of a job, and she and I made up our minds to quit dope.

We took a little every day, to keep us alive—but we didn't go to any more parties for a while.

I began to feel more like a human being again. Charlotte and I took long walks in the park every day, and at night, if we were restless, we walked again.

Up and down, up and down Riverside Drive we went, watching the lights on the boats in the river below, wondering who the people were in the magnificent apartment houses along the drive, asking each other how we supposed such people had managed to keep out of the clutches of the fearful slave driver that had made us almost hopeless slaves.

We timed ourselves—so long to walk, so long to turn back, another half hour now, our feet hurt, our muscles ached, we were often faint and ill, but we kept each other up, and walked and walked, like two restless ghosts, haunting for a time the streets where sane and honest people lived in decent self-respect, and balanced sanity.

We tried to tire ourselves out so that we would sleep.

Sometimes when I would see poor Charlotte beginning to "weaken," I would sit down on a bench with her and argue and beg, and plead, and command until she said, "Alright, I'll stand it half an hour longer, that's the best I can do."

A hundred times poor Charlotte comforted and encouraged and helped me to keep away from the dope for half an hour or 20 minutes or even 10 minutes longer.

To Free Husband

I had decided to set my poor husband free.

We no longer loved each other—what was the use of tying ourselves together any longer?

Poor Ric. I don't wonder he lost patience with me.

Who wouldn't?

At first I used to cry about him, but gradually his image faded until I would scarcely have known him if we had met in the street.

It would not have been strange if he had been unable to recognize me.

I had changed so since he saw me that I was not like the same person at all.

Yes, I would divorce Ric, keep on trying to get my brain back so that I could study a part again, hoping for a day or so, despairing most of the time, falling, stumbling up again, down again, defeated, broken, but still with life enough left to pray.

Yes, I would divorce my husband and set him free.

Alma Rubens again loses her fight against dope, succumbs to wiles of "friends." Tomorrow she tells her hopes—and failures.

CITY HELD IDEAL FOR GLIDERS

Pittsburgh is an ideal site for the proposed national soaring contest under auspices of the National Glider Association, Wolf Hirth, pioneer soaring pilot, declared yesterday, following an inspection of several sections of the district. He spent several days here as the guest of A. C. Haller, Washington road, Mt. Lebanon, holder of the national distance record, and the only licensed soaring pilot in Pittsburgh. He left last night for New York, from which city he will sail for Germany Friday.

Haller, after a canvass of a number of business and civic associations in Pittsburgh, said he was optimistic for the proposed contest, which the glider association hopes to bring here in July or August.

IMPORTS CURB URGED BY DAVIS

PHILADELPHIA, March 18.—Vesting of authority in the executive branch of the government to regulate imports during recesses of Congress was advocated by Senator Davis.

Citing the Canadian system as an example for the United States, he said present Treasury regulations regarding importation of convict or forced labor products are "too weak and limited in scope" to protect American industry.

The former secretary of labor, speaking here, described "dumping" of products of convict or forced labor as "an economic menace" to the United States.

NEW IDEA SAVES SILK HOSE

Expensive at best, silk hose and underarments are made doubly so by improper washing. A fashion expert has found a new, simple way to correct this.

She adds a tablespoonful of Energine to every quart of lukewarm, soapy water. Then she washes and rinses the articles as usual. The addition of Energine removes all the body excretions that soften and rot silk.

The results are amazing. Not only does this method give new cleanliness and freshness with original color revived but actually gives longer life to hose and underarments. Try this new method. It's easier and quicker than just soap and water alone, means less rubbing and insures extra wear that will surprise you.

Energine is unexcelled, also, for quickly removing all dirt and grease spots from dresses, hats, gloves, shoes, etc. Large can 35 cents at any drug store.

PROPERTY PACT OF PAIR AIRED IN APPEAL

Man Asserts Wife Broke Agreement, Seeks Share, Fighting Adverse Decision

The validity of an ante-nuptial oral agreement to purchase real estate and hold it by entireties, or jointly, after marriage, was argued before the Pennsylvania Supreme Court here yesterday on appeal by Matthew Peel from a decision in Common Pleas Court in favor of his wife, Mrs. Margaret Peel.

They were married October 24, 1903, when Peel, who had roomed at the home of his wife before that time, was just past 21 and many years younger than his wife. They parted in April, 1928.

HUSBAND DENIED SHARE

They agreed before the marriage to buy real estate and take title in their joint names, Peel to contribute to the purchase price from his earnings and his wife from the income of a store she conducted. In his suit Peel averred that he did not learn until 1928 that his wife had placed title in her own name for two pieces of property they purchased. He asked the court that his share be deeded to him, but Judge Joseph M. Swearingen ruled against him.

Other appeals argued from Allegheny County were: W. W. Rankin against Central Cafeteria, appellant; appeal of Mary Keifer, Elmer Loeffler and Esther L. Lammay in re estate of Bessie Fisher, also known as Bessie Loeffler, deceased, Orphans' Court.

FROM OTHER COUNTIES

Appeals heard from Fayette County were: J. B. Myers and others, appellants, against T. B. Gibson and others; Pete Kolich against Monongahela Railway Company, appellant; Hill & MacMillan, Inc., against Isaac Taylor, A. L. Gilleland and Dr. E. H. Rebok, trading as Gilleland Coke Company, appellants.

Other appeals heard were: Emma E. Garland, appellant, against Mary J. Trout, Westmoreland County; appeal of Mars Company and Raymond Cross in re petition of S. B. Boocks and others, Clarion County.

Real Estate

Members of Islam Grotto passed a resolution at a meeting Monday evening in Moose Temple, Penn avenue, to erect a $160,000 building in Montgomery avenue, near Sandusky street, North Side. The site for the building, valued at $70,000, and containing 10 dwellings, has already been purchased by the Grotto, according to Louis McMahon, secretary of the organization. McMahon says that the dwellings on the site will be razed immediately and the building committee of the Grotto will soon select an architect to complete plans for the new building. These plans are expected to be finished within 30 days. According to tentative plans the facing of the building will be done in a colored terra cotta finish. The main entrance will be of bronze and glass with bronze mouldings extending to the ceiling of the vestibule. The building will be three stories. It will contain an auditorium with seating capacity for 1,000, club rooms, banquet hall, reading rooms and recreation facilities. The building will represent a total investment of $230,000.

DUST BUCKLEY STAR WITNESS

DETROIT, March 18.—(INS)—Judge Edward J. Jeffries, presiding at the second Buckley murder trial today, ordered a search of Fred Tara's person for concealed weapons in contempt of court and commanded [illegible] testimony against the three alleged gangster defendants stricken from the record.

This development came when Tara refused to answer questions concerning his purported criminal record. Without Tara's testimony it is doubtful if the state can convict Leo Pizzino, Angelo Sinacco, Livecchi, and Joe Bommarito of the murder of the crime-crusading radio announcer.

Tara, formerly of Canonsburg, Pa., was escorted from the witness stand by two policemen. He was lodged in a cell in county jail following an attack of pneumonia.

After the accident last night, Mr. Elhaus was taken home. He was ordered to Mercy Hospital by a physician after the skater complained of feeling ill.

LAX CONTRACTS SPECIFIED BY CONTROLLER

Evans Supports Charges of Carelessness in Awards With List of 78 Jobs

Former Controller Henry Oliver Evans' letter to Council, in which he cites 78 city contracts as proof of careless business methods, follows:

As you know, it is not usual, in investigations of this sort, to disclose in advance the definite items of the general subject or subjects of the investigation. The reasons for this are many and obvious. One of the most important is, of course, the unfortunate tendency for disappointment of witnesses and evidence.

Your resolution was offered by the only member of your body who is also a member of the bar and I assume, therefore, that he and you have considered this procedure and are willing to take whatever risks are involved. Since the investigation is for your benefit and not mine, and you have, in effect, underwritten this possible danger, I am willing to accede to the method you have adopted.

"SYSTEM CARELESS"

The charges as outlined in my letter are that the system of preparing for and letting city improvement contracts is careless, unbusinesslike and opens the door to fraud on the city. I expressed my firm opinion that the system used had resulted in fraud on the city, but since I had neither time, money nor machinery with which to determine that fact, I have, of course, no evidence to offer on that point.

"The formula upon which I proceeded in my study in 1929 was that any contract in which the final estimate was 10 per cent or greater above the cost as fixed in the contract, was worthy of investigation.

"The improvements are:

"Bellaire street, William Penn place, Boulevard of Allies, Bates street, Mt. Washington roadway, Soho street, Sycamore street, Grizella street, Bond street, Richmond street, Grandview avenue, Duquesne way, Duffield street, Singer place, Whitfield street, Fletcher way, Second avenue, Riverview Park, Bedford avenue, Mt. Washington roadway, Lincoln avenue, Sarah street, cement sidewalks, Sarah street, Main street, Norwood avenue, Bates street, Braddock avenue, Riverview Park, Marshall avenue, Ellsworth Avenue Bridge, wall West Carson street, Lang avenue, Violet way, Second avenue, Leslie Playground, Larimer avenue, Bedford avenue, Highland avenue, East Ohio street, St. Joseph street, Fourth avenue, Fortieth street, Tenth Street Bridge, Berkshire avenue and Schenley Park.

Sycamore street, Thirtieth street, Richmond street, Wellesley avenue, Jordan way, Singer place, Greenwood drive, Rutherford avenue, Cypress street, Cooper street, Brackenridge street, Whitfield street, Duffield street, Flemington street, Vodell street, Berwin avenue, Belasco street, Larkfield way, Dale street, Irwin avenue, Macon avenue, Fairmont street, Bond street, Dersam street, North avenue West, Duffield street, Inez way, Schenley avenue and Gold way.

"This 10 per cent "dead line" of mine was, obviously, an arbitrary figure. It may be, and I have little doubt it is, worth while to investigate all contracts let by the department. It may be worth while, as suggested by Mr. Lang, that the investigation be brought down to date. If so, it will be necessary for you to obtain from the controller's office the number and names of all improvements paid for after the date and numbers I have given.

"When Director Lang and the department are ready for a hearing, I should be glad to appear, subject to any engagements, subject to any engagement not be broken, at any time set by you. I am,

"Yours very truly,
"HENRY O. EVANS."

BANKER, SHORT MILLION, SOBS

MOLINE, Ill., March 18.—(AP.)—A small-town bank cashier who confessed embezzling more than $1,000,000 sobbed out a story of real-estate speculation in which he tried desperately to recoup increasing losses and said he was "on the verge of making a fortune" when the shortage was discovered.

Facing prosecution on nearly 80 counts, Robert C. Shallberg, former vice president and cashier of the Peoples Savings Bank and Trust Company, told the state's attorney he would welcome early indictment and quick transfer to prison to "get this over with." He declared:

"A deal was pending when this case came up which would have enabled me to dispose of a $1,500,000 equity in the Aladdin Hotel at Kansas City. I intended to repay every cent."

Shallberg, associated with the bank for 14 years as a cashier and a civic leader, said he had turned over his spacious home for restitution. This and other real estate will be disposed of to make up part of the shortage.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

CLUES PRESSED IN 'GIRL MART'

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 18.—(INS.)—After questioning five young girls said to have been furnished by the Hollywood "love bazar" for week-end hotel parties, county attorney's investigators today were seeking information on other men besides three now under arrest who were alleged to have taken part in the parties.

Investigation thus far has resulted in the arrest and arraignment of Alexander Pantages, millionaire theater magnate; John P. Mills, wealthy real estate dealer, and Jesse Shreve, veteran attorney of Atlanta, Ga., and Los Angeles.

Commutation Asked For Trio of Slayers

HARRISBURG, March 18.—(AP.)—The State Board of Pardons today was asked to commute to life imprisonment the death sentences of three Luzerne County slayers. Sigmund Szachewicz, 26, of Wilkes-Barre; John Nafus, 38, of Plymouth Township, and Wilfred Flood, 25, of Ashley. All are under sentence to be electrocuted in Rockview Penitentiary March 30.

Hill Woman Held After Dry Raid

Mrs. Blanche Legian, Negro, 21, of Bedford avenue, was held for court today on charges of violating the Snyder act by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Center Avenue Police Court. She was unable to explain the presence of blackjacks, revolvers and other burglar implements when police seized liquor in her home Monday night.

CHILD MURDER CLUES STUDIED

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 18.—(AP.)—Criminologists today examined caked soil from the pages of library books found in a sack near the one in which the body of Virginia Brooks was discovered March 10, for a possible solution of her slaying.

Rex Welch, Los Angeles police chemist, also tested soil found at a deserted shack near where the 10-year-old girl disappeared, February 17.

Welch said the soil and bits of plants resembled those found in the library books and on the coat the girl wore.

Officers also held as a possible clue a note which had been shoved under the door of a gasoline service station near the Brooks home. It was signed "The Doctor" and read:

"I killed Virginia. I have performed a perfect crime. I am no degenerate. You will not find me, for I have left no clue. This proves that I am superior."

Betty Compton Out For Flier's License

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP.)—Betty Compton, dancer, is thinking of taking the air. She took a flight over the city and liked it so well she plans to take lessons for a pilot's license. She was married secretly recently, and as secretly separated from her husband, Eddie Dowling.

Los Angeles Leaves On Training Cruise

LAKEHURST, N. J., March 18.—(INS.)—The naval dirigible Los Angeles left here today for an all-day training cruise, which was to include a flight over New York, Philadelphia and Washington.

Where Law Rules Rum

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

ment. We have always been friendly with Canada. But that isn't the reason we have no war vessels on the Great Lakes. There's another reason.

If we had cruisers on the lakes all the crews would desert to Ontario.

Francis X. Bushman defends the gigolo and says that he is an important citizen. When the cops aren't around.

Well it's a business. In Europe. And we have no embargo against it.

If you are in Paris, Trouville, Nice and other places too expensive to mention you will discover that gigolos regard themselves very neatly.

Take a seat in the Casino Cannes. You are dining and have reached that stage where you are glaring over the soup at your wife. Not because you hate her. But because it is a time-honored custom hallowed by the ages and indorsed by scientists.

The string orchestra starts getting stringy. Sweet music of the Blue Danube floats through the palms as a hidden orchestra starts fiddling around for the correct octave.

You ain't thinking of anything and you are getting brain fever doing that. Suddenly, from the limbo of the unknown, a stranger slides up. He bows to your wife. You take a quick retail look at him.

He is younger than you by 30 years. He is tall, slim and sinister. He had enough grease on his black hair to launch a battleship. He is snake-hipped and dressed in the hiatus of fashion.

He is a gigolo. He wants to dance with your wife and save you the trouble. All he charges is 10 cents a dance and guarantees to return your wife in the same shape he found her. Which is no improvement.

There's nothing wrong about it in Europe. It's an old Spanish customer.

But there is something about a gigolo that makes a middle-aged American business man remember that he was once the star tackle on good old Princeton's undefeated eleven in 1897.

And with that you smack him on the chin with a mitt that looks like an oak, roots and all.

Down he goes. And you give him the leather. Meaning the boots. At least, that's the way they talk in our set.

By that time you are fighting the Cannes branch of Gigolo's Union, the orchestra, the waiters and the sweet woman you call your wife is whacking you on the neck with a bunch of nibbled celery.

She ain't exactly against you. She's just fanning you between rounds.

You pay the thousand francs fine. And that's the way it is. A gigolo may mean no harm. But he is no part of the American scheme of tax evasions.

LLOYD GEORGE MAY BOLT

LONDON, March 18.—(AP.)—Widespread stories today of new British party alignments, which would lead David Lloyd George to the Labor fold, and Sir John Simon to the Conservative standard greatly excited political circles.

The reports, published in the Daily Sketch and a Liberal organ, appeared to be the outgrowth of defeat of the Labor government Monday night by four votes on a minor clause of the electoral reform bill, principally because Sir John and 10 fellow Liberals refused to follow Lloyd George in voting with the ministry.

The Daily Sketch said that Mr. Lloyd George, disgusted with failure of the party to stand with him in maintaining the Liberal-Labor alliance, would enter the Labor cabinet as lord privy seal, succeeding Vernon Hartshorn, who died a few days ago, and Hartshorn's predecessor, J. H. Thomas. The post carries with it an unofficial unemployment portfolio, which would give the Liberal leader opportunity to advance his pet schemes on that subject.

2 YOUTHS HELD IN HOLDUP QUIZ

Hope of solving a series of holdups in Pittsburgh and other cities impelled Magistrate Thomas D. Jones to hold William Coleman, 17, and Harry Walker, 30, both of 3432 Forbes street, for investigation at a hearing in Morals Court today.

Coleman was arrested when he was found in the rear of 410 Dennison avenue, Squirrel Hill, last night with a flashlight and a gold watch in his possession.

Police investigated his room, where they found Walker sleeping.

Walker had a number of newspaper clippings about holdups in other cities.

Both told Jones that they came here from Baltimore about six weeks ago, and said Walker has been working steadily and Coleman was looking for work.

Coleman said he won the watch in a dice game, and was on his way to apply for a job when police arrested him.

ELECTION BOARD CASE DELAYED

The last of the election cases growing out of the primaries of last May was postponed in Criminal Court today when Second Assistant District Attorney Roy T. Clunk told Judge James C. Gray that he would be delayed by another case he is prosecuting.

Joseph Hannon, a judge; Bernard Junilius and M. Blakely, inspectors; Peter Petrosky and William Sheely, clerks, were to be tried for conspiracy to return false counts. Clunk has prosecuted the other election cases and had prepared this, he reported to Judge Gray.

Longshoremen Fire On Police in Strike

NEW ORLEANS, March 18.—(AP.)—Negro longshoremen, on strike along the New Orleans waterfront, fired on policemen today during a riot in which 150 arrests were made.

None was reported wounded by bullets, but several persons were treated for minor injuries received in the clash.

FOCH: A GREAT FIGURE IN AMERICAN HISTORY

HE COMMANDED THE LARGEST AMERICAN ARMY EVER ASSEMBLED

READERS WILL WANT THE

It is a coincidence that two of the greatest figures in American military history were not Americans at all and that both were Frenchmen. One, of course, was that young aristocrat, the Marquis de la Fayette, who led a handful of adventurous Frenchmen here to help Washington and who has been the hero of the American schoolboy since. The other is Ferdinand Foch, that spirited little Frenchman, the driving force of victory, who as Supreme Commander of the Allies, directed the largest American Army ever assembled.

FARMER KILLS WIFE, SELF

MILLERSPORT, O., March 18.—(AP.)—George Pike, 57, killed his wife, 49, and ended his own life at their farm home near here last night.

Neighbors said the couple had just finished their evening meal when Pike picked up a gun and fired at Mrs. Pike. The woman died instantly and Pike then turned the gun on himself.

A 15-year-old crippled daughter of the couple made her way with difficulty to tell neighbors a quarter of a mile away of the tragedy. A younger sister accompanied her. Two sons also survive.

Pennsy Boy Amazes Mother

"Frank's stomach was often upset and he suffered a lot from colds," says Mrs. M. Zuschlag, 2218 So. 66th St., Philadelphia. "He was feverish and his breath was bad. I found he was constipated.

"My mother used California Fig Syrup with us, so I decided to give Frank some. It surely surprised me to see how quickly it stopped his feverishness, cleared his breath and tongue, regulated his bowels; made him a strong and energetic boy again."

The quick, safe way to cleanse and regulate the bowels of bilious, headachy, constipated children is with California Fig Syrup. Give it at the first sign of bad breath, coated tongue, listlessness or feverishness. Every child loves its rich, fruity flavor and it acts without griping or discomfort. Appetite is increased by its use; digestion is assisted; weak stomach and bowels are given tone and strength.

For fifty years, doctors have endorsed this pure vegetable product. The genuine is always marked by the word California. Look for that when buying or you may get an imitation.

HEARINGS SET ON MARKET

Dates for hearing on complaints that the city markets are in poor conditions and that the City-County Building cleaning staff is overmanned were announced today.

President John S. Herron set next Wednesday as the date for the open hearing on the market house conditions and rental fees.

The following Wednesday was scheduled as the date for airing of charges concerning the City-County Building personnel.

Both hearings were requested by the Building Owners and Managers' Association of Pittsburgh.

The association charges that cost of keeping the City-County Building clean is much more than for any other building in the city. It is also felt by the association, according to a communication addressed to Council, that all employes should be neat and uniformed, and that care of the building should be centralized.

A. H. Clark, Roland Brad and J. W. Bamford appeared before Council and suggested the dates for the hearings. These men are members of the association.

Council will also consider, April 1, the recommendations of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board and the Owners' and Managers' Association that the city lease its wharves to private individuals for parking purposes instead of continuing under the present plan. Proponents of the idea contend the city can make more money by leasing the property than by operating it as a city project.

Flogging Victims' Moves Kept Secret

KANSAS CITY, March 18.—(AP.)—Secrecy surrounded the proposed departure of two Communist organizers for Dallas, Tex., today to tell a grand jury of their alleged flogging there, March 5.

The two, C. J. Coder and Lewis Hurst, could not be reached for a personal statement. The Communists appeared here last Saturday and asserted they had been beaten with ropes by a mob of 14 men.

BALTIMORE & OHIO

LOEB, LEOPOLD TO BE REUNITED

JOLIET, Ill., March 18.—(AP.)—Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold, separated since they began life terms for the murder of Bobbie Franks, are to see each other once again.

Kept always apart by transfers which placed one youth in the new Stateville Penitentiary and the other in the old prison, they will be under the same roof within a few days, Warden Hill said. He remarked:

"They will have separate cells in Stateville, of course, but they will have plenty of opportunity to see each other under ordinary routine."

WOMAN TO BUILD SKYSCRAPER

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP.)—New York's skyline is going to have a feminine touch.

Katharine W. Seaman will leave her imprint on twentieth century development in the form of a $6,000,000 37-story apartment house and hotel on Central Park South, with a coat of arms.

Stonework will be white, the base, entrances and recessed jambs of windows, black Belgian marble. Grill work and exterior metal trimming will be bright chromium steel. The arms of the Marquis of Winchester, first nobleman of Hampshire County, have been adopted for the building.

Hospital Head to Address Homeopaths

Dr. J. S. Baird, superintendent of the Municipal Hospital, will address members of the Allegheny County Homeopathic Medical Society tonight in the staff room of Homeopathic Hospital, on epidemic cerebro-spinal meningitis. Other members of the Municipal Hospital staff will speak on other contagious diseases.

Pupils to Entertain Parents at School

Members of the Parent-Teachers' Association of South High School will visit the school and attend a play presented by the students tomorrow afternoon. The visitors will be entertained in the school auditorium with a program arranged by Miss Margaret Kline and E. M. Goehring.

ACTOR JAILED AS BURGLAR

LOS ANGELES, March 18.—(AP.)—H. M. "Roxan" Sanders, 30, who was known as Al White, a wealthy importer, about the Hollywood studios where he played in pictures occasionally, pleaded guilty to a series of daring daylight burglaries and was sentenced to from two to 10 years in San Quentin Penitentiary.

Peter Ryan, 38, his handsome chauffeur and confederate in the burglaries, also pleaded guilty and was sentenced to from one to five years.

Sanders and Ryan were said to have taken more than $250,000 worth of silverware, oriental rugs, fine furniture and art goods from mansions in the exclusive Wilshire district and the film colonies in Hollywood and Beverly Hills. They operated by daylight, simply backing a truck up to the tradesmen entrance of the house they chose to ransack and loading in the loot.

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor

"Harbor Lights" with its sneaky fog whistle returns to port tonight (WJZ, WGAR, WLS, 8 p. m.). No need to recommend these tales of an old sea captain to fans of a year's standing. "Harbor Lights" is in a class with "Empire Builders" for dramatic appeal, sound effects. Edwin M. Whitney (brother of Cass) is the narrator. Visit the "Wayside Inn" (WJZ, WGAR, 9 p. m.) for some splendid singing by the Choristers. If you listen intently you may hear a voice you recognize—Milton Tully. Try Percy Wenrich, the composer (WJZ at 11:30), and Wayne King's Orchestra (WJZ, WGAR, WJR at 12:30 a. m.). WJZ operates on 760 kilocycles; WGAR on 1450.

The LOUDSPEAKER—By LOUIS REID

Louis Reid

NEW YORK, March 18.—While radio is recognized primarily as a medium for music and draws upon the music of all nations for broadcasts, it has yet to capture the exclusive attention of the more important composers. It would be a formidable conquest were the grandness of the microphone to lead into their corrals such figures as Stravinsky, Strauss, Ravel, Schoenberg, Respighi, Bartok, Prokofieff, Alban Berg, our own Deems Taylor and Cadman, with orders to write music expressly for radio. That it will ever come to pass is not likely.

The microphone mahatmas seem to be content with the fact that radio is a second fiddle with the composers. Today radio takes music after it has been written for other pastures. It also takes such music as finds no welcome in the other pastures.

Radio has not yet advanced to such a position of cultural prestige that grand opera and the concert stage would give genuine hospitality to any work by an outstanding composer that had been introduced to the world through the microphone.

Musical pioneering on a big scale finds no part in radio's history. Radio today is a supplement to symphony hall. It is merely a field for further activity on the part of maestros and musicians. In that respect it is carving a notable niche in the world of entertainment.

All of the leading symphonic bands in the land have been heard on the air. Many are scheduled regularly. Radio has recruited such expert conductors as Damrosch and Barlow and Sodero. Every opera star of any importance has joined the microphonic parade. Only the Metropolitan Opera Company, of all the leading musical organizations in America, has steadfastly resisted the pleas and the pocketbooks of the broadcasters.

It would seem that the time is ripe for a new shuffle of radio's musical cards, that the bigwigs of the ether might concentrate on an effort to make the foremost tunesmiths of the day more radio-conscious. Radio today is universally recognized as the principal medium of communication. It counts its audience in the millions. It has placed politics on a new plane. It has given music and its interpretation a new significance.

* * *

It was radio that was chiefly responsible for the sensational success of Ravel's "Bolero." Suppose that "Bolero" had been writen expressly for the microphones, that its world premiere had taken place in a radio studio by the hands of a radio orchestra, would its ultimate success in the concert hall have been any less impressive? It is difficult to believe so. There might have been some hesitancy on the part of the front line maestros to sound its bizarre harmonies, but because the bizarre harmonies had first been given to the air would not have made them any less arresting.

Radio will not achieve its true destiny as a musical mouthpiece, it seems to me, until it can obtain the great composers of the day until it can convince them that it is the foremost medium for their wares.

And when they clear their throats and begin their work of persuasion the radio men should bare all the facts—their enrollment of first-class musicians and conductors, the vast appreciation for high-class music that they have developed, the opportunities for far greater financial returns than are possible in any other field of endeavor.

The composers might listen to reason. And listening, write more vitally, more inspiringly. With fewer restrictions to hamper them they might strike out into strange seas, bringing jazz to new heights, introducing, perhaps, a new note, making paltry by comparison the efforts of the Russians of the last century when they brought an Oriental touch to music.

Yes, indeed, the radio titans and the leading masters of music ought to get together. And the sooner the better.

● STANDARD RATING SCALE for Electric Refrigeration

● Is the refrigerator manufactured by a reliable company with proper experience in the electric refrigeration field?

● Has it plenty of food and shelf space?

● Is the cabinet itself well designed, sturdily built and properly insulated?

● Is there provision for the freezing of an adequate supply of ice cubes? (Quantity of ice rather than number of cubes, which may be of large or small size, should be taken into consideration).

● Will the refrigerator constantly maintain a proper temperature for the preservation of foods?

● Can the freezing of ice cubes and desserts be speeded up when the need arises?

● Can this extra freezing speed for ice cubes be had without affecting the temperature on the food shelves? (Too low a temperature on the shelves will, of course, injure food).

● Is there a place to keep ice cream, meat, fish, game, "quick frosted" foods or extra ice cubes indefinitely at a below freezing temperature?

● Are these various temperatures (a. extra fast freezing; b. fast freezing; c. below freezing for storage; and d. normal food preservation temperature) automatically maintained without any attention from the owner?

● Does the refrigerating unit operate often or infrequently? (The fewer "stops" and "starts" the longer the unit will last and the less it costs to run).

● How long will the cooling unit continue to cool the refrigerator even though the current is shut off? (Refrigeration should continue for 10 or 12 hours).

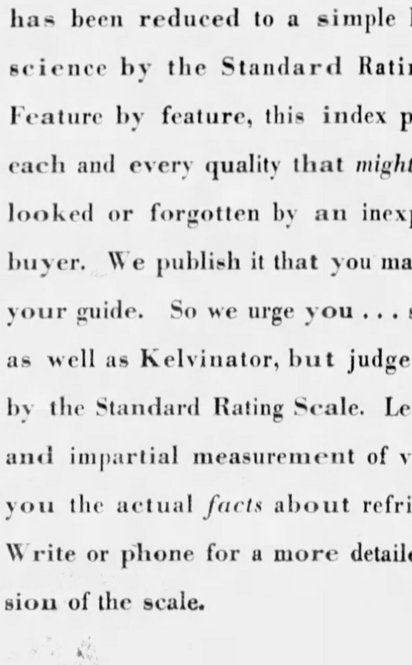
● Can the back parts of all shelves, even the lowest, be reached without kneeling or sitting down?

● Has provision been made for keeping vegetables fresh and crisp?

● Can the refrigerator top be used to "set things down for a moment" while the contents of the cabinet are being rearranged?

● Will the refrigerator add to the attractiveness of the kitchen?

● Has the experience of users over a long period of years proved the refrigerator long-lived and dependable?



The whole process of refrigerator choice has been reduced to a simple but exact science by the Standard Rating Scale. Feature by feature, this index points out each and every quality that might be overlooked or forgotten by an inexperienced buyer. We publish it that you may make it your guide. So we urge you . . . see others as well as Kelvinator, but judge them all by the Standard Rating Scale. Let this fair and impartial measurement of value give you the actual facts about refrigerators. Write or phone for a more detailed discussion of the scale.

WATCHING AMUSEMENT PARADE IN HOLLYWOOD, GOTHAM AND HERE

Moss Hart, the Playwright, Appalled at Number of Movie Rasputins

By HARRISON CARROLL.

(Copyright, 1931, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, March 18.

Moss Hart, who, with George S. Kaufman, wrote "Once In A Lifetime" before he had ever seen Hollywood, finds the film colony does not improve upon acquaintance.

"The celebrated Hollywood parties," accuses the young playwright, "are excessively dull. About 10 o'clock they all degenerate into circles of people with everybody trying to find out how he stands with the boss.

George Jessel

"When you go into the Beverly Hills homes, you feel the trunk isn't unpacked upstairs.

"The main impression you get out of Hollywood is a sense of instability. Everybody is working from option to option. Nobody comes out with a frank opinion for fear it will be carried to the ears of an overlord. All is politics. The number of Rasputins to each studio is appalling."

Mr. Hart doesn't think the talkies are good for young writers.

"You get work accepted that is below the standard you should turn out," he explains, "and it does something permanent to you."

"Of course, if the movie moguls want to buy 'Once In a Lifetime,' and satarize themselves, that's another thing. And I don't care what they do with it," professes Hart, "so long as I get that old check."

HE DIDN'T ASK MUCH

Add to the queer requests made of film stars the letter received by Eddie Cantor from a man in Philadelphia.

"I read in O. O. McIntyre's column," writes the Quaker City fan, "that you are one of the best-dressed men in New York. Won't you please send me a silk-hat, sized seven and one-eighth. I attend a number of weddings and funerals, and it is practically my only form of entertainment."

Owing to stock market losses Cantor turned the letter over to George Jessel, who sent the man the hat.

LATEST GOSSIP

James Fiddler, Hollywood publicity man who recently married Dorothy Lee, has turned writer and will adapt a story for R-K-O. While he is in the throes of composition, Dorothy plans a six-weeks trip to New York . . . Irene Rich has a worn memorandum-book containing the starting date, finishing date and the salary she received on every picture of her career. The notations go back to the days when she was a $5 a day extra . . . Columnist John P. Medbury is to work with Eddie Cantor on the latter's new picture . . . Universal will make a talkie version of "Under Two Flags," that old melodrama in which Priscilla Dean and Wheeler Oakman once acted.

IMMORTALIZES SUB-CHASERS

It develops there is still one branch of the country's armed forces which has not been immortalized in the cinema.

Lew Lipton discovered it in the war-time sub-chasers and has written an original story, "Suicide Fleet" for Bill Boyd. The picture will be the star's first on the new R-K-O-Pathe program. At this writing there is talk of Mrs. Boyd (Dorothy Sebastian) playing the feminine lead.

Stuttering Mr. Ates Featured as Sheriff

Rosco Ates, stuttering printer of "Cimarron," is now doing a short subject under the direction of Harold Schwartz. Ates is playing a frontier sheriff in the piece. The supporting cast includes Warner Richmond, Charles K. French, Nelson McDowell, Harold Berquist and Lon Poff.

George Stone Lauds Burlesque Training

George Stone, who played Sol Levy in "Cimarron" for Radio Pictures, and who is now in New York, received his early training in burlesque. What's more, he's proud of it. A host of famous stars have come from burlesque, among them David Warfield, he points out.

Laughter

Laura La Plante, one of the ladies in "Lonely Wives," film coming Friday to the Fulton and Sheridan Square, keeps company with laughter.

YOUTH ADMITS SLAYING TWO

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP)—An undersized, 18-year-old boy confessed to police early today that he had slain two men within the past 10 days in hold-ups in Connecticut and New Jersey. He netted $54.

Arrested in a pool room, Rosario Bruno, of Thompsonville, Conn., was quoted by police as admitting that he and two confederates shot down Nick Legelis March 9 in a lunch wagon at Warehouse Point, Conn. Several days later, he said, he alone killed Harry Weiler, an attendant in a Trenton, N. J., gasoline station because he was "desperately in need of money."

As a result of his disclosures, police rounded up two men who gave the names of Samuel Bonelli, 40, and Charles Alloisa, 37, and charged them with violation of the anti-firearms law. Bonelli was given the gun used in the Trenton slaying, police said, and he passed it on to Alloisa. The weapon was found in the latter's cellar.

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

A catch-line of the advertising for "Lysistrata," Greek comedy in the Alvin, is "Call Her Lizzie." This was suggested by the character, Lysistrata, in Shaw's "The Apple Cart," called Lizzie throughout the play. The first matinee of this Grecian idea of fun is today. There'll be another p. m. show Saturday. Both for the benefit of those not allowed out at night.

Bargain week will prevail in the Nixon next week, when "Strange Interlude," in nine acts, three times the number in an ordinary show, will be staged. Customers are given so much drama for their money that it is necessary to up with the curtain at 5:30. They let you out for dinner, though, with no strings attached. One may dine at a hash-and-hurry or at a tea-and-tarry.

Keeping a chorus girl in jewels is one thing, but keeping her in clothes is nothing to speak about.

John Thorn, the gift of Mercer, Pa., to the stage, will join George Sharp's troupe next week, for the purpose of helping to give habitues of the Pitt (not bottomless) a glimpse of "Seventh Heaven." Anne Forrest also will toil in behalf of the same laudable intent.

Dick Powell will celebrate his second anniversary Friday. That is quite a remarkable age for a saxophone player to attain, but Dick really has lived longer than that, for this reference is to his second anniversary as a Pittsburgh master of ceremonies. During this time he has wavered between the Stanley and Enright, hesitating at one for a while and loitering at the other in the interim. He will begin to celebrate in the Stanley Friday. Dick appears to have become a habit with us.

KENNETH MACKENNA BECOMES DIRECTOR

The hope of becoming a director, which induced Kenneth MacKenna to leave the stage for the screen, has been realized through a new contract he has signed with the Fox Film Corporation. His first directorial assignment is not yet definite, but John Considine will act as associate producer on the picture.

MacKenna went to the films from the Theater Guild, with which he was associated as an actor-producer. Among the plays on which he did double duty were "Windows," "Forever After" and "What Every Woman Knows."

He was playing the lead in "The Big Pond," another of his own productions, early in 1928, when he was requested to make a test for Fox Films. He immediately went to Hollywood and, since his first talking picture, "Pleasure Crazed," has seldom been idle. When not acting in films on the home lot he has fulfilled engagements with other companies.

ENGLISH ACTRESS SIGNED BY MOVIES

Jill Esmond, now appearing on Broadway in Noel Coward's play, "Private Lives," has signed a contract with Radio Pictures.

High hopes are entertained for the future movie career of this British actress, who has been featured in many stage successes. In fact, so strong was the impression which she made with her talking screen test that her contract is a five-year one.

According to present plans, Miss Esmond will leave for Hollywood on May 1. No role has as yet been assigned her.

Miss Esmond comes of a distinguished English theatrical family. Her father, Henry V. Esmond, and her mother, Eva Moore, were regarded as two of the most talented artists of the British stage.

Miss Esmond was born in London. At the age of 14 she made her first stage appearance in "Peter Pan" at the St. James Theater. In 1924 she toured in "Eternal Spring," and played the leading role in "Pollyana." The following year she appeared with her mother in "Mary, Mary, Quite Contrary," also playing in "Hay Fever." "All the King's Horses," "Cat's Cradle," "Puss in Boots" and "Outward Bound" among her plays from 1926 to 1928. In the latter year she began her longest engagement in "Bird in Hand" at the Royalty Theater, London, wherein she also played in New York and Chicago. Following this appearance she did a number of films in England.

Holmes to Tell Of Modern Rome

Burton Holmes returns to Carnegie Music Hall tonight, when he is to present the first topic in a new series of his illustrated travel talks. Modern Rome is to be the subject. Everywhere throughout the new city is seen the progressive hand of Mussolini. It will be largely to this regenerated Rome of Fascismo that Mr. Holmes will direct his picturization and interpretative comment.

Capsule Criticism

Added to our crisp cracks from critical cusses dep't is Harold M. Bone's: ". . . the show has its high spots, but then, too, it often sags worse than Heywood Broun's trousers."

How Embarrassing!

". . . I like New York," columns Helen Rowland for ever so many newspapers, "for its ability to mind its own business. There is no other city in the world in which there is so little gossip. Your life, your ways, your morals and your secrets are your own business—and nothing goes over the back fence!"

Is my space read??????

Reportorial Inaccuracy

"Not so long ago," reports The Old Roue in the N. Y. Press, "Walter Winchell had a squib in the paper to the effect that the Nate Spingolds had phffft. More recently, however, Winchell himself was at Palm Beach a house guest of the Spingolds. This is not so much a checkup on Winchell's veracity as it is applause for Spingold's diplomacy."

We never were in the Spingolds house in our life, but this is not so much a check up on The Old Roue's diplomacy as it is on his veracity.

Overheard

"Is he embarrassed? You could hit him with an egg and cook it!"

Repartee

An editorial writer was showing off before a lobby crowd the other night.

"I am going to write a piece," he growled, "and give hell to the people who come late to the theater."

"Please don't," interrupted a ticket speculator; "they are infinitely preferable to those who do not come at all!"

Honesty's Dividend

A prominent society woman lost an earring in the Metropolitan Opera House the other day. She discovered the loss while in her car and dashed madly back to look for it. A man approached her.

"Are you looking for something?" he asked. "Yes," she replied, "I lost an earring."

"Is this it?" he said after he inspected the mate.

"Thanks so much," the grateful woman answered, "won't you please give me your name and address?"

"I think I know what you intend doing," he said, "but please don't."

"I must reward you in some way," she urged.

"If you know Otto Kahn," he said meekly, "you might introduce me to him. I have a score that no one will look at. Perhaps Mr. Kahn's influence—"

Some night next week a distinguished group will give it a hearing at Mr. Kahn's home.

The Squelch Horrible

It was a long show, according to Charles K. O'Neill, and nearly midnight when the curtain was rung up on the last act, disclosing an actor sitting wearily at a table. All was stillness. Not a word had been spoken for three minutes.

Finally a spectator expressed the sentiments of the audience.

"I trust, sir," he shouted, "we are not keeping you up!"

The Morning Mail

"What steams me up," complains T. F. Durning, of 44 Elm avenue, Manchester, N. H., "is the way you pan Vallee and praise Harry Richman. Vallee was in the Navy during the war—and where was Richman?"

In the Navy.

Trap

Charley Ray tells about the two producers, who were enemies. They were on the same committee, however, to better conditions in the theater.

"There are a hundred ways of making money in show business," said the first.

"Yes," reminded the other, "but only one honest way."

"And what is that?" asked the fellow.

"Ah," was the vicious retort, "I thought you wouldn't know it!"

Ouch!

Broadway simply can't be bothered with temperament, although a lot of people never discover that they have it until they get to Broadway. Take the case of the high strung chinema star who had an appointment with a swanky hairdresser and failed to show up.

So when she called a week later the place went to no pains to please her. The impatient star gave the hairdresser a piece of her alleged mind.

"Lissen here," snapped the hairdresser, "you may be a screen star out in Hollywood, dearie, but here you are just another marcel!"

Newspaper Stuff

Art Bossin chases fire wagons for a Canadian rag, but one day he was assigned to get descriptive stuff at a prayer meeting conducted by one of those evangelists who make religious whoopee.

Bossin managed to worm into a doorway, and was about to race back to the office when the congregation knelt to pray.

The revivalist, walking silently among the crowd, noticed him.

"Well, my man," he said, "have you decided to give your soul to the Lord and be saved?"

"I am a reporter!" said Bossin stiffly.

"Oh," the Reverend apologized, "I beg your pardon."

LAW AIDS MAN FIGHT POVERTY

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP.)—The mill of the law started grinding in behalf of a modern King Lear, as the court characterized him.

Supreme Court Justice Levy granted a motion filed on behalf of Dr. Robert S. Simmons, 76, and poverty-stricken, asking appointment of a receiver for a $59,000 mortgage on the home in which the doctor lives and which his daughter has sold.

The court learned Dr. Simmons gave the property to his daughter, Mrs. Sarah Ann Kiefer, on the condition that if it ever were sold, he would receive half the proceeds. He got nothing, his petition stated.

Justice Levy said:

"A victim of filial ingratitude and faithlessness."

Dr. Simmons said his daughter has been living in comparative luxury, spending her income on trips to Europe, while he has been subsisting on a $35 a month state pension and $10 a month which the daughter was ordered to contribute toward his support.

2 STILLS, 3 MEN SEIZED IN RAIDS

Raiding adjoining dwellings in Oakdale street, North Side, late yesterday prohibition agents and constables seized a still and large quantities of mash and moonshine in each, according to their reports.

A 50-gallon still, 100 gallons of moonshine and 11 barrels of mash were found in the home of John Rozan, 36, at 3990 Oakdale street, agents said. Rozan was released on his own recognizance.

The other raid, on the home of John Paliyan, 35, at 3992 Oakdale street, yielded the agents a 25-gallon still, they declared.

Frank Trenga, 22, was released on a $1,000 bond, agents said, following a raid on a building at 6309 Rapidan way, where 130 pints of home brew and several quarts of moonshine were confiscated.

GREEN OFFERS WAR TAX PLAN

WASHINGTON, March 18. (AP.)—Heavy taxation was advocated before the War Policies Commission by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, as the best means of taking the profits out of war.

Opposing the conscription of capital, the labor head said the only practical way to prevent profiteering was to recapture excessive earnings through heavy war profit taxes.

He agreed with previous witnesses that there should be some control of prices, but opposed the proposal by Bernard Baruch, former chairman of the War Industries Board, to freeze all prices at the outbreak of a conflict.

Green said the control of prices must be flexible enough to meet economic conditions.

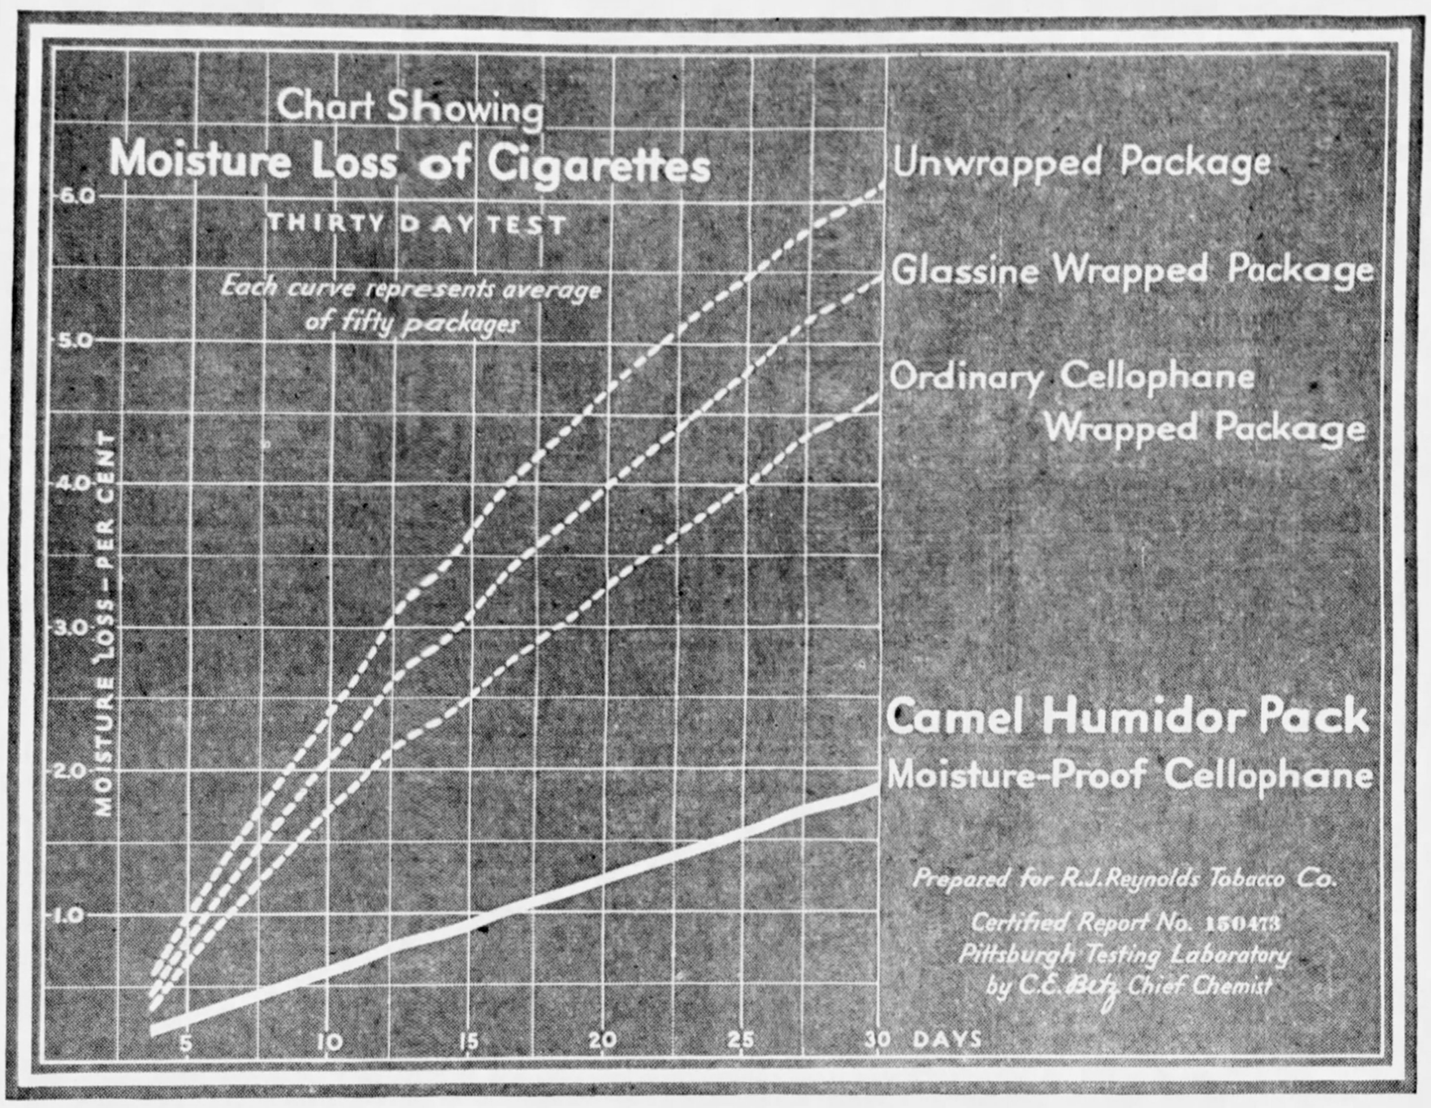
Smoke a FRESH Cigarette!



Cigarettes in prime condition have a moisture content of about 10%. It will be seen by the Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory Chart that cigarettes in the ordinary wrapped package lose more than half of their total moisture in thirty days and that only the Camel Humidor Pack delivers cigarettes to you in prime condition

THE whole country is talking about the throat-easy mildness and the prime freshness of Camel Cigarettes in the new Humidor Pack.

The above chart prepared by the Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory tells you why.

Please examine it carefully. It is an unfailing guide to cigarette selection and enjoyment.

As you can quickly see by the three upper curves on this interesting chart, cigarettes that lack the protection of the Humidor Pack lose their moisture rapidly from the day they are manufactured.

And day by day as this moisture disappears, the smoke from these cigarettes becomes harsher, hotter, more unkind to the smoker's throat.

Not so with Camels!

The Humidor Pack is moisture proof and sealed air-tight at every point. It protects the rich, flavorful aroma of the choice Turkish and Domestic tobaccos of which Camels are blended.

Make these tests yourself

It is so easy to tell the difference between parched dry cigarettes and fresh prime Camels that it is no wonder everybody is reaching for a fresh cigarette today.

Your fingers identify stale, dried-out tobaccos at once. While a Camel is flexible and pliant.

Your ears can tell the difference too. For a dust-dry cigarette crackles under pressure.

But the real test is taste and there is simply no comparison between the rich mildness of a Camel and the hot, brackish smoke from a stale, dry cigarette.

Switch to Camels just for today then leave them tomorrow if you can.

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO COMPANY, Winston-Salem, N. C.

CAMELS

Artificial heat in houses and apartments soon dries the moisture out of cigarettes wrapped the old fashioned way. It is the mark of a considerate hostess, by means of the Humidor Pack, to "Serve a fresh cigarette." Buy Camels by the carton—this cigarette will remain fresh in your home and office.

MOORE VERDICT SET ASIDE

The verdict awarding $95,225 commission to Attorney Samuel S. Shapira in the sale of the Pittsburgh Leader in 1923 was set aside yesterday when an appeal on the award was heard from the Alexander P. Moore estate executors.

The appeal, argued before Judges Harry H. Rowand, James H. Gray and Sylvester J. Snee, was taken by the Union Trust Company. The court held that Shapira had failed to fulfill the obligations of his special contract with the publisher and was not entitled to the 5 per cent commission. WASTE CHARGED CITY OVER MINE FIRE

SIDEWALKS of PITTSBURGH

By William Pfarr

William Pfarr

Last week the papers told about city detectives frustrating a racket, but only half the story was spot news. The other half convinced George Murren, the boss county detective, that appearances are misleading. The story had to do with "con" men—who sell something they don't own.

The "con" man will keep his eyes on any well-to-do businessman who is out of town, especially in Europe. Then he'll fake a cablegram to the businessman's secretary. It'll read something like this:

"FORWARDING IMPORTANT PACKAGE STOP PAY COLLECTOR FOUR HUNDRED FIFTY DOLLARS STOP CONFIDENTIAL."

Such a cablegram was received a few weeks ago by a downtown secretary, a young woman who was suspicious. She learned from the telegraph company that the cablegram was faked. She notified Murren and a trap was laid for the spurious collector.

Murren talked with the secretary by telephone and the next day went to her office to await the "con" man. He asked for the secretary. The office staff kept him waiting 30 minutes, during which they all eyed him suspiciously. He found out later they thought he was the "con" man.

Sir: When Ringling Brothers-Barnum & Bailey circus was playing a small town not more than 1,200 miles from Pittsburgh once, one of the elephants became unmanageable and ran about, smashing everything.

"Finally he bolted the circus grounds and tore down the highway, followed by a crowd of excited circus people. Eventually he butted into a frame house, crashed through a wall and landed in the parlor.

"When his followers caught up with him he was leaning against the piano, heaving and crying as if his heart were breaking. As the trainer led him away somebody asked why the tears.

"'Oh,' explained the trainer, 'he noticed that the keys on the piano were made of ivory taken from his dear dead mother's tusks.'

Veteran pilots like Jack Morris shake their heads and smile when somebody mentions the present dangers of aviation. Morris remembers the days when flying was a hazard—as recent as five years ago when the old war planes—the "Jennies"—were in service. The Jennies were rickety-rackety ships that hopped and bumped as they took off or landed. And as you moved through the air in one you wondered why the wings didn't fall off.

Those were the days, as they say. Today, with trimotored ships and cabins, Morris feels as safe as he does when he retires to his chair and fireplace with a book—if he does retire. He predicts seriously that in less than one year he'll be able to teach you to fly in one day. The secret will be in the planes; you'll be able to land or take off at the comparatively slow speed of 30 miles.

When Vincent Lopez brought his orchestra to town last year for a week he impressed everybody with his politeness and affability. There was nothing he wouldn't do for you, as the saying goes. So, when we read O. O. McIntyre's confession that he has always yanked to muss Lopez's hair, we thought it would be just like Lopez to seek out McIntyre, bow his head in obedience and chirp, "Go right ahead, Odd."

Well, yesterday was seventeenth of Ireland. Of all the nationalities that have helped to root the Indians out over here, the Irish are the only ones that make the biggest impression in celebrating their holiday. And, say, did you know that during all this depression over the world, and all countries having revolutions and changing leaders, why old Ireland has come through the best of all of 'em. FUND APPEAL IS REJECTED BY CRAFTON

Borough Engineer Says Contractor Has Used Old Machinery, Too Many Men

Extravagance in the expenditure of public funds by the city in fighting the mine fire under the McShane property, near the Crafton Borough line, has caused Crafton Borough officials to hold up financial assistance on the project.

With the job not one-third completed, according to Webster Hinnau, Crafton Borough engineer, the original $10,000 appropriation made by City Council has been exhausted, and Crafton has been asked to pay $3,333.34 immediately to permit the work to continue.

The John F. Casey Company, which has the contract from the city, has been using a steam shovel to dig a ditch 40 feet deep and 50 feet wide to cut off the fire. Moving so much earth is entirely useless, Hinnau declares, recommending a clam-shell bucket and a narrow ditch at much less cost.

TO PAY ONE-THIRD

The agreement of Crafton Council with the City of Pittsburgh for extinguishing the mine fire was that the borough would pay one-third of the cost, provided Crafton's share did not exceed $3,333.34.

According to Robert S. Chess, borough solicitor, the agreement does not call on Crafton to pay one penny until the fire is extinguished or confined to the boundaries of the McShane property.

The message from City Council asking for immediate financial assistance was conveyed to borough council last night by Mr. Chess.

Hinnau testified that the city has been paying the John F. Casey Company its cost on all work and equipment, plus 15 per cent. Hinnau said that after looking over the job and seeing how much work had been done, he could not recommend that the borough pay to the city the money which has been asked.

NO ACTION TAKEN

Borough Council took no action, standing on the agreement already made that no money be paid until the fire is out or confined. It is now understood that the cost to both the city and to the borough will be greatly increased.

Old equipment is being used on the job by the Casey Company, according to those in close touch with the job. Breakdowns and repairs have added to the expense of the operation, Hinnau said. Borough Council was also told that a force of men larger than necessary is working on the job.

PACKING FIRM CONTROL SOLD

H. Oscar Fisher, president of the William Zoller Company, today announced that the controlling stock of the company has been taken over by Oswald and Hess, a competing company. The Zoller concern is one of the oldest meat packing houses in the city.

Although it has not yet been confirmed, it is rumored that the new owners will merge the two concerns. The deal was closed yesterday. The Oswald and Hess Company is located at 1314 Spring Garden avenue. The Zoller plant also is located in Spring Garden avenue.

Plane Trip Short, Sues to Get Fare

BOSTON, March 18.—(AP.)—The failure of an airplane to reach an agreed upon designation was the basis of a suit against the Airport Corporation for the return of a $1,000 fare in Municipal Court.

Charles Dawe, of Medford, paid that sum in advance for an airplane trip from Boston to Harbor Grace, N. F., in July, 1928. In his suit he alleges that the plane landed him in Moncton, N. B. Of the original deposit $550 was returned. Judge Michael J. Murray reserved decision.

SCHOOL BUYING WASTE CHARGED

A charge that the board of education spent $1,736 excessively in buying manual-training supplies in 1930 has been made by E. L. Hogan, lumber dealer, in complaining that his low bid had been ignored in supplying lumber last June. He said a contract was given the E. M. Hill Lumber Company on a bid of $9,666.60, while he bid $7,939.97 for the same contract.

The board's reply is that C. M. McKee, superintendent of supplies, had recommended against giving Hogan the contract.

McKee is out of the city. His assistant said McKee doubted the ability of Hogan, who has no lumber yard, to make satisfactory delivery of the lumber.

There were 12 bids entered for the contract, the E. M. Hill being the second low.

Hogan is said to have told McKee he would made deliveries through the McCrady-Rodgers Company, but McKee, after conferring with officials of the McCrady-Rodgers concern, marked Hogan's bid "unsatisfactory."

CHAPTER LXVI.

Premier Clemenceau came to visit our Army Sunday, September 15, and was most enthusiastic in his congratulations upon our St. Mihiel victory. He wished to go over the field and particularly to visit Thiaucourt, but it seemed to me still too dangerous, and I said: "We cannot take the chance of losing a Prime Minister."

Moreover, the roads were filled with traffic moving in both directions, so much to M. Clemenceau's disappointment I gave instructions that he should not be allowed to go.

Gen. Pershing

At luncheon that day with the President and Mme. Poincare on their train at Campigny, just south of St. Mihiel, they also expressed themselves as being much pleased at our success, especially so because the town was now no longer under the enemy's guns.

After lunch we visited the site of their residence only to find that it had been demolished by German artillery. It had been a beautiful though modest house, and its location especially well chosen to give one a fine view of the Meuse Valley.

It was a sad occasion for them as they looked over the ruins, but they accepted it in the usual courageous French way by saying simply: "C'est la guerre," as did thousands of others in Northern France, many of whose homes had been destroyed, leaving scarcely a trace.

As we strolled about two American artillerymen whose brigade happened to be billeted in the village came forward, and when I told them who the visitors were they seemed to regard my remarks as an introduction, and both walked up and warmly shook hands with the President and Mme. Poincare and then quietly went about with us.

Reconstruction Started

It was just another illustration of our democracy, and the President and his wife were very gracious, though much amused by

ARSON SUSPECT HELD ON BAIL

Peter L. Gorris, owner of an apartment house at 708 Monongahela avenue, Glassport, was at liberty on bond today awaiting a hearing before Alderman George J. Anderson on an arson charge.

Fire Marshall Thomas L. Pfarr preferred the charge following an investigation of a fire in Gorris' apartment Sunday night which resulted in damage estimated at $800. Pfarr, in the information, alleged that oil-soaked rags were placed on the furniture in Gorris' apartment on the second floor and a can filled with gasoline was found in the kitchen.

Denying the charge, Gorris blamed enemies for the fire, according to Pfarr.

Schultz, 42, of Hays, driver of an automobile alleged to have caused an accident fatal to a pedestrian, today was held for action of the grand jury at a coroner's inquest into the death, March 4, of Joseph Holden, 74, of 3110 Hazelhurst street. SUES TO ENJOIN WELL OWNER

A mandatory injunction for plugging of an abandoned oil well to prevent pollution of the water supply of L. H. Brower, of Fawn Township, was asked in an equity suit in Common Pleas Court against Walter H. Hemphill, owner of a neighboring tract.

Brower averred that a large spring which supplied the water for his home and buildings on a five-acre tract along the Tarentum-Culmerville road was polluted and destroyed by salt water from a well 200 feet away drilled by Hemphill and abandoned in October, 1929, after about six months of small production. Hemphill failed to fill up and plug the well as required by law, Brower averred.

Woman Distributing Cash Rescued From Mob

Police and firemen saved Mrs. Esther Klema, 54, of 1920 Sarah street, from probable injury late yesterday when they dispersed a crowd of men, mostly professional panhandlers, who started a rush at the woman's distribution of money to the "poor" at Water and Smithfield streets.

The rush began, according to police, when the woman's benevolence became known to the panhandling fraternity. Mrs. Klema was jostled by the crowd which began snatching the money from her hands. The charitable act ended with the arrival of police and firemen who took the woman to her home.

From her husband, Stephen Klema, police said, they learned that his wife had given away money in a similar manner once before. Mrs. Klema was said to have obtained the money yesterday by pawning her jewels.

FIGHT URGED FOR BILL PROVIDING CITY MANAGER HERE

VOTERS BLAMED FOR LACK OF INTEREST

Business Rule City's Need, A. Leo Weil Declares at Chamber of Commerce

A plea to commercial, fraternal and civic organizations to demand of the state Legislature that it pass the Moore bill providing for a city manager plan of government in Pittsburgh was made by A. Leo Weil in an address before the municipal affairs committee of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday.

He criticized voters of the city and county for lack of interest in good government, declaring that with an adult population of 780,000 in Allegheny County only 230,000 voted for governor in the last primary fight, and 218,000 in the November election.

'END OF FAVORITISM'

He said:

"Responsible business men and citizens of ability and vision, under the city manager plan, could be persuaded to administer the funds of the city. The Mayor's power could be checked, and he would be answerable to Council. Favoritism would be a thing of the past.

"Already this plan has been adopted and put into effect in 442 cities of the United States. Only in two or three instances has it failed its purpose."

BUSINESS PLAN

Reciting the benefits that would accrue to Pittsburgh under the city-manager plan, he said:

"City employes today are spending two-thirds of their time fixing political fences.

"Nothing like this would exist if there was a city manager in Pittsburgh. The city-manager plan fixes the responsibility of each administrative officer. Political jobs wouldn't go to favorites, for the city manager would be obliged to select department heads capable of conducting business efficiently."

MANAGER PLAN TO BE TOPIC

Walter J. Millard, field secretary of the National Municipal League and the Proportional Representation League, and a member of the committees which framed and established the city-manager form of government for Cleveland and Cincinnati, was to explain the operation of the plan at a meeting of the state and federal affairs committee of the Civic Club of Allegheny County in the Civic Club rooms in Hotel William Penn at 4 p. m. today.

He has taken part in campaigns to adopt new charters in 27 cities and probably has spoken on municipal government to more people than any other man. The talk will be open to the public. Dr. Ralph S. Boots, chairman of the state and federal affairs committee of the Civic Club, will preside.

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., March 18.—More than 250 dentists from Fayette, Washington, Westmoreland and Indiana counties were expected to attend the annual meeting of the Four-Counties Society at the Nemacolin Country Club, west of here today. Speakers listed included Dr. Mendel Nevin, New York City; Dr. Dressler, Cleveland, O., and Dr. Eselman, of the University of Pittsburgh.

Police Arrest Six In Restaurant Brawl

North Side police today were searching for a man who struck George Pappas, 37, of 506 Arch street, on the head with a chair during a fight in a coffee house at 34 East Lacock street last night.

Three stitches were placed in the victim's head at Allegheny General Hospital. Police arrested six men as witnesses and later released them on their own recognizance.

Youthful Robbers Filling Sing Sing

OSSINING, N. Y., March 18.—(AP.)—Robbers, particularly 19-year-old and younger robbers, are filling up Sing Sing.

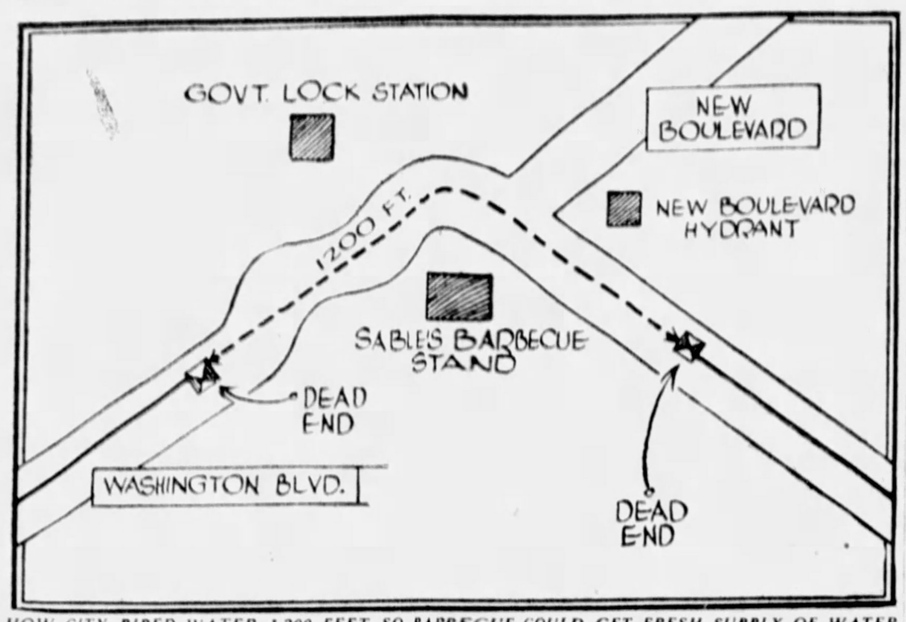
You Having Trouble Getting City Waterlines? Sable's Barbecue Got One Right Away

HARRY SABLE'S LOVELY BARBECUE STAND ON CITY PARK PROPERTY, WASHINGTON BLVD.

The city park property that not long ago was graded and beautified to park plenty of autos around this low building, a barbecue stand at the river end of Washington boulevard.



HOW CITY PIPED WATER 1,200 FEET SO BARBECUE COULD GET FRESH SUPPLY OF WATER

Between these two "dead ends," the city laid pipes so that the barbecue could get water. Other sections of the city have been asking for water pipes for years—unavailingly!

Political Favoritism Seen In Laying Water Line To Park Barbecue

After 10 years of active campaigning, residents of Chicken Hill persuaded the city to run a water main through their district, but a single request of Harry Sable, the police surgeon's brother, brought a 1,200-foot main to Washington boulevard to supply Sable's Highland Park barbecue stand.

Besides the barbeque establishment's, only two other taps were made from the new Washington boulevard main, which cost the taxpayers $2,100. A government lock station, which formerly piped water from the pumping station and the new Allegheny River boulevard are supplied by the new main.

To Sable, Council gave permission to erect a barbeque stand on park property for $600 a year rent. A few months before Council had refused the request of Mrs. Stella Stewart, a widow, to build a stand on the park property, because "it would spoil a view of the river." Mrs. Stewart bought property at the other end of the boulevard for which she pays $800 taxes annually.

After Council had refused Mrs. Stewart, other stands owned or sponsored by Mike DeRosa, "king pin" of Twelfth Ward politics, were permitted to operate on park ground.

James Stewart, son of Mrs. Stewart, charges the politically-sponsored stands are not forced to conform to the 10.30 p. m. closing order governing the parks.

VOLPE KIN GETS POLICE JOB

Joseph Corteel, brother-in-law of John Volpe, Wilmerding's stormy political leader, was appointed police chief of Wilmerding Borough at the regular monthly meeting of Council last night.

Corteel succeeds J. B. Maguire, who resigned February 1. Regis Butler, night captain, has been acting chief since Maguire's resignation.

DECLARES 'RED' RULE FAILURE

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP.)—Lieut. Gen. Robert Lee Bullard, retired, said last night in a radio address that communisms never have been successful and never will be because they do not satisfy human nature.

Gen. Bullard said Russia's communism is falling far short of its original intentions. Out of a population of 150,000,000 he asserted, but 1,200,000 are numbered in the Communist party.

Contrary to Russia's plans, Gen. Bullard stated, an oligarchy functions instead of government by the people; class distinction remains; a great standing army is being built, and banks and paper money are continued.

Suspect Arrested As Death Car Driver

CUMBERLAND, Md., March 18.—(AP.)—James W. Randall, 23, of Westernport, Allegany County, was arrested by a state police officer and charged with being the driver of the automobile that killed Henry Harrison Warnick, 79, of Barton, last February 13.

Randall was brought to the jail here and according to the officer made a statement in which he admitted driving the car. At the time of the accident the car did not stop.

FEARS FOR JOB, HANGS SELF

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP.)—Dr. Benjamin F. Battin, 55, resident vice president of the National Surety Company, hanged himself in his Eighth avenue hotel room. He left four sealed envelopes. Mrs. Battin told police her husband had been brooding because he believed his contract with the surety company, expiring April 1, would not be renewed.

Dr. Battin, formerly a Swarthmore College professor, was sent to Germany during the World War on a special mission for the Red Cross.

Injured in Crash, Sues Driver's Estate

FRANKLIN, Pa., March 18.—A sequel to an auto accident that occurred after the auto races at Altoona last summer, Lelia Henderson Brown, of Clintonville, brought suit in Venango County Court for $25,000 against Lorenzo O. Hoffman, administrator of the estate of O. L. Hoffman, with whom Miss Brown was riding when his car struck a tree. Hoffman met instant death. Miss Brown suffered numerous injuries.

COUNTY SEEKS ROAD FUND

County Commissioners will consider, probably this week, further extensions to the road building program if they can "find" about $1,000,000 to finance pending requests from taxpayers for highway projects.

At a commissioners' meeting yesterday, the Department of Public Works reported approval of an improvement, proposed by the County Planning Commission, of the Middletown and Coraopolis road, extending from Robinson boulevard near the Wilson farm, nine-tenths of a mile south to intersection of McKees Rocks and Forest Grove road. The estimated cost is $70,000.

The department, responding to a commissioners' request, reported that a proposed realignment of Babcock boulevard from Keown Station to North Park would cost $316,000.

Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong said:

"I think we should hold these projects up until later in the week and take them up with similar proposed improvements that might run upwards of $1,000,000. We might be able to find some way of financing them with commissioners' bonds."

U. S. to Enforce Perishable Food Act

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP.)—The Agriculture Department plans to press its campaign for enforcement of the perishable agricultural commodity act.

Two solicitors have been appointed under a $100,000 appropriation provided by Congress to carry on the licensing of commission merchants, brokers and dealers in fresh fruits and vegetables and adjust more than 40 complaints arising under the act.

Plays With Bonfire; Boy Dies of Burns

WAYNESBURG, Pa., March 18.—Burns, received while kicking the embers of a bonfire which he and six of his small brothers and sisters had built, proved fatal to Albert Tallirico, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Tallirico, of Clarksville.

Patrick Ireland Can't See Green; No Marine

ATLANTA, Ga., March 18.—(AP.)—Patrick Ireland, of Dublin, Ga., tried to enlist in the Marine Corps yesterday. Ireland was "color blind" and was rejected. He failed to recognize green.

WATER SERVICE SUIT REJECTED

Judge James H. Gray in Common Pleas Court dismissed an equity action by the Edgeworth Water Company seeking to restrain Sewickley Borough and the commissioners of the Sewickley Water Works from extending the Sewickley water lines into Edgeworth Borough.

The suit objected to a connection to supply water to the Edgeworth Club from the Sewickley works. The Edgeworth company contended that the Sewickley commissioners must procure a certificate of public convenience from the Public Service Commission. Judge Gray rejected this contention.

His opinion recited that a special act of 1873 empowered the Sewickley commissioners to supply portions of adjoining townships designated by the commissioners. Prior to 1892 they included a portionn of Leet Township, now Edgeworth Borough.

AGED MAN HURT, BALKS QUIZ

Refusing to explain how he had been injured, Edward Sullivan, 76, of 202 South Euclid avenue, was found at Fifth and Hamilton avenues early today, suffering a fractured skull and severe body bruises.

A pedestrian discovered Sullivan wandering at the intersection and questioned him. A few minutes later it was discovered that the aged man had been injured. He was removed to the Pittsburgh Hospital where his condition was reported as serious.

FALLS THROUGH SHOW WINDOW

His left leg and back lacerated in a fall through a window in the East Liberty Pharmacy, at 6300 Frankstown avenue, Harry Haggerty, 24, of 1113 South avenue, Wilkinsburg, was in Belvedere Hospital today.

Haggerty, a window trimmer, fell from a stool while decorating the window last night. Employes of the pharmacy took Haggerty to the hospital where he was attended by Dr. G. W. Alvin, who said an artery in the victim's leg was severed.

RALLY UPHOLDS DRY LEAGUE'S PROGRAM

Indorsement of Education Plan Voted; Pennington Assails Political Foes

A resolution approving the 5-year program announced by the Anti-Saloon League was adopted unanimously at a banquet held by supporters of the National Forward Movement of the organization held in McCreery's dining room last [illegible]. The program seeks to mould public sentiment through education, election of prohibition advocates to public office and [illegible] to all officeholders to support the Eighteenth Amendment.

Speakers were John D. Pennington, prohibition administrator for Pennsylvania; Dr. William P. McGarey, aide to Supt. F. Scott McBride, and Dr. Ernest H. Cherrington, director of education and research of the Anti-Saloon League.

PLAYS POLITICIANS

Pennington, decrying the election of "disloyal, dishonest politicians," declared that only by education can a feeling for prohibition be brought about, and only by such a feeling can enforcement be achieved.

Dr. McGarey declared that before any change can be considered, a reasonable substitute for present methods must be offered, and that such a substitute must be one that has not already been tried and found wanting. He upheld modern youth, saying:

"I think we have one of the finest generations of youth that America has ever known."

NATIONAL PROBLEM

Speaking on "The Implications of the Wickersham Report," Dr. Cherrington said:

"The commission says prohibition is a national problem and needs a national remedy. It cannot be turned over to state administration. It admitted there had been no adequate enforcement. It further cited the saloon cannot return and that the Eighteenth Amendment cannot be repealed."

'TORCH SLAYER' IN SOLITARY

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., March 18.—(AP.)—Harold Herbert Schroeder, of Mobile, Ala., convicted "torch slayer," was in solitary confinement at the Indiana State Prison here, prisoner No. 14504, although technically he has not been committed to prison.

When he arrived at the prison it was discovered his commitment papers were dated January 16, instead of March 16, and they were returned to the Marion County Criminal Court at Indianapolis for correction. In that court he was convicted of voluntary manslaughter for the death of an unknown hitch-hiker, whose body was found in Schroeder's flaming automobile last May 31. His sentence is two to 21 years.

Despite the commitment error, Schroeder was taken through the routine of entering the prison. His possessions taken from him, he was fingerprinted and photographed. He will stay in solitary confinement two weeks, Warden Walter C. Daly said.

Kidnapers Brand Girl With Needle

LOS ANGELES, March 18.—(INS.)—Painfully branded by six gangsters who kidnaped her last night, Miss Florence Chevez, 22, was undergoing treatment today for the burns. She walked to Lincoln Heights Police Station after she was liberated, and exhibited six crosses seared in her arms and legs by an electric needle.

RUSS CONGRESS RESTORES JOBS

MOSCOW, March 18.—(AP.)—Restoration of Alexis Rykoff, recently deposed as premier, and several others who were jounced out of their posts in recent shakeups was one of the surprising developments the sixth All-Union Soviet Congress which adjourned last night.

Rykoff does not come back as premier, but he was elected to the important Central Executive Committee, along with Nikolai Bukharin and Michael Tomsky. Not long ago both Bukharin and Tomsky appeared to be in as great disfavor as Rykoff himself.

Harmony seems to have been re-established between the Rights and Lefts and there was a lot of handshaking as the congress broke up so the delegates could go back home for the spring planting.

The three outstanding Rights who have been reinstated are the forerunners of others who will be returned to grace, observers say, and the action of the congress is interpreted as further indication that Joseph Stalin is still the strong man of Russia.

Calls Coast Guard To Help Land Fish

LOS ANGELES, March 18.—(AP.)—Uncle Sam's guard vouches for this fish story.

J. D. Jeanes and his son, fishermen, said they hooked a 350-pound sea bass, and during the battle the motor of their 46-foot boat became disabled. The bass started toward shore, towing the boat. Jeanes hoisted distress signals, and a Coast Guard cutter answered. They landed the fish.

WOMAN SLAIN, SEEK ROBBERS

CHICAGO, March 18.—(AP.)—Search for the slayers of Miss Norma Newby, 37, whose body was found half buried in snow in a forest preserve last night, shifted today to Virginia. The woman had been missing since March 2.

While police were questioning Frank J. Murray, representative of an engineering firm and an admirer of Miss Newby for 17 years, his brother, D. J. Murray, gave authorities a letter from Sheriff Thomas B. Fleanor, of Jonesville, Va., saying Murray's car was found there.

In a telephone conversation, Fleanor told Chicago police two men abandoned the car there, March 3 or 4. Attempting to steal another car, they fled when the sheriff tried to arrest them.

Police announced Murray and Arthur Dorion, to whom Miss Newby was reported engaged, would be held only to appear at the coroner's inquest this afternoon.

Frank Murray had previously told authorities he was kidnaped March 2, while riding in an automobile with Miss Newby, by two men, who slugged and robbed him.

He said he did not report Miss Newby's disappearance until a week later because he did not want his wife to learn of the romance.

Congressman Cheats Self in Tax Report

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP.)—Survivors of the annual struggle over income tax blanks may gain a bit of comfort from this. Representative Hawley (Rep.), Oregon, just got his return back for correction. He had overcharged himself.

Hawley is chairman of the Ways and Means Committee that writes all tax legislation. It directed the revenue act of 1928 under which collections are made. He also is chairman of the joint committee of the House and Senate on internal revenue taxation and co-author of the tariff act of 1930.

Machine Guns Guard Ex-Capone Gangster

LONG BEACH, Cal., March 18.—(AP.)—Police squads armed with machine guns are convoying Ralph Sheldon, former Al Capone lieutenant, and three associates between the Los Angeles County jail and Superior Court here, where they are on trial.

Sheldon was arrested after a gun fight with police following the kidnaping of E. L. "Zeke" Caress, Los Angeles and Agua Caliente bookmaker, and his wife. Policeman W. H. Waggoner was paralyzed by a wound received in the fight.

Gandhi Bars Plan For Statue of Self

BOMBAY, India, March 18.—(AP.)—Mahatma Gandhi today refused to allow his admirers to immortalize him in stone.

Writing Nationalists at Ahmadabad who wished to erect a marble monument in the center of the city to commemorate his services to India, he said that the money which might be spent in such a statue could far more appropriately be devoted to ameliorating the deplorable condition of the poor.

KERR HONORED AT BANQUET

City Controller James P. Kerr was honored last night by men prominent in social and political circles at a banquet in the Pittsburgh Athletic Association. Several hundred attended.

Avoiding comment on the present condition of city affairs, Mayor Charles H. Kline led an array of speaker who eulogized Dr. Kerr.

Both the Mayor and County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, in their addresses, contended that besides being a master physician and surgeon, Dr. Kerr was also a finished politician. The Mayor declared the more he saw of most people the more thankful he was he was still permitted to select his own friends. He mentioned no names.

The speaking program was opened by Councilman George J. Kambach. Invocation was pronounced by the Rev. W. L. C. Sampson, of the Ninth United Presbyterian Church. Judge Sylvester N. Snee was toastmaster.

Other speakers included F. J. Clasterman, vice president of the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania; W. S. Van Dyke, vice president of the Pittsburgh Peoples Trust Company, and Congressman Harry A. Estep. Benediction was said by the Rev. Edward J. Moriarity, of St. John's Church.

'Akron Mary' Unshaken In Alibi for 'Hymie'

CLEVELAND, March 18.—(AP.)—Numerous witnesses for the state in the investigation of the murder of former Councilman William E. Potter will attempt, probably today, to identify "Akron Mary" Outland Woodfield as the mystery woman who was allegedly seen with "Pittsburgh Hymie" Martin shortly before the killing, in the apartment where Potter was slain.

Martin, who is charged with the murder, has been identified as the tenant of the death suite, and witnesses said they saw him there and in other parts of the city on various days close to the time of the killing.

Mrs. Woodfield, who is held as a material witness, told police, who continued to question her, that Hymie and she were at the home of his brother in Dormont (Pittsburgh) the night of February 3, which, police said, was the time of the killing.

Mary's mother, Mrs. Pearl Chambers, of Akron, pleaded with her yesterday to "tell the truth," but police did not reveal that Mary had made any change in her alibi story.

Several alleged discrepancies in Mrs. Woodfield's story were pressed upon her in the questioning and the police were hopeful she would break down and discredit her defense of herself and Hymie, but no sign of her yielding had been disclosed.

Last night at 6:30 o'clock the Eighth United Presbyterian Church was the scene of the marriage of Miss E. Mary Brant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Brant, of Perrysville avenue, North Side, and James Edward Vaux, son of the late Dr. and Mrs. George H. Vaux. Officiating was the Rev. Dr. W. I. Wishart, before a prie dieu at either side of which were placed large urns of ascension lilies and cathedral candles.

Evening Wedding

The bride given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory satin and lace, with a full court train. A cap of lace finished her veil of ivory tulle and lace, and her bouquet was of gardenias and lilies of the valley.

Miss Anna B. Brant, her sister's maid of honor, wore blue faille and tulle, having an abbreviated bustle, and carried spring flowers in yellow, peach and blue. The bridesmaids included Miss Mary Quigley, Miss Mary Graebing, Miss Evelyn Pfeifer and Miss Elizabeth Pitch, who wore frocks of rose beige lace with blue slippers and carried spring flowers. The tiny flower girl, June Justus, niece of the bride, wore shell pink chiffon and carried rose petals. Mrs. Brant wore floral lame banded with brown fox and Mrs. David W. Vaux, aunt of the bridegroom, wore fuschia brown chiffon.

Norman L. Park, of Ridgway, was the best man and the ushers included John G. Brant, brother of the bride; William Kissock, Harry Bates, John Crafts, Dr. Fred Wucher and William F. Stroud.

There was a reception for 200 guests at the home of the bride. The bridal table, with covers laid for 16 guests, was centered with spring flowers in a white dresden bowl and rainbow tapers.

Mr. and Mrs. Vaux left for Havana, Cuba, for their honeymoon, and will be at home in Wayne road after May 10.

One of Musical Club's Largest Audiences Hear Program

One of the largest audiences the Tuesday Musical Club has ever had assembled yesterday for the fine opera program which Miss Anne Griffiths had arranged with the assistance of Mrs. Mary Jones Sherrill and Mrs. Jessie Yuille Yon. More than 800 persons crowded into the auditorium and balcony of upper Memorial Hall, a gathering so large that the tea committee was compelled to reorder the St. Patrick's cakes which were served with the tea.

The two tables were particularly attractive in their appropriate adornment. Lovely rectangular arrangements of white hyacinths and white sweet peas centered each table and around and about the centerpieces were green satin ribbons and bows. Large shamrocks marked the places of the pourers, who included Mrs. George J. McKee, Mrs. Edward H. Teter, Mrs. John A. Ralston, Miss Sara Robb, Mrs. A. E. Duckham, Mrs. William Gates, Mrs. Will Rhodes and Mrs. Garnet Speer.

No mention need be made of the artists and their performers, since J. Fred Lissfelt's review appears elsewhere.

TECH STUDENTS HEROES AT FIRE

Don Bonhoff, 21, and Edwin J. Smith, students at Carnegie Institute of Technology school of drama, were heroes today in rescue roles far more realistic than they had ever before been called upon to play.

Observing smoke pouring from the home of Mrs. H. B. Jackson, 55, of Heidelberg, as they were returning to Pittsburgh late yesterday, the students sounded an alarm, forced the front door of the Jackson home and found Mrs. Jackson groping helplessly through the smoke. They led her to safety.

NEW JACKET MODE CREATES SPLENDID COLOR CONTRASTS

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, March 18.—The dress that would be coated with the veneer of fashion must complement its charm by a jacket this season. It seems quite a far cry back to the days when a dress was a dress and anything with a jacket was a suit and far removed from the frock section. But now, even every little evening frock has its own little capelet or scarf, when it hasn't got a jacket. And no self-respecting dress would think of stepping out without its accompanying jacket.

NOT ANY JACKET, if you please, but the jacket, that has been designed as part of the dress, as much a part as the bodice as the frock itself. It's an awfully interesting fashion, this, and gives wide scope for splendid color contrasts and schemes. Especially is it good in black with white, as all sorts of new and fascinating ways can be devised in working out this greatest and most artistic of all color combinations. That is why, with the advent of the little jacket and frock, there has been such a marked amount of black and white noted at most of the leading houses here.

THE HEIM afternoon frock of black and white printed georgette has a sleeveless little coat of black broadcloth. In lieu of sleeves, there are small capelets over the shoulder. These are in one piece with the coat itself. The coat, which reaches barely to the knees, is very slightly fitted at the waistline.

MUSIC

Tuesday Musical Club

Soldiers Memorial Hall

The Tuesday Musical Club gave one of their exceptional entertainments yesterday afternoon in Soldiers Memorial Hall, their annual opera program. A stage was adequately set under most inauspicious conditions, and the scenery became excellent background for the many good voices. Ingenious use of screens afforded a good curtain. The women looked especially well in their Elizabethan costumes.

Mr. Lissfelt

Instead of a concert with many arias and concerted numbers strung out for several hours, this tabloid opera is a most practical method of giving our local singers experience in costume and gesture, as well as binding their songs together into intelligent continuity. Parts of Mozart's "Don Giovanni" and Verdi's "Falstaff" lent their admirable music to this program and there was many a delightful moment.

Anne Griffiths directed the performance with the aid of Mary Jones Sherrill and Jessie Yuille Yon as stage managers. The singers included Helen Bell Rush, Martha V. Gerber, Margaret Garrity, Frances Bennett Gooding, sopranos; Mabel King and Sarah Jamison Logan, contraltos; Ernest Malaport and Henry Gill, tenors, and Reed Kennedy, Arnold Davies and Julius von Spindler Huehn, baritones. Earl Mitchell and Sybil Young played accompaniments for the singers, and the overture was played by the string ensemble of the club under the baton of Ruth Thoburn Knox, with the assistance of the woodwinds from the Saudek Ensemble.

SUPREME TEST OF WAR FACED VICTORIOUS U. S. ARMY

PERSHING LAID PLANS TO HIT ARGONNE

the cordial and other unconventional manner of their guests.

I returned to army headquarters, leaving the President and Mme. Poincare to be escorted by Col. Boyd, who was compelled by the President's insistence to take them to Thiaucourt.

Mme. Poincare

M. Clemenceau, who dined with me that evening, was quite annoyed when he learned about it as I had denied him the opportunity to be that far to the front.

Marshal Foch and I went to St. Mihiel a few days later, accompanied by Gen. Weygand and my aide, Col. Boyd, and as we walked around we found the people generally going about their business as though nothing had happened. The destruction of buildings was not so great as might have been expected, and the work of reconstruction had already begun.

Marshal Foch was very devout and wanted especially to visit the cathedral. When we entered, he knelt reverently and following his example all of us did likewise, remaining some minutes at our devotions. Weygand told me that it was Foch's custom to visit the church whenever he had an opportunity.

Another Great Offensive

We went from there to Hattonchatel, where we had a fine view overlooking the St. Mihiel battlefield, and as we stood on this prominent point Foch spoke with enthusiasm regarding the battle. Having spent a very pleasant half day, we returned to my quarters at Ligny-en-Barrois for luncheon.

In accordance with the understanding of September 2 we were now moving rapidly toward our second great offensive. Questions concerning the concentration and supply of the elements of the First Army in the battle areas were being worked out by the staff of that army, who were given every possible assistance by the staff at G. H. Q.

In my dual capacity as commander-in-chief and commander of First Army I was able promptly to place every facility of the A. E. F. at the disposition of the First Army.

With the Headquarters General Staff and the Services of Supply both in excellent working order, the business of the A. E. F. once general directions were given, was well conducted and I was free to devote my time to the operations.

The general plan of action of the Allied armies as agreed upon at the conference of commanders-in-chief July 24 was, to state it simply and briefly, that the offensive should continue, each army driving forward as rapidly as possible. The Allied and American operations during the summer had resulted in the reduction of the Chateau Thierry, Amiens and St. Mihiel salients, and the great offensive was now under way.

Immediately west of the Meuse River the battle line had remained practically unchanged since 1917. It was on this front that the American Army was to play its great part. In accordance with Marshal Foch's idea, offensives were to be launched by the Allies as follows:

(a) A British-French attack on the general line St. Quentin-Cambrai, advancing between the Oise and the Scarpe Rivers.

(b) French-American attack on the general line Reims-Verdun, advancing between the Suippes and the Meuse Rivers.

(c) A combined Allied attack east of Ypres.

(d) Between the attacks mentioned above, liaison was to be maintained by intervening armies.

Vital Parts of Line

These operations were to consist of attacks as nearly simultaneous as possible all along the Western Front. If successful, they would force the enemy either to disperse his reserves and weaken his defense generally, or concentrate his reserve power at what appeared to be the vital points, to the jeopardy of the remainder of his line.

The disposition of the Belgian, British, French and American armies on the wide front between the North Sea and Verdun was such that they would naturally converge as they advanced. So long as the enemy could hold his ground on the east of this battle line frontal attacks farther west might drive him back on his successive positions, yet a decision would be long delayed.

His main line of communication and supply ran through Carignan, Sedan and Mezieres. If that should be interrupted before he could withdraw his armies from France and Belgium, the communications in the narrow avenue between the Ardennes forest and the Dutch frontier were so limited that he would be unable adequately to supply his forces or to evacuate them before his ruin would be accomplished.

As our objective was the Sedan-Carignan Railroad, it was evident that the sector assigned to the American Army was opposite the most sensitive part of the German front then being attacked.

The danger confronting the enemy made it imperative that he should hold on in front of the American Army to the limit of his resources. From the enemy's point of view this was the vital portion of his defensive line because here it was closer to his main artery of supply, Carignan-Sedan-Mezieres, than at any other point. He could afford to retire his armies gradually from all fronts except the Meuse-Argonne, where he must hold until the last.

Yankees Menace Enemy

The strategical value of success against this portion of the German line had been apparent from the beginning, but at no time after the first battle of the Marne had the Allies been able to contemplate an offensive there, except perhaps as a remote possibility, should fortune in some unforeseen way turn in their favor.

The operation against this important sector of the enemy's line was to consist of an attack by the American 1st Army between the Meuse River and the Argonne Forest, supported by the French 4th Army to the west of the Argonne. Our thrust east of the forest by threatening the left flank of the enemy's position in front of the French 4th Army, on the Aisne River, would force his withdrawal and the combined or successive advances of both armies would throw the enemy back on the line Stenay-Le Chesne-Attigny and eventually on Mezieres.

Once the Argonne should be captured, these two armies would continue their joint attacks in the general direction of Mezieres and Sedan, with the object of severing the enemy's line of rail communications between Carignan and Sedan.

At this moment, the American 1st Army, holding the sector from the Moselle River to Watronville, southeast of Verdun, and flushed with success, stood as a menace against the German lines that protected Metz and the Briey iron region.

The second offensive about to take place required the extension of our lines to the north of Verdun, and from there to the western edge of the Argonne Forest, giving us a total front of 94 miles (from the North Sea to the Moselle).

Germans Well Fortified

The area between the Meuse River and the Argonne Forest was ideal for defensive fighting. On the east the heights of the Meuse commanded that river valley, and on the west the rugged, high hills of the Argonne Forest dominated the valley of the Aire River.

In the center the watershed between the Aire and the Meuse rivers commanded both valleys, with the heights of Montfaucon, Cunel, Romagne and of the Bois de Barricourt standing out as natural strong points. From these heights observation points completely covered the entire German front.

The terrain over which the attack was to be made formed a defile blocked by three successive barriers, the heights of Montfaucon, then those of Cunel and Romagne, and farther back the ridges of the Bois de Barricourt and of the Bois de Bourgogne. The Meuse River was unfordable; the Aire River fordable only in places. In addition to the heavy forest of the Argonne there were numerous woods with heavy undergrowth which were serious obstacles.

These natural defenses were strengthened by every artificial means imaginable, such as fortified strong points, dugouts, successive lines of trenches, and an unlimited number of concrete machine gun emplacements. With the advantage of commanding positions the enemy was peculiarly well located to pour oblique and flanking artillery fire on any assailant attempting to advance within range between the Meuse and the Argonne.

A dense network of wire entanglements covered every position. It was small wonder the enemy had rested four years on this front without being molested. He felt secure in the knowledge that even with few divisions to hold these positions his east and west lines of rail communication in rear would be well protected against the probability of interference.

Deficiencies Apparent

Having completed one major operation successfully and being now engaged in preparing for a second our lack of personnel for certain services and our deficiencies in material became still more apparent. Every possible emphasis was put in our cables to Washington on the urgency of supplying the items we needed most. In addition, our requirements for 1918 must be foreseen and provided for.

Explaining our situation to the War Department, one of my cables stated that "as a consequence, before deciding upon any plan of operations, I must have assurance of not only sufficient fighting troops for the execution of the plan, but also sufficient labor and S. O. S. troops to permit of necessary construction that must be completed in advance."

As to the training and shipment of later divisions, it was pointed out that they should be called into service in ample time to provide efficient units, it being important "that divisions should be organized far enough ahead so that the flow of fully trained divisions may keep every available troop transport busy from now on until the program is completed."

Among our troops recently arrived there was a serious lack of training in the use of the rifle. It seemed inexcusable to send over men who were deficient in this very elementary step in preparation, even though there may not have been time to train them otherwise.

The idea apparently prevailed at home that three months' instruction was sufficient, but it was never conceded by me that this was anything like adequate.

Even though the shipment of troops was much more rapid than was ever expected, making it often necessary to send units, whether their personnel was trained or untrained, some instruction in the use of the rifle should have been given.

Asks Thorough Training

As already pointed out, this deficiency might have been avoided by beginning earlier in the spring to increase the monthly drafts. The following cable on this subject was sent September 15:

"Am mailing you report on serious lack of training in replacements recently arrived from Camp Lee, Va. These men have received little instruction in gas defense, bayonet exercise and combat, interior guard, march discipline, school of soldier, care and use of rifle. Some had never handled rifle. Nevertheless, these men had been in service about two months. Essential replacements should receive instruction in fundamentals before departure United States, provided flow of replacements not thereby impeded.

"Current shortage in replacements requires men to be sent to first line divisions within five or six weeks after arrival in France.

"Unfair individual and ruinous efficiency his organization send recruit into battle without adequate training. Thorough instruction in United States must be given in school of soldier, use individual field equipment, personal hygiene, first aid, military courtesy.

"Particularly important infantry be given rifle practice to include 600 yards in United States. Do not understand why this condition should prevail with anything like proper supervision over training in camps at home. Suggest fullest investigation of methods and policies as to instruction."

Discuss Medical Matters

My diary contains the following: "Ligny-en-Barrois, Wednesday, September 18, 1918. Spent Monday visiting front line divisions. Tuesday had general discussion with McAndrew on new offensive. Conferred with head of Personnel Section on promotions. Martin Egan, also Julius Rosenwald, who has been visiting the front, came to luncheon.

Mr. Rosenwald

"Mr. Davison, Gen. Ireland, Cols. Wadhams and Perkins called today to discuss Red Cross matters. Called at headquarters of French Corps and Division Commanders serving with us. All appear to be very efficient."

The experience in St. Mihiel brought out the necessity of closer co-operation between the Red Cross and the Medical Corps hospital services. Mr. Davison, head of the Red Cross, and Gen. Ireland, Chief Surgeon, had worked out a plan by which certain elements of the Red Cross personnel would be taken into the Medical Corps.

I think Mr. Davison had some doubt how the proposal would be received, for when I approved it without a moment's hesitation he seemed somewhat surprised. The American Red Cross represented in a rather personal way all those who had contributed to its support that I felt it should be given a definite status with respect to the care of our sick and wounded although the scheme was never put entirely into effect.

FORD AND NOTED FRIENDS PART

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 18. (AP.)—Three old cronies have gone their way, Henry Ford to Dearborn, Mich., Harvey S. Firestone to his winter quarters at Miami Beach and Thomas A. Edison, senior member of the famed triumvirate, back to his rubber experiments in his laboratory here.

After spending a shorter vacation than usual at their winter home adjoining the Edison estate, Mr. and Mrs. Ford left in their private car for the north. Before departing, he predicted a second term of office for President Hoover and asserted America is enjoying good times but can't appreciate them.

Firestone, here with his son, Roger, bade the Fords and the Edisons goodbye after a five-day visit.

The three cronies spent some time in Edison's favorite haunt—the laboratory in which he is seeking to develop methods for the commercial production of rubber.

For Greater Safety on Every Highway

ALL FORD CARS ARE EQUIPPED WITH SHATTER-PROOF GLASS WINDSHIELDS

FOR greater safety in driving, every Ford car is equipped with a Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield. By reducing the dangers of flying glass it has saved many lives and prevented countless injuries in automobile accidents.

The value of this important safety factor has been known for years, but its use has been limited by expense. It is brought to you on the Ford as standard equipment only because of the efficiency and economy of Ford methods. Much pioneering work has been done in finding ways to manufacture in large volume at low cost.

It is interesting to know how the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield of the Ford is made and why it gives so much extra protection. The process of manufacture requires many separate operations, yet it can be explained in a few simple words.

Two pieces of plate glass, carefully ground and polished, are covered on one side with a thin coating of gelatine. This coating is baked hard, sprayed with liquid celluloid, and treated with a solvent.

Then, between the two pieces of glass, like the middle of a sandwich, is inserted a layer of special celluloid. This also has been treated with a solvent.

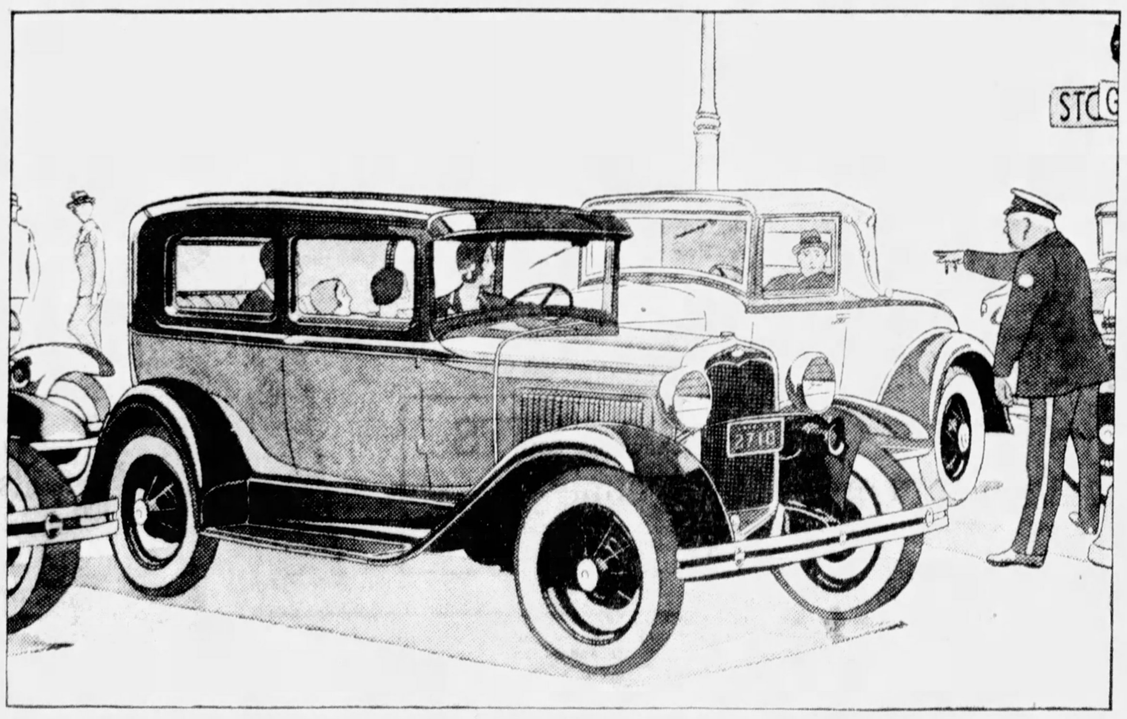
When heat and pressure are applied to the glass sandwich, this solvent helps to dissolve the surfaces in contact and they are actually fused together. It is almost like a welding process. The result is a single sheet of beautiful, clear, laminated glass. The final operation is sealing the edges as protection against air and moisture.

This laminated windshield will withstand a 50% harder impact before breaking than plate glass of equal thickness, and is more flexible under impact. When struck an unusually hard blow, it will crack, but the danger from flying glass is minimized because the pieces adhere to the layer of celluloid.

The greatest care is taken to insure uniform high quality. Plate glass is used for clear vision. One sheet in 150 is taken for test. For the impact test, a heavy steel ball is dropped sixteen feet to the center of a large sheet.

Other samples are subjected to ultra-violet rays and infra-red rays which give, in a few hours, an exposure equal to several years of normal driving. This is done to check the effect of the sun's rays and heat on the crystal clearness of the glass in actual use.

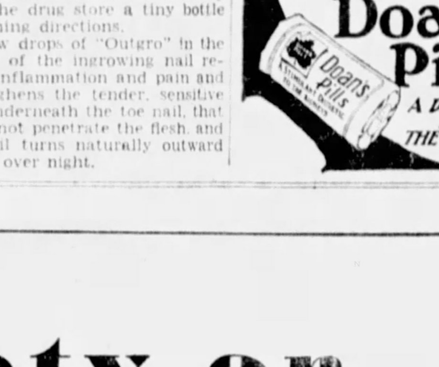
Many improvements have been made in the past three years so that today, Triplex shatter-proof glass is recognized as one of the greatest contributions to safety since four-wheel brakes. High speed and crowded traffic emphasize the need of the protection it affords. It is just another instance of the extra value in the Ford.



The Ford Tudor Sedan is an unusual value at $490

TWELVE OTHER BODY TYPES FROM $430 TO $630

All Ford prices are F. O. B. Detroit, plus freight and delivery. Bumpers and spare tire extra at small cost. You can purchase a Ford on economical terms through the Authorized Ford Finance Plans of the Universal Credit Company.

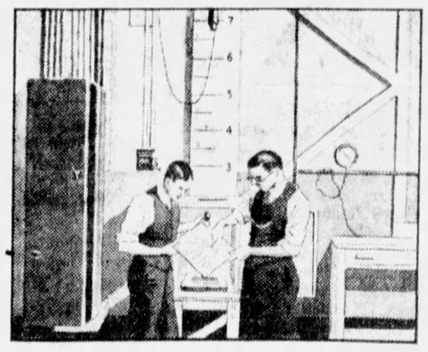


Thirteen Million Square Feet of Glass

The Ford Motor Company was the pioneer in making glass by a continuous machine process. Its manufacturing economies and unusual facilities make it possible to give you Triplex shatter-proof glass in the Ford without extra cost. The Rouge plant alone has a capacity of 13,000,000 square feet of glass annually. This calls for 27,300,000 pounds of silica sand, 8,580,000 pounds of soda ash, 7,930,000 pounds of limestone, 1,820,000 pounds of salt cake, 6,136,000 pounds of cullet, 78,000 pounds of charcoal, and 156,000 pounds of arsenic. For grinding and polishing, the machines use 118,440,000 pounds of sand, 7,873,000 pounds of stucco, 2,715,000 pounds of garnet, and 724,000 pounds of rouge.

No Flying Glass Here

A woman and three children were in this Ford when a passing car upturned a horseshoe in the road and sent it crashing into the windshield. No one was hurt because there was no flying glass.



The Impact Test

A heavy steel ball is dropped sixteen feet on the glass used for the Ford windshield as an impact test. Even under this severe blow there is no flying glass.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Don't Expect Sympathy for Self-Inflicted Tragedy

She's down in the mire and wants to get out.

That's her story and she sticks to it.

Trouble is—she sticks to it too long.

She has stuck to it so long that it has become her Favorite Act. And it is evident that she expects a Big Hand every time she does her turn.

Well, maybe you'll give her one. But as for me—listen . . .

"Dear Sally—

"Somehow I feel that you, or your gang, as you call your ardent readers, may be able to clear my vision and show me, through your column, where to look for the ray of hope that you seem to think gleams across the horizon.

Husband Left Her

"Myself, 'I can't see for lookin',' if you know what I mean. I'm all confused about things, and just when I get my right foot on terra firma, doubt takes hold of the other foot, and there I am!

"More than 10 years ago, the man who led me to the altar to receive the sacrament of marriage, stepped deliberately out of my life, leaving me high and dry, with no means of support—and no training whereby I might turn my hand to earn a decent living.

"I'm not exactly a fool, nor have I any physical defects, aside from a kink in the brain, but there must be something wrong with me some place, because I can't seem to get a job.

"A married man has been practically supporting me, but I know that he can't afford it, and besides, the idea is not so sweet smelling as I would like it to be.

Tired and Lonely

"My family . . .?

"Ah, yes, I have relatives here, and none of them want for anything, either. But they have no time for me. Strange, isn't it, that one in a family should be so different from the rest? Don't get the notion that I am morbid. No, I'm not quite that. I'm just tired and lonely, and wondering what it's all about. And somehow, I haven't yet found the proper place to put my petition.

"At the Altar of Forgiveness? Is that your suggestion? I've been there innumerable times. It is on my way from there that my left foot gets caught in the clay of doubt!

"Forgive me for taking so much of your time with this missive of despair, but where else am I to go . . .? Who else is there . . .?

"Show me the way if you can, and truly, I will be eternally grateful. I'm brave enough, but I'm afraid, too. Midway between the dusk and the dawn! How can I find my way?

"MABELLE."

So you're hovering—are you? "Midway between the dusk and the dawn."

Well, I admit that sounds romantic and tragic and intensely thrilling. And you naturally think that God and society and columnists should take a special interest in such an unusual case? But as a matter of fact, your case isn't in the least unusual. And it doesn't need any special miracle or publicity to "cleanse" your wound and get it going. You merely need to can your conceit, cut out the loafing and get busy.

All this loitering around altars—

And moaning into columns—

Isn't the sign of a lost soul, sister—

It's merely the sign of a lazy one.

Kidding Herself

You're not different from the rest of us sinful fools. You're not involved in any unusual dilemma. You're just kidding yourself — because it's much easier to dramatize your condition by thinking that you've some sort of psychic kink, than it is to face the fact that you're plain ornery.

Yet the fact is true.

You're living off a married man because you don't want to work. That's all. And you're just as well able to work as any other kid who parks her aching arches behind a notion counter for eight hours per. Only you think the world's coming to an end if your arches ache.

Well, it isn't.

Jar yourself loose. Quit dodging. Stand up on your own two feet, and be the regular woman God intended you to be. There's just as much independence and joy and self-respect waiting for you around the corner as there is for any other two-fisted human—if you've got the sand to look for it!

You may have a little rough going, but what of it? Rough going's a normal part of every healthy life, and your measure as a woman depends on your ability to set your teeth into it and lick it. So quit stalling and get going! It's up to you and you alone, whether your life's a mess or a triumph.

'DEAR CUPID'

Drawn by Nell Brinkley

Movie twinklers may sit in delighted amaze, buried to the beautiful eyes in their hundreds of thousands of fan-letters a week—gentlemen stars, red Aldabarans to the romantic hearts of staid women; they too may loll as gentlemen never have lolled before in history, in their thousands of letters per week; even the lowly writer and the artist, gets his usually—kindly flood of mail each week—skimpy indeed compared to the correspondence of the picture-talker—but WHO gets the hugest, the most tremendous, the most staggering, fan-mail per hour of the day in the world? Who but Daniel Cupid esquire!

It takes all the little cupids that ever were painted, drawn, or written about, in all the pictures and poems and myths in the world from the time there were Adams and Eves, but no clothes yet, until now, ALL of that host, to handle his mail. Ten secretaries! Six telephones! Why, the boy has a million of the first, and scores of the latter. A private exchange of his own, no less.

From all the world, the admiring, the pleading, the puzzled, the proud, the piteous, the imperious, the loving, the yearning letters pour in.

The eyes that have bent over them! The hearts they have come from! The hands that have held the pen, or the plumed quill, or the stubby pencil. No movie-sparkler, no writer, no poet, no actor, no musician, no EDITOR, ever got letters so human in all the human mail they receive!

A million letters from Queens; a million letters from the maid in the kitchen. From the actor and the milkman. Even from the Editor and the Movie-star themselves!

—NELL BRINKLEY.

CORRECT MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Consideration for the Bereaved Family.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Will you please advise me as to the correct etiquette regarding funerals? Should friends wait to be invited or tell the family they would like to attend the funeral?

2. When should friends offer to use their own cars? G. P.

1. We should wait to be invited to attend a funeral, even by the family of a very close friend. At such times, understanding of everything that the family wishes to do, or not to do, is essential and taken-for-granted and we have not the right to even make a suggestion.

2. After they have been invited to attend the funeral.

Eating Salads

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. When lunching in a restaurant and the main dish is a vegetable salad, and the waiter places before you a dinner plate, with the salad in a bowl directly in front of the plate, accompanied by the small pitcher of mayonnaise, how should this be eaten?

2. Is it good form to call a hostess on the telephone after a party to thank her for the nice time had at the party?

THANK YOU.

1. From the salad bowl, serve to your plate, with the serving pieces that are provided, a helping of the salad, and later, if you wish more, another helping. Do not serve the salad all at once to your plate. With the serving spoon, serve a portion of the mayonnaise to your plate with the salad.

2. Yes, this is a gracious thing to do, and one very much appreciated by a hostess. She will be so happy to know that you enjoyed her party. Perhaps, however, the best thing of all is to write a note of appreciation of her party. This can be one of the kindest of notes.

Love's Reawakening

Continuation of Love's Awakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Foresees Trouble.

As I saw the determination with which Colin Cameron, the young talkie star, was attempting to monopolize Mary I regretted the decision which had made me seat him at her left at dinner. Noel being at her right. Of course, if he had been one of the original invited guests I should have been compelled to assign him to Mary as an escort, letting Noel, as practically one of the family, take second place. The talkie star, as the eldest of the younger men and with his position in the world, would have been a masculine guest of honor second only to Philip Veritzen. But as Mr. Veritzen had intrigued the younger man's invitation after our party was made up, I was free to assign him as extra man to one of the feminine guests. My first impulse, to which I now devoutly wished I had yielded, had been to place him either at Lillian's left hand or mine. But that would have made him so conspicuously a member of the "chaperone" end of the table, with all the young people at the other, that I had known I could not do it without seriously offending my employer.

The younger set, including the cadets, none of whom knew of my table arrangements, were going to the elevator in two groups, the four young girls in one and the college boys and cadets in another. Not even Ronald, I noticed, had singled out Marion, as was his invariable custom when she was near him. Was he going to turn temperamental, I wondered, because of the presence of the cadets, or was he unwilling to make her conspicuous by being the only one of the boys to select a partner before the place cards at the table should tell them where they were to sit?

If this attitude was due to schoolboy jealousy I was sorry that I had not assigned one of the cadets as extra man to Marion. Instead, mindful of the pretty idyl which I, for one, wished to preserve, I had placed one cadet at Carolyn's left as a sop to Helena's maternal solicitude for the social success of her young daughter, and the other at the left of Peggy, plainest of the girls, as a sort of compensation prize.

Mr. Seibel's ingenuity had opened long closed doors and arranged a passage for us from the library, just beyond the elevators.

There was a second's astonished silence—a tribute in itself—as our party came in view of the table, with its wonderful decoration of a tiny pool sunk into the table and bordered with orchids—a pool of real water with real wee fish sporting within it, with small flowers and feathery vines and one genuine water lily bud floating upon its surface. Then the "Ohs" and "Ahs" broke forth, and Jerry, patently the irrepressible one of the college students, started a handclapping in which everyone joined. But I caught two glances toward me which held no enthusiasm, despite the fact that the senders were clapping with the rest. One, frankly venomous, was from Edith Fairfax, and I knew that she was equally incensed at the tribute to me and at the fact that she could not stir Dicky to retaliation. The other glance, quickly veiled, was from Dicky himself, and I saw that it held displeasure at this flamboyant gesture upon the part of my employer.

But I knew that I had several potential pieces of dynamite scattered around the table—Dicky, Philip Veritzen, Noel, Mary and Edith Fairfax were all strung to a high nervous pitch, all rigidly controlling emotions which threatened to erupt. I did not exclude myself from the list of possessors of highly-strung nerves, but I did know that I had mine under control. Too much depended upon my keeping absolute guard of my words and looks for me to yield to impulse. But I felt like a man astride the powder keg, not knowing what second a lighted match would be dropped inside it.

The dinner progressed smoothly enough, with the service and food so nearly perfect that I saw Mr. Seibel's efforts had satisfied even that most captious epicure, Philip Veritzen. And the theater party experienced playgoers among us, afterward—a pleasure even to them and a rare treat to the younger members of the party, was also apparently unruffled by any flaring up of jealousy or temper. But when we were back in the hotel—the women in our apartment and the men in the Underwoods,—rearranging coiffures and powders for the dance, Mary drew me aside with anxious eyes.

"Auntie Madge, I don't know what to do," she said. "Noel—"

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Stuttering a Handicap That Can Be Overcome.

Stuttering in adult life is often the result of neglect in childhood. Attention in youth may have overcome the defect.

This is a common form of speech disturbance. The stutterer is able to articulate each word, but he has difficulty in connecting words.

Dr. Copeland

Stuttering is most commonly seen in children between the third and fourth years, before speech expression is entirely mastered. It may be founded upon disturbances in nutrition. Anyhow, it is made worse by any nutritional disorder.

Where malnutrition is the underlying cause, stuttering is a temporary affliction, lasting only for a few weeks. With physical improvement the speech disorder soon disappears.

Quite frequently stuttering follows some acute illness. Under such conditions it usually is of short duration, disappearing shortly after a return to health.

These mild and temporary conditions need not cause any alarm. It is with the chronic stutterers that we are chiefly concerned. Most children with a tendency in this direction do not show signs of it until they reach the age of six or seven, or even later. Sometimes it is caused by imitation and possibly heredity is a factor. Marked nervous disorders usually underly permanent stuttering.

All cases should receive early treatment. This treatment must be started before the habit becomes firmly fixed.

To bring about recovery it may be necessary for the child to receive systematic training in a special school. This training consists essentially of breathing exercises and vocal gymnastics.

Do not assume that your child is fundamentally perfect and will "outgrow" his stammering or stuttering. It is important that all underlying causes be removed. For this reason wise advice is important. If the stammering persists, special training must be had as soon as possible.

Stammering is a handicap that no child should be expected to bear without every aid that can be found. Since it can usually be corrected in childhood, there is every hope of full recovery.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Boils are frequently caused by friction of the clothing, the rubbing of a collar or garment seams around the armpit. Apply hot moist dressings. The infection will break and drain. Cut down on starches and sweets and eat green, leafy vegetables.

A new coiffure is making headway. It is called the vagabond bob, and requires hair that extends only to the shoulders. There is a waved fringe over the forehead, and a beau catcher piquantly before each ear. From a side parting extends a wide undulation, finger wave or marcel. The ends of the hair are done in corkscrew curls, and are held together at the nape of the neck with a long, slender barette of tortoise shell.

When women switch hair dyes they often pour troubles on their heads. No telling how chemicals will act when combined on the brain-thatch. A henna pack applied to hair that has been bleached will produce an orange-red, carroty tint the like of which was never seen on man, woman or beast. If the dyed darling has found a satisfactory hair dye, she should stick to it like a friend and a brother. If, for some reason, she feels need of a change of coloring mediums, she should consult a dye specialist who will foresee results.

That girl who does not melt soap before using it for a shampoo medium, but rubs it upon her hair, will have a tiara crown that is never free of soap deposits. The soap should not only be melted, but the liquid should stand for several days. A soap that dissolves easily can be placed in a Mason jar and covered with boiling water, thus forming a semi-jelly, that is easily distributed through the hair.

Household Hints

A discarded blanket comes in very handy in bedmaking, if you like the covers to stay put at the foot. Divide the blanket in half and let half be under the mattress and the other half over the foot of the bed just under the spread. It certainly holds the covers firm.

Very delicate lace can be washed without mishap or strain upon it if put in a Mason jar and then the jar partly filled with warm water and reliable soapsuds. Screw on the lid and shake vigorously for several minutes. Rinse just as carefully and dry by placing between two towels for a while and then spread out on one towel in the sun. Pull into shape gently instead of ironing.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Thursday, March 19

A particularly lively and enterprising state of affairs may be presaged from the dominant place of Mars in the day's astrological chart. In trine aspect with both luminaries in conjunction, there is no limit to the quickened and dynamic impetus given to the faculties and energies, bringing high stimulus to big business, with bold strokes and splendid initiative for superlative operations. The aid of those in high places of power and influence may be counted on, especially employers. It is a time for pushing to high goals with resolution and audacity.

Those whose birthday it is are at the threshold of a year of signal achievements and high adventures, particularly in large and bold enterprises in which the assistance and co-operation of employers and those in places of power and authority may be depended upon.

A child born on this day should be energetic, resourceful, bold, brave and adventurous. It should reach high goals of position and power through its own dynamic personality.

GAS relieved

WHAT most people call indigestion is usually excess acid in the stomach. Food has soured. The instant remedy is an alkali, which neutralizes acids. But don't use crude helps. Use what your doctor would advise.

The best help is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. For the 50 years since its invention, it has remained standard with physicians. You will find nothing else so quick in its effect, so harmless, so efficient.

One tasteless spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in acid. The results are immediate with no harmful after-effects.

Once you learn this perfect way you'll never deal in any other manner with the headaches, gas, bloating, nausea, dizziness, indigestion, biliousness, etc., due to an over-acid stomach and bowels.

Be sure to get genuine Phillips'. It is always a liquid; never made in tablet form. Look for the name Phillips on the bottle. All druggists—25c and 50c.

When You CAN'T QUIT

A headache is often the sign of fatigue. When temples throb it's time to rest. If you can't stop work, you can stop the pain. Bayer Aspirin will do it, every time. Take two or three tablets, a swallow of water, and carry-on—in comfort.

Don't work with nerves on edge or try all day to forget a nagging pain that aspirin could end in a jiffy! Genuine aspirin can't harm you; just be sure it's Bayer.

In every package of Bayer Aspirin are proven directions for headaches, colds, sore throat, neuralgia, neuritis, etc. Carry these tablets with you, and be prepared. To block a sudden cold on the street-car; quiet a grumbling tooth at the office; relieve a headache in the theatre; spare you a sleepless night when nerves are "jumping."

And no modern girl needs "time out" for the time of month! Bayer Aspirin is an absolute antidote for periodic pain.

Take Bayer Aspirin for any ache or pain, and take enough to end it. It can't depress the heart. That is medical opinion. That is why it is only sensible to insist on the genuine tablets that bear the Bayer cross. The pocket tin is a convenient size. The bottle of 100 tablets is most economical to buy.

BOWDOIN GIVES BOWSER LONGER PACT

FOLLOWING THE SELECTION of Harvey Harman for the head football coaching post at the University of Pennsylvania after a splendid showing at Haverford and Sewanee, comes the news that another former University of Pittsburgh gridder has been given merited recognition for what he accomplished last season. The latest ex-Panther to be so honored is Charley Bowser, and his reward takes the form of a reappointment, a bigger job and a longer contract.

Charley Bowser

The athletic chiefs at Bowdoin College in Brunswick, Me., were so well satisfied with Bowser's work in his first season as head football coach there in 1930, that they have not only reappointed him but have given him a contract for three years instead of for merely a single season, as has been their custom. Nor is that all, for Bowser has also been given supervision over hockey and baseball as well as football at Bowdoin. As coach in the ice and diamond sports he replaces Ben Houser, recently resigned. A substantial increase in salary goes with Charley's new contract.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF BOWSER'S reappointment comes officially from Malcolm Morrell, director of athletics at Bowdoin, who served as football coach until it was decided a year ago to abandon the graduate coaching system and put the former Pitt star in charge. The athletic powers at the college have nothing but the highest praise for Charley, and say that the results he got in his first year as gridiron mentor exceeded their fondest expectations.

Bowser, who was one of Pitt's most valuable players in 1920-21-22, has had a successful career as a coach. He succeeded the late Chalky Williamson at Grove City College in 1924 and served three seasons there, returning to his alma mater as an assistant to Jock Sutherland in 1927. Last fall he went to Bowdoin and in his first season there his team defeated Massachusetts Aggies, Tufts, Maine and Wesleyan, tied with Williams and lost to Colby and Bates.

EASTERN CRITICS ARE still raving over the exhibition given by Tommy Loughran in defeating Ernie Schaaf as one of the greatest displays of boxing skill in the history of the ring. In science, speed, judgment of distance and everything else, Tommy stood out as the master boxer of his class.

Old-timers like Hype Igoe, who had rated Jim Corbett, Young Griffo, Jem Driscoll and Abe Attell as the greatest of all scientific boxers, were willing to extend the list and add Loughran's name to it.

EVEN JOHNNY KILBANE, former featherweight champion, who thought he knew much about Loughran's ability, was amazed at what he saw. "I've never seen anything in the world that they call great boxing to equal Loughran's exhibition," he said. "Tommy was absolutely perfect and never made a single mistake in anything he did." Floyd Gibbons, globe trotter, who hasn't missed much worth seeing, and who sat beside Kilbane at the ringside, says that for once in his life he was speechless during that bout. "Nothing like it in my time—nothing," he gasped afterward.

Fresco Thompson

THE MOST NOTICEABLE improvement in the Brooklyn club is at second base, where Fresco Thompson, a pirate for 14 games in 1925, is contributing clever and peppery keystone play to take the place of the slip-shod article that has long handicapped the Robins at that position.

Not even such an experienced baseball man as Larry Sutton, veteran Brooklyn scout, could keep his eyes off Thompson during a practice game at Clearwater. "That young fellow is just the best second baseman we've had out there since the days of George Cutshaw," he declared. "He's a real hustler, has plenty of color, is a smart, steady fielder and a better hitter than he has appeared to be."

SINCE THEY WON their last pennant in 1920 with Pete Kilduff on the bag, the Robins have tried a swarm of second basemen, but always there was something lacking. Some were good fielders, but too weak with the stick; others had hitting power, but were shy on defensive strength.

Jimmy Johnston, Harold Janvrin, Jay Partridge, Cotton Tierney, Stuffy Stewart, Chuck Fewster, Johnny Mitchell, Joe Klugman, Johnny Butler, Billy Rhiel, Jake Flowers, Eddie Moore and Mickey Finn form only part of the long list that preceded Thompson at the Flatbush midway.

IT LOOKS AS if superior staying qualities will be the deciding factor in the feature event of the Western Pennsylvania interscholastic basketball season at the Stadium tonight, the meeting of Duquesne High School and Scott High, of North Braddock, in the final game for the championship of the W. P. I. A. L. That is, victory is likely to go to the team which has lost the lesser amount of stuff in coming through the hard eliminations rounds up to date. Regardless of tonight's outcome, Duquesne must be given credit for a remarkable record, as this is the fourth time in the last six years that that school has fought its way into the final. It lost to Uniontown in the deciding game in 1926, defeated New Castle in 1928 and lost to New Kensington last year. In the same six-year period only one other school has reached the final more than once, the lone exception being New Castle, which got their twice.

IT WON'T BE due to any lack of physical fitness if the Pirates don't get away to a flying start. As far as condition for the jump-off counts, you can take it from Manager Ens himself that the Bucs will have their best April flag prospect in a decade.

This is Ens' tenth year with the Rovers, and in a letter to headquarters here, written just before the Rovers broke camp at Paso Robles, he said the club is in better condition than it ever was before at this stage since he became a member of the outfit.

IN CONTINUING HIS plea for screens at the major league parks, which he has been advancing all winter as his idea of the only real cure for pop-fly home runs, President E. S. Barnard, of the American League, gives some interesting statistics on what becomes of the baseballs used during a season.

E. S. Barnard

He says that in his league the umpires were blamed for much of the slugging, the charge being made that they threw in too many new balls, which were hard for the pitchers to handle, but that an investigation disclosed that the umps were not at fault.

"MORE THAN 10,000 baseballs were fouled into the stands in the American League last season and were carried away by the fans," said President Barnard. "Our league used 17,772 baseballs. As I have said, more than 10,000 were fouled out of play, and about 600 were driven out of the parks as home runs. Of the 6,000 yet to be accounted for, only about 3,000 served out their lives of usefulness in games. No actual substantial help can be given to the pitchers and no real progress made in the direction of saner hitting until we adopt a system of screening parks. This would kill the cheap home run and standardize long hits. Our league will adopt this method the day President Ruppert, of the New York club, gives his consent." It is clear from Barnard's remarks that Ruppert has blocked the screening project, the reason, no doubt, being that such a system would cut down Babe Ruth's crop of home runs.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., March 18.—His club having shown a lot of class in its first performance in the Bay district, Manager Jewel Ens, of the Pirates, this morning was eager to see the Rovers display themselves to a good advantage throughout the remainder of their stay in California.

The Buccos toppled the Oakland team yesterday, 5 to 1. For a long period it seemed as if the Oaks were due to be blanked, but Charley Wood, who relieved Heinie Meine in the sixth inning, eventually developed a sore arm and the local boys began to tee off on him. Larry French was hustled to the scene and French, despite his scant training, was able to stem the drive.

There was a fine co-ordination to the play of the Pirates, however, that caused a glow in their popular leader. Lloyd Waner for instance, looked like a champion in center, and the manner in which he drove out long drives to fair and foul territory certainly did tickle the cockles of Ens' heart.

The victory in the first clash with the Oaks was the third straight success copped by the Buccos in competition with Coast League teams. They trimmed the Portland and San Francisco clubs at the Paso Robles camp. Ens has a treat in store for the Oakland folks today. It has been announced that Remy Kremer, the well-known native son, will be on the mound for the Pirates. About 3,000 fans were out to see the excitement of yesterday, but if the same kind of weather prevails today there is likely to be a larger attendance.

Heinie Meine was the outstanding star of the clash with the Oaks. Not content with pitching runless ball through five interesting rounds, the St. Louis Dutchman weighed in with a man's size double with three on and two out in the fourth. The wallop atop of the leftfield fence cleaned off the sacks and put the contest away for the Pirates.

Jim Mosolf, subbing in right for the ailing Paul Waner, was a hitting fool in the game. Jim socked the rocket to all parts of the big park.

The Oaks were making their first showing of the season before the home folk and there were big

SWISSVALE NINE TO BE STRONG

By TOM BIRKS

Entering the West Penn League for the first time since its organization, Swissvale Community, rated one of the strongest teams outside of the city limits, is already being classed as a keen contender for the Honus Wagner trophy.

Mike Burkey

Under the leadership of Manager Ed Walsh, the Community aggregation is being groomed carefully for strenuous battles with the Homestead Aces, Duquesne Traders, Reliance Life, Turtle Creek Community and Linwood, other contenders for the title.

The Swissvalers, realizing that the best teams in the district are in the loop, and that no game will be a setup, have signed some splendid talent which may be compared with any team in the loop or in the district.

Walsh has built his pitching staff around Mike Burkey, who also is rated one of the best third-sackers in the district, and Freddie Loughran, Louis Marucco and Slim Schenk. The only hurler named with Community last season is Burkey.

For the infield positions there are Jimmy Vandergrift, Johnny Attig, Johnny Matasky, Glenn Myers and Vic Dober. Bill Ruffner and Andy Lawrence will share the catching duties, with another classy receiver being lined up to help out.

In the outfield, Walsh has some real ball hawks in Bam Harrington, Joe Sabal, Mike Malackney and Howdy Emerick.

HANDBALL MEET SET

The Y. M. H. A. handball team will entertain Downtown Y. in a return match on the Y. M. H. A. courts next Monday. Four doubles and two singles matches will be played. In the first meet the Y. M. H. A. won five out of six matches.

JOHN HOLOHAN TO JOIN BUCS

John D. Holohan, graduate manager of athletics at Duquesne University, will leave tonight at 10:30 for San Francisco to serve as traveling secretary of the Pittsburgh Pirates. He is scheduled to join the Pirates in the Bay City early Sunday.

The position is a temporary one, Holohan handling the traveling arrangements of the Corsairs until he is relieved either by Owner Barney Dreyfuss or Secretary Sam Watters at the National League opener in Chicago.

ERIE BOWLERS STAR IN A. B. C.

BUFFALO, March 18.—It was Erie that stepped to the fore in the annual American Bowling Congress tournament here yesterday and turned a few of the matinee events leaders topsy-turvy. Here is what Erie did: It captured first place in the singles, sixth in the doubles and third and ninth in the all-events. Additionally, a goodly number banged into the prize money in smaller style.

W. Clark was the outstanding Erie star as he clicked with a 712 to land first in the individual event, a lone pin over Charley Daw, of Milwaukee. Clark had a grand start of 243, made his chance even better with a 267 and then fell to 202 in his final game.

This series helped him into the all-events with a nine-game total of 1,820. In the doubles, it was J. Roward and T. Hitch who shone, their 1,219 being good for sixth. Their games were 459, 374 and 386. The next best two-men total of the day was 1,210 by G. Peters and G. Schmidt, of Cleveland.

Hitch followed up his doubles with a 550 singles and splashed into third place of the all-events, his total being 1,842. Cashing in in the doubles for Erie were R. Greider and V. Calabrese with 1,169, and P. McLaughlin and G. Burbin, with 1,156.

The Erie boys seemed to go better when they were on their own for several attached themselves themselves to prize checks. E. Kindle hit 639; G. Voss 613; H. Jares 601; F. McCullough 601; M. Rohrer 614; G. Depew 598; S. Glance 591 and E. Evans 591.

CITY LEAGUE TO MEET

Under the leadership of President Harry Yerx, the City League will have its second meeting this evening at the Book Shoe store. Six clubs are all set to go and Secretary Everett Sweeney probably will have other names of teams wanting admission to the loop for the managers to consider.

Homes Wagner will have two meetings this evening at 813 Liberty avenue. The Steel City circuit and the city section of the Mining loop will meet to settle all questions. Managers should make it a point to sit in and post forfeits.

SCOTT FAVORED TO SET DOWN DUQUESNE

The Lineup

Scott		Duquesne

Kane	G	Alexandrovich

By JESS CARVER

A new W. P. I. A. L. champion will be crowned in the Stadium tonight as Scott High, of North Braddock, and Duquesne pit their crackerjack school quintets against one another in the final clash of the annual league championship elimination tournament.

Johnny Tomko

Tonight will mark the first time that a North Braddock team has fought its way to the league final. Duquesne won the crown in 1928, and was runner-up to New Kensington last year.

The winner of the fray will be eligible to represent the league in the competition for the P. I. A. A. crown, and is scheduled to meet Westinghouse, representative of District VIII (City League) in an inter-district battle Saturday. Scott has indicated that it may withdraw from further activity if the title is won, which will automatically cause the W. P. I. A. L. to certify Duquesne as the league representative.

SCOTT FAVORED

Scott is favored over Duquesne for the reason that the team's record and play for the season, as well as the tourney, has been slightly more impressive. Duquesne was forced to engage in a play-off with Homestead before gaining a tournament bracket. Scott galloped through the torrid competition in Section VIII, in high-handed fashion, opposed to teams of such class as Rankin, Braddock and Turtle Creek.

In the tourney, Scott has walloped Dunbar, Scottdale and the defending champ, New Kensington. Duquesne looked extremely formidable against Coraopolis and McDonald, but did not click any too well in the semi-final test with New Castle last Saturday night.

Both teams will present stars of the first magnitude. Scott boasts the two Johnnies, Tomko and Krutullis, both of whom are candidates for all-tournamen fame. Al Servick, Duquesne's strong forward, has been one of the very outstanding performers of the tourney. Durik, a guard and Karpowich, the big center, who has evidenced great improvement in each game, are other Duquesne lads that may be counted on to

SERVICK LEADING SCORER

There is little to choose between the scoring and defensive records of the two rivals. Scott has totaled 103 points in the three games and its opponents have garnered 40. Duquesne has piled up 96 markers against 41. No foe has scored 20 points on either team.

Servick is the leading individual scorer of the two squads, with 13 field goals and six fouls. Bache, Scott center, has 10 field goals and nine fouls. Tomko also has scored 10 field goals and Krutullis has one less. Zelezik, Servick's running mate at forward, has totaled eight. The records:

Scott—	Fg.	F.	Tp.	Duquesne	Fg.	F.	Tp.
Bache	10	9	29	Servick	13	6	32
Tomko	10	4	24	Zeleznik	8	1	17
Krutullis	9	8	15	Alexandrovich	6	4	16
Ferguson	6	3	15	Durik	3	4	10
Phillips	3	2	8	Karpowich	2	4	8

Says Nick Altrock

(Baseball's Comedian)

BILOXI, Miss., March 18.—If you folks up North envy us guys down in Dixie, you are puffing at the wrong pipe. It has been cool enough down this way to give a brass doorknob the chilblains. And I don't see why it had to wait till the training season to give the farmers drought relief, but it rains about every other day. When your Uncle Nick went South he packed the wrong kind of flannels. I should have taken my red flannel shirts instead of those ice cream pants. I see Hornsby says he feels so good he is going to play all 154 games this season. That's as much as saying he won't get in any jams with umpires, which certainly proves Rogers is a new man.

GIRLS' CHAMPS IN BENEFIT TONIGHT

By JULIUS LEVIN

The Goldenson Vanities, girls basketball champions of Western Pennsylvania as a result of winning 40 out of their last 41 games, will meet the Butler girls in a benefit contest on the Carrick High School floor tonight, the proceeds to go to the relief fund of the Carrick Police Association.

The Butler girls made a fine showing in their previous battle with the Vanities and interest in tonight's contest is high. The advance sale indicates a capacity crowd will turn out.

The Vanities haven't lost a game to a district rival in more than three years, the only defeat on their record being a two-point setback suffered in Cleveland two weeks ago when they were stopped in a contest that required two extra periods.

The W. U. Hoyles, recently crowned champions of the Allegheny Mountain Association, meet the North Side Buicks in a West Penn League game, while the Trinity Cathedral Royals entertain Faith Chapel in a Senior Church League fray. The Y. M. H. A. plays at Kingsley House in a non-league game.

The College All-Stars, composed of Arture and Baker, of Pitt; Nease, of Carnegie Tech, and Stephens, Benedict and Parry, of Duquesne, make their first appearance in an independent contest next Tuesday night when they oppose Fintex, of the Allegheny County League, on the South Side Market House floor.

If Faith Chapel beats the Trinity Royals in their Church League game tonight, it will practically cinch the title; if it loses, the Royals will be tied for first place with an opportunity of attaining the second-half crown in a playoff.

The Knickers knocked off North Side Community, 42-22, in their West Penn League contest, while Hill Top Y took the measure of St. Ann's, 20-14, in the Metropolitan circuit, last night.

The Stowe Independents, P. A. A., Downtown Boys, Crafton Midgets, Wolfe Club and Mellon copped their independent conquests.

CARLSON TO SPEAK

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP.)—Members of the National Association of Basketball Coaches will meet here March 28 and 29 for the fifth annual clinic on the rules and regulations of the game. The speakers will include Dr. Forrest C. Allen, University of Kansas, Dr. H. C. Carlson, University of Pittsburgh, and Fred Young, of Bloomington, Ill.

DISAPPOINTED? WELL, READ THIS

Just See What These Happy, Grateful Pittsburgh People Say About Konjola.

Are you seeking relief in vain? Have you tried medicines and treatments to no avail? Well, these people suffered too—then they used Konjola, the medicine for ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and for rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Now read their statements.

CHARLES M. MARTZ

Mr. Charles M. Martz, 101 E. Montgomery Street, says: "I was in a badly rundown condition and suffered from stomach trouble, and medicines I tried did no good. After four bottles of Konjola I eat and sleep better, have more vitality, and know Konjola is a real medicine."

And Mrs. V. B. Hickman, 705 Arch Street, North Side, has this to say: "Only three bottles of Konjola gave me relief from indigestion, nervousness and kidney trouble. I continued the treatment until I used eight bottles. I am healthy, and have strength and energy since taking Konjola. I can't find words to express my gratitude to Konjola."

MRS. V. B. HICKMAN

And now read what Mrs. Emma Gorring, 232 First Street, says about Konjola: "For five I suffered from stomach trouble, and I was in a terribly rundown condition. Nothing I ate agreed with me, and I felt tired all the time. A friend recommended Konjola, and after four bottles I feel like a different person. I have a good appetite, food digests as it should, and I am able to get sound, restful sleep every night. It's a pleasure to endorse Konjola."

MRS. EMMA GORRING

For best results a complete treatment of from six to eight bottles is recommended. Be wise; profit by the experiences of others; try Konjola in your case. Demand Konjola, and be sure you get it . . . don't be switched to a substitute.

Konjola is sold by all Dow, Liggett, and Mayflower drug stores, and by all best druggists in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

THE Two Fisted Motor Fuel Triumphs Again

CHAS. M. McKERGOW, M. Sc., PROFESSOR
ARTHUR R. ROBERTS, M. Sc., ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR

DEPARTMENT OF MECHANICAL ENGINEERING
McGILL UNIVERSITY
MONTREAL

September 11th, 1930

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

The results given in the table below are based on a series of tests made on a six cylinder Marmon engine in the Mechanical Engineering Laboratory of McGill University, Montreal.

Five samples of gasoline were submitted for test. Each had a distinguishing letter only and could not be identified by us while the tests were being carried out.

Gasoline D, later identified as Blue Sunoco Motor Fuel, gave the lowest consumption for "brake horse power hour" over a wide range of speed.

As Blue Sunoco Motor Fuel sells at 3¢ a gallon cheaper than 3 of the other gasolines submitted, it is undoubtedly the most economical of the fuels tested both with regards to cost and miles per gallon of gasoline.

The table shows a comparison of the results obtained using Blue Sunoco Motor Fuel as the standard of comparison:

Gals. Gasoline used to obtain same H.P.Hours as "D"	Brand of Gasoline	Cost per Gallon	Cost of fuel consumed to obtain same H.P. Hours. (Compared with "D")
("D")	Blue Sunoco	29¢	$29.00
100	"C"	32¢	32.50
101.5	"A"	32¢	32.60
102	"E"	32¢	33.10
103.6	"B"	29¢	30.10
103.8

Respectfully submitted,

Chas. M. McKergow

Chas. M. McKergow

The Canadian gallon is one-fifth larger than the U. S. gallon, plus a 2½c duty. Hence the higher price for Canadian gasoline.

"greater horse power"

(See column 4)

Notice that . . . the three nearest fuels to BLUE SUNOCO were premium priced fuels, selling at 3c more per gallon.

BLUE SUNOCO

THE ONLY TRUE BLUE

For best results use SUNOCO, the wholly distilled MOTOR OIL, with Blue Sunoco Motor Fuel.

BLUE SUNOCO will not make gum deposits in any motor . . . neither will any other good gasoline.

. . . THE PREMIUM MOTOR FUEL AT REGULAR GAS PRICE . . .

You save at least 3c per gallon

LONDON, Ont., March 18.—The Yellow Jackets of Pittsburgh, virtually clinched fourth place and the right to compete in the International Hockey League playoffs when they defeated the London Tecumsehs 1 to 0, before 4,000 at the London arena last night. Tex White scored the winning goal after 11 minutes in the third period.

The Yellow Jackets can remove all doubt about qualifying by winning against Buffalo at Pittsburgh Friday night.

Whitey Fields carried the puck and gave Tex White a perfect pass and the Yellow Jacket wingman lost no time in taking advantage of the break.

Albie Cox played spectacular hockey and made some wonderful saves, although on several occasions the Tecumsehs passed up real opportunities by being overanxious.

It was a heartbreaking game for the Tecumsehs to lose, as they put up a good battle from the start, but when they were playing five men against Pittsburgh's six it was a great handicap. The penalty which was responsible for London dropping the decision was not a serious offense and the officials permitted many more glaring illegal plays to go unnoticed.

It was not a case where the winners had a decisive edge over the locals, as the Tecumsehs were on the offensive from the start, but could not break into the scoring column. Leo Reise and Gordon Fraser played a good game on the Pittsburgh defense, while Eddie Rodden, a former Londoner, took plenty of abuse at center ice, but gamely fought hard. The lineup:

Pittsburgh—1.		London—0.
Cox	G	Stuart
Fraser	P	Hucks
Reise	D	Holmes
Rodden	C	Neville
Greene	W	Gfon
McGuire	W	Pettinger

Spares—Pittsburgh, Fields, White, Proudlock, Quelette, Halliday, McIntyre, McCurry, Beiser, London, Quennelille, Huard, Reinikka, Loughin, Elliott, Schneider.

First period—No score. Penalty—Proudlock.

Second period—No score. No penalties.

Third period—Pittsburgh, White (Fields), 11:00. Penalties, Rodden, Groh, Greene.

Referees—La Flamme and Smith.

Chillysauce

Jewel Ens' great outfield quartet flew to yesterday's ball game in Oakland and when the four reached the clubhouse to break down and confess, Ens read the riot act in a serious and humorous manner.

Paul and Lloyd Waner have done a lot of flying. Adam Comorosky never was in a plane before and Jim Mosolf is no seasoned birdman. In all events, the four ball hawks hopped into an amphibian, a plane used in transporting passengers back and forth across the bay.

The plane took off from the water, but when it started to land in a regulation field Comorosky became panicky. He wondered how the same plane could do the double trick. When he reached the clubhouse, he delivered himself to the effect it was his first and last plane ride. Ens saw the humor of the situation after he had given the boys a lecture. He ended up by addressing himself to Brother Paul in his manner:

"You can take that Polack, Mossieff, and yourself if you want to do any flying, but Lloyd is the outfield star on this ball club and don't get him off the earth any more or I will crack down on the whole bunch of you."

Comorosky is still suffering from his skin ailment, but he tried to play today. Maybe he was a bit upset from his ride in the air anyhow, but on a fine rouse dive around third as he tried to score from first on Hemsley's double. The tumble made everybody laugh. Como got no sympathy from his manager for his tumble.

"I can tell you what's good for that stumble stuff when you are running," remarked Jersey to the Polish outfielder. "Get out here about one hour earlier tomorrow and run around the park until you get into condition."

Eddie Moore made a fine start in his new baseball home. The former Buccaneer won the plaudits of the crowd by his clever play. His double play action was pretty.

Jaffe Boxing Bill Passed by House

HOCKEY TITLE PLAY-OFFS ARRANGED

WINDSOR, Ont., March 18.—International Hockey League playoffs with four teams figuring in a post-season series to decide the 1930-31 championship and the holders of the Teddy Oke cup will get under way on Tuesday, March 24, according to plans announced at league headquarters here yesterday.

The clubs occupying the four leading positions at the end of the regular schedule on Sunday will be eligible for the double round-robin games at home and three games away for each team. Points will decide the title series, three points being awarded for a win and one for a tie.

In the tentative draw prepared by President King, the clubs are designated as A, B, C and D, according to the order of the finish. And the games will be run off as follows:

First date—A at B, C at D.
Second date—B at C, D at A.
Third date—C at B, A at D.
Fourth date—D at C, B at A.
Fifth date—B at D, A at C.
Sixth date—C at A, D at B.

By this program the playoff will require only six playing nights. However, since one club or more may wish Sunday dates, the series may extend over two full weeks.

The Buffalo Bisons, having clinched first place, it is already certain that they will play away on March 24, at the home of the second-place team—either Windsor or Cleveland. The Bulldogs have a one-point lead on the Indians now with three games left to play, while the Clevelanders have but one remaining fixture.

If the Windsor team finishes in the runner-up position, then Cleveland will also open away from home on March 24, playing either in Pittsburgh or London.

Provision has been made for a sudden death game to decide the issue in case two teams should tie for fourth place.

Commission to Probe Di Vodi Win on Foul

LOS ANGELES, March 18.—(INS.)—The State Athletic Commission today prepared to investigate the fight here last night between Paulie Walker and Andy Di Vodi, New York welterweights, which was won by Di Vodi on a foul in the fourth round.

Repeatedly warned for hitting low, Walker kept throwing his punches low and was disqualified when Di Vodi fell to the canvas.

A low punch put Di Vodi down in the second round as the gong sounded, but he was revived and came back to take more low punches.

Referee Larry McGrath awarded the contest to Di Vodi in the fourth.

The fight was labeled "one of those things" by most of the fans present.

ROCCO TO BOX TOUCHSTONE AT GARDEN

By HARRY KECK

Sports Editor

Benny Touchstone, the Jewish heavyweight fighter, of Detroit, and formerly of Florida, who recently made himself a card around here by the classy manner in which he stopped Frank Novak, local prospect, at McKeesport, has been signed to box the windup at Motor Square Garden next Monday night, appearing against Emmett Rocco, Ellwood City Italian.

The match was closed late yesterday after it had been originally planned to show Rocco against Al Fay, of Charleroi. Jack Kearns' widely ballyhooed heavy. Fay is ill and will be idle for some weeks. An attempt was made to sign King Levinsky, of Chicago, to take his place, but it failed, and then came word from New Castle that Rocco had been outgalloped there by Joe Sekyra, of Dayton, O., Monday night.

Matchmaker Jules Beck then bethought himself of Touchstone, who was matched with George Panka at the Moose Temple following his win over Novak, but had to cancel. A long-distance telephone call nailed him, and then it was a tossup between Rocco and Sekyra as his opponent. Rocco got the call, due to the fact that he has won his last three bouts at the Garden in pleasing style, against Tom Heeney, Al Friedman and Panka, knocking out the last-named. The Friedman battle was ruled a draw, but Rocco merited the decision.

Between Rounds

Jackie Rodgers resumed training in the Motor Square gymnasium yesterday and may be ready to box Johnny Datto or some other opponent at the Garden one week from next Monday.

The new gymnasium in Bausm boulevard, operated by Andy Ross, was opened for business yesterday. It contains much of the equipment formerly in use at the Homestead A. C. gym, which closed down last week.

Buck McTiernan, Jack Zivic and Dominick Petrone are now pressing the boxers working out yesterday at the Pittsburgh Lyceum, which appears to be regaining its old favor with the professional mittmen.

The Frankie Bolorski-Eddie Reed show at Erie last Friday night, grossed to more than $2,000 at prices of $1 and $2, which is good business for those names.

Johnny Risko has been matched with Johnny Swake at St. Louis one week from tonight.

Frankie Reilly, older brother of Jimmy Reilly, will come here to join the latter in McKeesport. He is a featherweight and has had only a handful of battles.

Max Elling, Pittsburgh Lyceum welterweight, will be one of the entrants in the M. A. A. senior championship tournament at the Moose Temple the early part of next week. He also is competing in a show at Uniontown tonight, along with Johnny Hazel, Frittie Zivic and others. Frittie and Zivic, by the way, now are representing the Lyceum instead of the Willow Club, where they started.

My Sullivan boxes Izzy Grove, Billy Light meets Sam Bruce and Juan Cruz engages Pee Wee Wilson in three 10-round bouts at Detroit Friday night. Lou Bloom boxes Alex Hadjian and Ralph Lenny meets Marty Stone in two six-rounders.

Pal Silvers, of New York, is due to arrive in town tomorrow morning for his 10-round windup battle with Jocko Walters, Springfield (O.) Negro knockout puncher, at the Moose Temple the following night. Pal is anxious to redeem himself for his sorry showing against Paul Pirrone, against whom he substituted on short notice at Motor Square Garden a few months ago, and is confident that properly trained, he will have no difficulty stopping Walters' winning streak here.

The Pitt varsity boxing team battles West Virginia University at Morgantown, W. Va., tonight.

Billy Alger, of Reading, will get in tonight for his 10-round windup against Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, at McKeesport tomorrow night. The section is well stirred up over this battle and the attention that has been attracted to it by the fact that both Frank Klaus and Battling Nelson, former world champions, will be in Belmont's corner.

George Engle, manager of Frank Klaus and Harry Greb when they were champions, leaves this morning for a return to his home in New York after a three months' trip to Pittsburgh, Miami, Pittsburgh and return, accompanied by his son. He is much improved in health, and expects to be back here for another visit shortly.

Meyer Grace boxes Buddy Gorman at Oakland, Cal., tonight.

Frankie Wine and Battling Bozo are matched for Saginaw, Mich., Thursday night of next week.

Tony Herrera meets Hector McDonald in one of the 10-round bouts on the Fidel LaBarba-Kid Francis card in Madison Square Garden, New York, Friday night of next week.

Buck McTiernan will meet an opponent to be selected for him in the main bout at Erie Friday night of next week, and has a match in the making for Rochester, N. Y., two weeks later.

YOUNG RUDY WINS

ALLIANCE, O., March 18.—Young Rudy, Charleroi, 147, copped the verdict over Jimmy Moinette, 150, of Alliance, in the main 10-round bout of the boxing show held here last night. It was a fast pleasing bout, with Rudy holding the edge throughout.

Butch, Warner To Defy Jinx Once More

Believe it or not, but Mose Butch, Oakland southpaw bantamweight, and Johnny Warner, of Clairton, finally are to meet, after having been matched four times since becoming pros. They will box the 10-round semi-final to the Pal Silvers-Jocko Walters bout at the Moose Temple, Friday night. Butch was examined by a physician last night and declared fit to resume battling after having suffered an injured eye in a bout with Marty Gold a little more than a week ago.

Butch and Warner boxed each other seven times as amateurs, with Butch dragging down the decision four times. Recently they were matched at the Moose Temple, but Warner became ill and had to ask for a postponement. When they were rematched, Butch was stricken with grippe and again the bout was called off. They were rematched for last Friday, but Butch's bad eye had not healed sufficiently to permit him to go through with the bout. Now Promoter Apples Meyers has rebilled them and has his fingers crossed.

∵ Rookie Tales ∵

NO. 7—HAL FINNEY.

OAKLAND, Cal., March 18.—He was a part of the Pirate spring time entourage of last season, but Hal Finney, M. D. (mule driver), of the Alabama cotton fields, didn't get a tumble from anybody, save Joe Devine. Now that he is the most talked-about rookie of the present preparatory season, it may be interesting to you to get a little insight into the characteristics of the youth.

Glenn Spencer pals around with Finney. It is alluring to hear Glenn tell of the lonesomeness that overwhelmed Finney when the mule driver came to camp last season.

Hal Finney.

"Hal was tired looking at people around the hotel every day," mused Glenn. "He wanted to get out into the country where he could see mules and horses in the fields. One morning a gang of us started, and, after walking about for an hour, we noticed Hal was missing. We searched for him through the woods, but it was an hour later when we saw him almost a mile away. He was in a clearing where a team of mules was being used in ploughing. The fellow riding the plough was none other than Hal, and he wouldn't leave until he had to go."

BASEBALL MERE PLAY

If you tell Finney he is a hard worker he laughs out loud. And the laugh is on the level; in fact, everything involving this lad of perfect habits has the ring of sincerity. It is too bad there are not more Finneys in the national pastime.

"You-all call that work, but I calls it nothing but the best kind of play," he exclaimed the other day. "Is there anything nicer than to play ball in such a fine park and in such grand weather? I swear, this is all fun compared to what my brother, Louis, and I did all winter. Why, we worked 14 to 16 hours a day, driving mules and hauling cotton. An' them bales of cotton are plenty heavy. It took off some of my weight, but I guess it did not hurt me. Louis is two years younger than I—he's just 20, but he's one of the most powerful boys you ever saw. He's with Connie Mack and I hear he is making a good showing."

The Pirate Finney, by the way, is one of the finest athletic specimens in the squad. He is a deer on his feet, has lots of strength, a fine arm and he is another Mickey Cochrane in spirit. It's small wonder Jewel Ens is daffy over him.

BOOSTED BY DEVINE

The younger brother is an outfielder. If he has anything like the same outlook toward baseball as is manifest in Hal, the majors are likely to be sporting another dashing pair of brothers inside of a couple of years.

While others paid little attention to Hal a year ago, the expert eye of Joe Devine saw the spark. He complimented Hal and told him he would make a great catcher if he held to his spirit, and Finney almost fell upon Joe's neck in gratitude.—CHARLES J. DOYLE.

Sport Vignettes

"My idea of fighting (and it was good enough to make me champion) was never to take a backward step.....To keep boring in and throwing punches with both fists.....I was forever backing my opponent around the ring and making him like it.....Always on top of him, I would counter, counter, counter...When he would throw a left I would be in there with a right, and vice versa.....I didn't take half of the punishment the modern day fans seem to think.....I was not a killing puncher, but my drumming attack ruined a lot of good men, and I've outlived 'em all.... All of the oldtimers are gone, but the Battler still is around to tell the tale.....And that's something.

"Who was the greatest lightweight champion? . . . If you ask me, I'll say Joe Gans . . . He could do everything . . . The greatest ring general I ever saw, a master boxer and a great puncher . . . I fought my way through the toughest crop the class has known, and my hat is off to Gans . . . I think I could beat him over a route any time, because I simply would not admit defeat, but he was there with bells on . . . What do I think of the fight game of today, as compared with my time? . . . Well, it has gone ahead and improved, but the fighters aren't any better, if as good . . . They don't train properly and they're brought up in an atmosphere of softness and too much money . . . They go into the gym and punch the bag a while and then stand around and chew the rag and cool off and call it a hard day's work . . . The way to train is to zip through your work and get it over with and leave the gym behind with all of the benefits of the grind . . . I'd give a million dollars to be able to go back 25 years right now . . . I'd make it up in a few years the way they pay off now at the box office."

The semi-final is over and the lights flare up and Jack Zivic and George Engle, who managed Klaus when the latter was champion, stroll along and there are greetings all the way around . . . The decision is announced in favor of Benny Gershe over Joe Marciente, and most of the fans around us look at each other in a dumb sort of a way . . . Back there it appeared that Marciente had done almost all of the forcing and fighting . . . Later a checkup at the ringside reveals the fact that it undoubtedly was Gershe's fight . . . He blocked most of Marciente's leads, delivered on the move, and stepped in with solid punches to win the fight . . . It's funny how where you sit makes so much difference in judging a fight . . . The call comes for Nelson and Klaus to enter the ring to be introduced . . . The Battler moves down the aisle and ambles up the few steps and into the ring with a springy step.

The introductions, tumult, smiles beam across the faces of the two former champions and they wave a cheery handclasp to the crowd . . . For a night they are back in their old element again and know the acclaim of yore . . . Jim Corbett called it the Roar of the Crowd . . . He was right . . . It is a soul-filling spectacle . . . It causes a lump to rise in your throat and you look on through misty eyes.—HARRY KECK.

Colleges to Name Floor Commissioner

Representatives of 13 universities and colleges of the tri-state area went into session at the P. A. A. today to consider the appointment of a basketball commissioner, whose chief duties would be to select officials for all games in which the institutions involved participate.

The meeting was called by Clarence G. Overend, the representatives being guests of the Carnegie Tech graduate manager at a luncheon prior to the session.

In the event it is decided to appoint a commissioner, steps will be taken at once to name such a figure.

George Little Dies Penniless and Alone

CHICAGO, March 18.—(AP.)—George Little, once the prosperous manager of Heavyweight Champion Jack Johnson, died here today virtually penniless and alone. He became ill several days ago.

In his prosperous heyday, Little boasted that he owned $500,000 worth of diamonds. His cafe in Chicago's loop was a rendezvous for the sporting fraternity.

After brief funeral services here, the body was shipped to Lancaster, O., for burial.

Stocks Turn Up — Local Market Narrow

MARKET WORKS HIGHER AFTER DECLINE

Rail Shares Send List Off, But Midweek Trade Statistics Turn Trend

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP.)—Further gains in steel mill output and electric power production favored the cause of higher prices in today's stock market.

The list remained in a condition of sensitive balance between a buoyant tendency in the utilities and industrials, and continued heaviness of the rails. The rail shares dragged the list lower again for a time, but the mid-week business statistics provided support and the list was inclined to work higher after midday. Trading, however, was sluggish.

A particularly encouraging item in the weekly steel trade reviews was the report by Steel that a leading United States Steel subsidiary will increase prices for bars, plates and shapes $1 a ton after April. The recent report that Carnegie Steel had posted an unchanged price schedule for the second quarter had caused considerable disappointment, but it appears that the current schedule will hold until April 1, only.

The automotive industry is still providing much of the impetus in the steel industry, with mills in the Cleveland and Chicago areas maintaining relatively the highest rate of output. Structural orders are fair, however, with a 125,000-ton order for the Rockefeller "Radio City" to U. S. Steel an important item. Iron Age places ingot output at 57 per cent of capacity, compared to 55 a year ago.

The weekly report of electric power consumption, covering the second week of March, showed a reduction of only 3.2-5 per cent from a year ago, the best comparison so far this year. Freight car loadings, as reported for the first week of March, showed a substantial rise from the preceding holiday week, but the increase was if anything below expectations.

The weekly petroleum statistics showed another discouraging increase in crude output, but the increase in stocks of gasoline in storage was the smallest in recent weeks. The industry is hopeful over efforts in Washington to reach an agreement to curtail imports.

Call money was again abundant and quoted at 1 per cent in the outside market. The bond market turned hesitant, however, on a Washington report that veteran loan demands were exceeding expectations, and the Treasury may have to sell another large offering of notes or bills shortly.

The defendant corporation said payment of commissions had not been provided in its contract with the distributors.

Forbes

A Steelworker's Vision And Its Sequel

By B. C. FORBES

A STEEL mill workman, who had just been promoted to be assistant superintendent of a two-by-four sheet plant, observed to his superior one night years ago:

Mr. Forbes

"Some day, Charlie, we won't roll sheets by hand, one at a time. It will all be done by machinery, and they'll come out in a continuous stream."

That young man's idea has made his company famous. It alone of all steel companies in the world has succeeded in making this dream come true. It can now roll sheets, not by hand, but by machinery in a continuous stream at the rate of five tons a minute.

And he is no longer assistant superintendent. He is now vice president, and the superintendent with whom he talked is president. They are John B. Tytus, vice president, and Charles R. Hook, president, of the American Rolling Mills Company. So superior, so revolutionary, is the continuous rolling process that licenses to use it have been taken out from Armco by such important companies as the United States Steel Corporation, the Weirton Steel Company, Otis Steel Company, the Great Lakes Steel Company, the Republic Iron and Steel Company, the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, the Wheeling Steel Corporation.

I LEARNED much of interest during a visit to Middletown in a recent tour of Ohio.

Did you know that the rolling of sheet metal was not only invented by the Welsh, but that the art was kept a secret for generations? Father confided the guarded information to son, breast to breast. America had to bring over Welshmen in the early stages of the steel manufacturing industry here. It was from Welsh workmen, at the beginning of this century, that Mr. Hook learned the trade, in a typical Welsh tin mill.

For over 150 years, until the idea of young Tytus was harnessed, sheets were rolled by laboriously passing a heated bar of iron back and forth between revolving rolls. Indeed, the old hand-finishing process for making wide thin sheets is still used in all the mills of the world except those of Armco and its licenees. It is one of the hardest and most gruelling forms of labor known to mankind.

IT WAS one thing to have an idea; it was a very different thing to translate it into successful practice. Millions were spent on this many-sided problem before success was achieved.

But George M. Verity, the creator of American Rolling Mill, had unwavering faith in the idea, in its sponsors, in his scientific and engineering staff and in its commercial value. He purchased a plant at Ashland, Ky., in 1921, and there, before the end of 1927, he invited steel authorities to insect the invention in actual operation. Since 1926 the company's sales have more than doubled.

It now has a potential producing capacity of over a million tons of finished sheets per year. Its sheets go to every country in the world. They are unique.

THE CITY of Middletown itself is unique. It is scarcely an exaggeration to say that Armco is Middletown and Middletown is Armco. It is the towering industry of this 30,000 community.

Mr. Verity has taken almost as much interest in the well-being of the city as in the well-being of his own company. He has either given it, or led the citizens in acquiring everything which enhances the attractiveness of community life. Whatever is best in the way of music, athletics, recreation, education, Middletown has it.

HOW ARMCO came to be organized is a business romance. Forty years ago Mr. Verity was running the American Steel Roofing Company which manufactured various articles out of sheet steel. He found it was often of poor quality. He tried manufacturer after manufacturer without satisfactory results. So he determined to make better sheets than any then produced.

In 1899 he incorporated the American Rolling Mill Company for that purpose. Sales during the first 12 months of operation totaled $281,181. In 1929 they exceeded $70,000,000. And now there are plants not only in Middletown, but in Zanesville, Columbus, Elyria, O.; Ashland, Ky.; Butler, Pa., and Kansas City, Mo.

MR. VERITY wanted the best—and, after superhuman struggles, got it.

Maybe there is coiled in this continuous sheet a moral for some of the rest of us.

Rails Face New Types Of Competition

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

UNFAVORABLE DIVIDEND ACTION taken by some of the leading railroad systems has been principally attributable to the current business depression, but it is quite probable that another development had some influence on the directors who have reduced or passed dividend payments.

Several leading railroad officials have admitted that their lines are facing new forms of competition which threaten to become more serious in the future. For a long period of years the railroads had the transportation business to themselves. There was competition between various systems but Interstate Commerce Commission control of rates confined the struggle for business to questions of service and business friendship.

Since the war, however, competition has been extending to other forms or transportation which can fight for business from the standpoint of price as well as service. At first this did not represent a serious problem to the railroads, but it has become increasingly important in recent years.

Motor Truck Causes Worry

THE MOTOR TRUCK is far from a new competitor. For several years the railroads did not consider it to be a serious menace but its influence has steadily grown until it has become a major problem. Large expenditures for good roads have greatly helped truck competition. Incidentally, the railroads particularly resent this, since they are large taxpayers and much of their money has gone into roads. Lately, however, there has been an increased tendency to tax gasoline and motor vehicles in most parts of the country.

Eventually this may correct any possible inequalities, but the railroads still complain that motor truck lines are not subject to regulation and that they have a further advantage in using public highways instead of their own costly rights of way.

Buses and privately owned cars have further contributed to the troubles of the railroads and have cost them large amounts of traffic.

Railroads Organizing

MOTOR TRANSPORTATION caught the railroads unprepared but the steam lines are organizing to fight further encroachment on the business of transportation. They are trying to force the oil and gas industry to dispose of its pipe lines and to convert these systems into common carriers under separate ownership.

The railroads fear the pipe line development of the past few years since these new arteries of fuel transportation threaten to deprive the carriers of hauls of petroleum products. In addition to this, the pipe lines give indirect competition by replacing consumption of coal with the burning of oil or gas. This further curtails railroad revenue.

Waterways Opposed

TWO SCHOOLS OF THOUGHT appear to be developing among railroad executives. One group favors organization to oppose the development of all competing forms of transportation and to demand that they be placed under federal regulation similar to that of the railroads. The other group believes that the salvation of the carriers lies in co-operation with new types of transportation. This group favors the co-ordination of railroad services with the newcomers in the field, believing that each type has its definite functions.

While some lines are refusing all co-operation with inland waterway transportation, others are working with it. A similar condition is found in air travel. While the day seems far off when the railroads are likely to find this a serious form of competition, several of the carriers are engaging in air transportation on their own account. Rail officials with the same viewpoint are also responsible for their lines operating buses as railroad feeders as well as for through transportation.

STEEL DEMAND HOLDING UP

NEW YORK, March 18.—The Iron Age in its weekly summary of the iron and steel trade tomorrow will say:

Expansion of steel demand, although by no means spectacular, is unchecked, and further gains are indicated by the broadening requirements of the automobile and construction industries.

Steel ingot output for the country at large has risen from 55 to 57 per cent, with the greatest gains reported at Cleveland, where production is now 70 per cent of capacity, and at Chicago, where the district average is 62 per cent, with the rate of one producer 75 per cent. Three blast furnaces have been added to the list of active stacks, one each having been lighted in the Alabama, Youngstown and Chicago districts.

Price changes are few in number and indecisive in character, reflecting no general trend either upward or downward.

Finished steel specifications at Chicago are 25 per cent above the average for the year to date, while bookings at New York are running 10 to 20 per cent over those of February. Cleveland also reports substantial gains, chiefly attributable to the expanding needs of the automobile industry.

Motor car demand for steel is conspicuous for its uninterrupted expansion. Orders from the Detroit district, however, usually call for seven to 10 days delivery and, as a consequence, mills serving the automobile trade have virtually no backlogs, although their shipments from week to week are steadily increasing. In the face of this extreme conservatism, every week brings more definite signs of a sustained gain in motor car production. First-quarter output for the United States and Canada is now estimated at 700,000 cars, while peak production of the year is expected to come later than usual, possibly in May or June.

Construction activity promises to be a large outlet for steel in coming months.

G. E. REPORTS $1.90 SHARE

SCHENECTADY, March 18.—General Electric Company reported for 1930 profit of $57,490,915, equal to $1.90 a common share, compared with $67,289,880, or $2.24 a share on the present amount of stock for 1929. The common was split four shares for one last January.

Unfilled orders at the close of the year aggregated $56,062,000, compared with $94,623,000 on December 31, 1929. Sales billed for 1930 were $376,167,428, a 9½ per cent decrease.

General Electric disposed of its radio set and tube business to the Radio Corporation of America as of January 1, 1930; hence orders received, unfilled orders and net income from sales for last year do not include these items, except the company's own radios, which were marketed late in the year.

Canadian General Electric's 1930 net profit was $3,765,797 against $4,428,884 in 1929.

St. Paul System's Loadings Lower

CHICAGO, March 18.—During the first 14 days in March, the St. Paul Railway handled 59,935 revenue cars against 69,067 in same period in 1930.

St. Louis and San Francisco Railway during the week ended March 14 handled 14,566 revenue cars against 14,123 in the preceding week.

Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railway in the week ended March 14 handled 7,673 revenue cars against 7,741 in the preceding week.

Electric Bond Gets Rumanian Contract

BUCHAREST, Rumania, March 18.—(AP.)—It was reported today in official circles that the Electric Bond and Share Company of New York, representing United States financial interests, had signed a contract with the Rumanian government involving $200,000,000, of which $10,000,000 would be loaned immediately to the city of Bucharest. It was understood the new corporation would take over the Electric Services Corporation of Bucharest and supply electric power to the whole nation.

A. P. I. Oil Figures Sharply Increased

NEW YORK, March 18.—Domestic crude oil output in the week ended March 14 averaged 2,190,550 barrels daily, an increase of 33,850 barrels daily over the preceding week, but 392,650 barrels below the daily average in the like 1930 week, the American Petroleum Institute reports. Gasoline stocks increased 32,000 barrels to 45,821,000 barrels.

P. R. R. Carloadings Decline for Week

PHILADELPHIA, March 18.—Total cars handled by the Pennsylvania Railroad system for the week ended March 14 were 115,428 against 119,417 last week and 140,135 last year. From January 1 car loadings totaled 1,234,964 against 1,508,803 in the same 1930 period.

NEED STRESSED FOR ECONOMIC SURVEY

Well-Endowed Foundation Urged to Find Remedies For Periodic Depressions

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, March 18.—It is human in periods of stress for the public to blame the head of the state for current troubles.

President Hoover has had to bear the brunt of the ignorance of the human race in regard to the causes of business depression.

The Chief Executive is hopeful that out of the improved statistics gathered in connection with the present depression it will be possible better to understand the "controls" by which business in-the-large can be regulated. Mr. Hoover is confident that better social control of business will come through co-ordination within industries. Though he is attracted to the idea of industrial planning, he is inclined to think that our present status of knowledge on this subject is inadequate.

Mr. Rukeyser.

KNOWLEDGE SLIGHT

An outside scholar, Ordway Tead, pertinently testifies:

"We really know very little about the causes and cures of the business cycle."

Perhaps better practice will have to wait on sounder theory.

Here is a magnificent opportunity for a multi-millionaire to start a well-endowed foundation for economic study into the causes and remedies for the periodic breakdown in normal business. George F. Baker, 91-year-old head of the First National Bank of New York, ought to be especially interested in this proposal. If not, it is respectfully referred to John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and Julius Rosenwald, both of whom are very much concerned with finding fruitful ways of spending millions usefully.

SOUND PHILANTHROPY

Perhaps no philanthropy is sounder than searching the causes of the occasional breakdown of prosperity. Depression brings on all the other social evils—including malnutrition, impaired living standards, immorality and interrupted progress.

In a simpler age, when all products were made in the home, the economic problem was primitive. Now it is complicated by vast social and physical mechanisms, which generate immense forces that are little understood. One of the two or three ablest financiers in the country, now on the payroll of the federal government, told me that the immense complexity of the forces at work makes it almost impossible for any one mind to see clearly the trend ahead.

Mary Lou Is Told About English Actress

XXIX.

Late that afternoon, an hour after Mary Lou had been left alone, Larry arrived, full of his news, very important.

But all the way up in the train he had been dreading the interview. What would happen to Mary Lou? Darn it, she loved this man . . . and he loved her. Or thought he loved her! It was all wretchedly confusing and someone was going to get hurt. And Larry didn't want that someone to be Mary Lou.

He was too fond of her; he felt responsible for her presence in Westwood House, for her having been involved in this curious chain of circumstances; and he was grateful to her because it was through her that he had come to happiness and Jenny. No, he didn't want her to be hurt. If—and here a brilliant idea seized him—if he didn't tell her, it was on the cards that the Lady Diana would go her way and be none the wiser, unless she took it into her hennaed head to look up Lorrimer's family. But much water had gone under the dam since she and Lorrimer had been crazy youngsters and perhaps it would never occur to her. Yet, if she had married him, would it not be natural for her to try and find his family? After all, the Lorrimers were almost mythically rich—and this girl had been up against it, was still, for all he knew.

Relates Discovery

No, better to tell lest it come out in another way. Mary Lou would never forgive him for not telling, once she learned the truth through other, less friendly channels.

They sat together in a corner of the library and Larry looked desperately about him and longed for escape.

"For goodness' sakes," said Mary Lou, half laughing and half exasperated, "what's the matter with you, Larry? What did you want to see me about? Is it Jenny? Have you quarreled? But I'm sure you haven't; she was over here today as full of plans as a bun of currents! What's wrong?"

"Well, here goes," said Larry, in a tone of voice unlike himself—"look here, I know you won't believe me—but I've found her!"

"Found who, for Pete's sake?" asked Mary Lou.

"Her. Delight Harford. The real one," he said.

It was out.

He looked away after a moment from the small pale face, the widened eyes, the red lips that shook.

Mary Lou reached out a hand and touched his sleeve.

"Found—Delight? Do you mean that, Larry? Are you sure? Who is she? Where is she? Oh, don't keep me waiting like this," she begged pitifully, "please tell me—please!"

"She's in that English revue," he said, in as matter-of-fact a tone as was humanly possible to him at the moment. "She calls herself Lady Diana Hackett. Funny." Larry interpolated, "how people, when they change their names for any reason, generally cling to the original initials. She is about the age she would be. She's knocked about a bit, one can see that. Good looking still—and I can see the resemblance to you—but hard . . . awfully hard. Yet I liked her. A good scout. But—"

"How did you find out?" asked Mary Lou, evenly. Her heart was sick within her. Yet, she told herself fiercely, ought she not to rejoice for Lorrimer's sake. She loved him, didn't she? Shouldn't—wasn't his happiness everything that mattered? Over and above her own? Her own mustn't matter. Now that the real Delight had been found, she could go away, escape from love and grief, escape from deception, make an end of lies.

"She told me," Larry answered. "One thing led to another. She said she'd been born here. She admitted she wasn't English, let alone titled. And after a time she spoke of Lorrimer," he went on miserably, forced to it by Mary Lou's eyes on his own.

"Of—Lorry?" She drew a deep breath. The hand on his sleeve tightened. "What did she say? Tell me what she said!"

Bursts Into Tears

"Not much. Said I reminded her of a boy she'd known. Told me his name. Said he had died." Larry answered briefly.

"Did she say they had—been married?" whispered Mary Lou.

"No."

After a moment he said, wretchedly:

"I—didn't want to tell you."

"You had to tell me. I would never have forgiven you if you hadn't and I found out," she answered. Then she rose and began to walk about the big room. A beautiful room. She loved it. She spent many indoor hours in it. This was where the tea table was set usually. This was where she and Lorrimer read together, through the winter evenings, with a soft glowing of lights about them, with the fire living its scarlet and gold life on the wide hearth, its vital life, part flame, part song; this is where they had sat together so many nights, reading, talking, mutely, without word . . . while the wind spoke to them down the stone chimney and the snow thudded against the pane. A lovely room. She'd always remember it . . . after she had ceased to see it . . . ceased . . .

She began to cry quite suddenly.

"Oh, Mary Lou!" said Larry, himself too miserable to try to comfort her.

She stared at him. Already he had put her back within her own name in her own place. She was Delight no more now that Delight had come.

She mopped, childishly, at her eyes, with a wisp of a handkerchief, and controlled herself with an effort. She came and stood before him, straight and small in her soft, fine tweed frock . . . her lovely hair gleaming about her small white face.

"Did you tell her?" she demanded.

Cannot Keep It Secret

"No. I wanted to tell you first. Mrs. Lorrimer should know, too, before Travers is told, I think. It's all up to you, Mary Lou. And, look here," begged Larry, unable any more to endure the sight of her silent misery, "if you say the word no one need ever know except us. I'll not tell. I don't think she'll ever—ever try to find anyone belonging to Lorrimer. I think it's safe. Say the word, then, Mary Lou, and we'll forget that I found her."

She said slowly:

"I know why you said that. It's dear of you, Larry. But, no it can't be. I'd hate myself all my life. Besides, where would it get us? Mrs. Lorrimer must know. She must find out if they were married. She must send for—Delight. Must tell Lorry. No, Larry, we can't keep it a secret. I'll tell Mrs. Lorrimer myself, if you don't mind. In a way, it is bound to be a shock to her. And perhaps you can come over tomorrow and see her for a few minutes and give her the details . . . can you?"

He could and would. Said so. And after a little, took his leave, unable to give her more comfort than could be conveyed in the hard and hurting grip of his big, loyal hand. He walked over to the Wynne place and spent the earlier part of the evening explaining to his worried Jenny that his obvious abstraction was due to a recent editorial rejection.

Mary Lou had half an hour alone in the library before the Lorrimers returned. Peter came in to light the lamps and she asked him, sitting curled up on the window seat, not to do so, for a while, please. And Peter crept out softly, a little troubled and bewildered.

Sitting there, a huddle of unhappiness, she looked out at the darkening spring sky and the single stars pricking through. The air was soft, with a suggestion of summer in it and yet the lingering chill of winter. Flowers were in the borders, she could smell hyacinths. All her life she would hate hyacinths.

Over. The Fool's Paradise. Well, it was something, she thought, dreamily, to have known it at all. To have known—him. It couldn't have lasted, anyway; it was built on make-believe, on pretense, on a romantic sort of fairy tale.

Loving wouldn't hurt you, she'd imagined. She knew better now. It hurt—terribly. It always would. But she wasn't ashamed. It was an honorable wound.

Pretty soon she would go away, with the pretty new clothes and the new trunk and luggage she'd been given. Pretty soon she'd go away with a little bank book, which would contain the records of her salary savings. A success, in her job Mrs. Lorrimer would give her a reference. She laughed aloud, in the silent room. A reference. She would have enough money to live quietly for a time, go to business school perhaps. Gram would take her in or Larry would find a place for her in town. Mrs. Lorrimer would miss her . . . She would miss . . . She began to cry again.

"Stop it!" she told herself fiercely, "they'll notice it. Don't be such an abject little fool! Have you no decency?" she demanded.

But she wouldn't see him again. She couldn't. And yet she couldn't endure not seeing him. Never to hear him laugh, never to hear his voice. Never to meet—and look away from—his ardent and compelling eyes. No! No!

Over.

If she had been jealous of the wraith of that other girl, of the thought of her, the thought which was after all only part of the fairy tale . . . how much more bitterly and keenly she suffered, thinking of her, alive, near by, a flesh and blood human being, with a voice that spoke and eyes that saw, a heart that beat and claims . . . claims which could not be ignored.

When she heard the car come up the drive she jumped up and ran out of the library and up to her room. She must bathe her eyes and get herself together again before anyone saw her. They'd know, if they saw her.

That night she was terribly gay. She teased Lorrimer, she was never still a moment, jumping up from the table to turn the radio on — off — on again. She ate nothing. Lorrimer regarded her with affectionate amusement as if she were some small beloved child given to spurts of restless mischief. But Margaret Lorrimer looked at her with misgiving. What had happened? What had Larry Mitchell said to her?

DAILY TRUE STORY—The Squawker

J. Augustus Palmer took a long pull at his cigar.

He stared smilingly into the smoke, brushed some ashes from the plate-glass top of his mahogany table desk and then glanced sharply at the young man before him.

"I hate a squawker," J. Augustus said sharply.

The young man did not seem flustered in the least.

"You wouldn't know a squawk if you heard one," he remarked easily.

"Boy, I've heard 'em squawk before you were born."

"Then you are trying to be snooty and unfair, or it's your idea of something funny."

"Didn't you just squawk?"

Ferdy Gage shook his head and lighted a cigaret.

"Let's get at the facts. I've been quite a customer here. I've taken a lot of your guesswork advice and I've dropped $85,000—"

J. Augustus made a gesture indicating that $85,000 was but a fraction of a bagatelle.

"Then," Ferdy Gage said, standing up and putting on his hat, "you are either dumb or else you are crooked as hell."

Accepts Position

J. Augustus Palmer gasped and gripped the edge of his desk.

"Did—did you call me a crook?"

"Are you a fool?"

"No one ever accused me."

"Then, that's a new sensation."

"Sit down. Come ahead now. Wait—I think I got you wrong, Gage. Come to mull it over, I was hasty in calling you a squawker. So many come to me with tales of losing through wild speculations that everybody who mentions a loss in the market strikes me as a squawker."

Ferdy Gage sat down.

"Look here, Gage, you don't understand. I'm temperamental. The market was bad, but I'm a pretty good loser. What I have in mind is offering you a place here. You're cool and clean-cut, and that's what I need. How would you like to go to work for me as one of my order clerks?"

J. Augustus Palmer named the salary. It was much better than what Gage was making, but even if it had been somewhat less he might have accepted. He liked to be in the midst of things and he might be able to recoup. When he had dropped $85,000 he hadn't gone broke. He didn't tell J. Augustus that he had gone broke, he merely gave him to understand that he had.

And so Ferdy Gage, once a good customer of J. Augustus Palmer's brokerage office, became an employe, an order clerk who was cool and quick and never lost his head.

J. Augustus Palmer was sure that Gage took the position solely because of the generous salary. He didn't suspect that little Miss Dalton, who operated the telegraph ticker that connected Palmer's branches in seven cities, was more responsible for Gage taking the position than all else.

J. Augustus recovered from the shock it gave him to have a youngster call him a crook, and his judgment of Ferdy Gage as a cool and quick order clerk was mighty good.

J. Augustus prospered mightily these days. Few knew that he took little fliers himself, although they were not quite fliers, they were mostly surething chances.

J. Augustus had married about a year before, his second wife having been a sprightly chorus girl who now yearned to get into society.

Palmer built a handsome house in a suburb "on the hill" where so many bankers and Morganly partners and other big financiers lived. He was doing his best to throw a few receptions of the classy sort that would help him to boost Dorinda up the social ladder—Dorinda being Mrs. Palmer, the former sprightly chorus girl.

When the warm weather came, before it was getting-away time and while so many were giving receptions that spread from their private bars down cellar to their terraces on the lawn, J. Augustus planned such a little party.

Ferdy Gage heard him telephoning orders for this and that in connection with this affair. One day, as Ferdy went into the office to give him some information regarding the J. T. L. stock, J. Augustus was telephoning to his wife. Ferdy heard him say, "Well, Honey, ask your friends—some of them are sure to know a good fortune-teller."

Suggests Fortune Teller

After Ferdy finished his talk with J. Augustus about J. T. L., he said, "I overheard what you said about fortune-tellers. You ought to get Eliza Jenson—she's immense—does teacup reading stuff."

"Naw—none of those cheap 50-cent reading kind—"

"Just a minute, J. Augustus. She lives up country on a little farm. Now and then she comes to see a few people. I happen to know that she is often called on by the Van Worts, the Astorfellers, the Morton-Fish crowd. She's all class, they believe in her."

"What's her address? How shall I write it?"

"You know Huntley-Regan? Well, she's been there. Write and tell her he recommended her—she'll come—"

Ferdy glanced at the clock and excused himself.

Two weeks later J. Augustus Palmer was feeling supremely happy. He dropped into his office for a couple of hours, then he was going home for the big party. This famous tea-cup reader, Eliza Jenson, had agreed to come and be one of the several attractions at his party.

"You're in luck. She has uncanny talents. She has tipped many a man about the market," Gage assured him.

When opportunity came, J. Augustus went over to the corner where Eliza Jenson sat, and handed her an envelope.

"I added twice what you ask and I'm mighty grateful," he told her, "and—if you would read for me—"

"Certainly," Eliza Jenson said. She proceeded to read.

"You have been prospering—is there a company with the initials GX?"

He said, "Not exactly a company."

"Whatever it is, you made a lot of money out of it and here—some man will make millions for you—his initials are J. T. L."

"That is a stock, not the initials of a man."

Stock Drops

"At any rate, you must invest—see the little spots—that means much money."

"Buy, eh? I thought of waiting until it went down."

"Buy—see that line—going up—that is what it means, Mr. Palmer."

The next day Palmer fairly beamed. His party had made his wife happy and given her some new and socially prominent friends and he was all ready with the right tip to buy J. T. L. It had been away down only two weeks before. But he bought and he bought.

Then the bottom fell out and J. T. L. went back again.

Ferdy Gage stepped into his office and resigned.

"I'm going to marry Miss Dalton," he told J. Augustus, "and we're off for a world tour."

"Damn you and your teacup-reading fool — I'm broke," J. Augustus yelped. "She told me to buy J. T. L. and I did, at 90, and only a couple weeks ago it was 16—I'm broke, I tell you, and you talk of getting married. Where you going to get the money?"

"I bought J. T. L. at 16, fifteen thousand worth, and sold it at 90, J. Augustus."

J. Augustus got red and his eyes bulged again.

"You — you put that teacup-reading woman up to that!" he bellowed.

This was the truth but Ferdy wasn't admitting it.

"I hate a squawker!" was all he said.

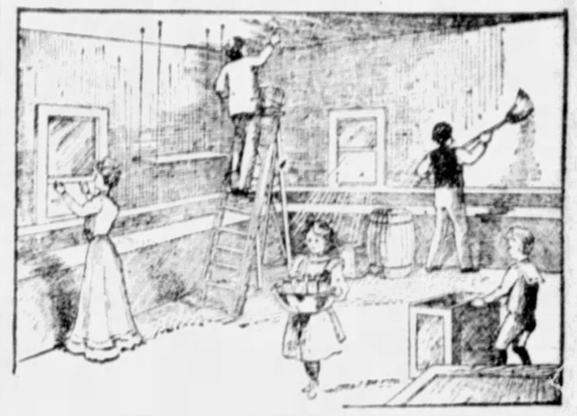
Volunteers Wanted for "Sunshine Hour"



Thousands of readers are asked to volunteer to help little "Sunshine" Frisby, aged 3, work her way through college by doing a kind deed every day. The volunteers will meet at a designated street corner at the crack of dawn tomorrow, and select a name from the telephone directory at random. The brigade will then proceed to the address and clean up the lucky party's basement, taking care to carry out all accumulated trash and preserved fruit. For every jar of preserves "Sunshine" brings home she is permitted to cut a notch in her father's wooden leg.

Who Paid for the Booze?

It Would Interest the Taxpayers to Know Whether or Not Their Money Went for Whisky.

An interesting question has been raised by the presentation to Council of an unpaid bill for $3,226, claimed to be due from the city for goods and services furnished in connection with the river junket in which city officials participated in 1929.

Not to mince words, the question, while not entering into this particular transaction now under consideration by Council, is if the taxpayers' money was used to buy whisky for the entertainment of those who took the trip.

The statement is published that a large part of the $3,226 represents cigars, candy, soft drinks, chewing gum and the like.

But there is testimony from several sources that not only soft drinks but hard liquor was consumed by many of those who made the trip.

Again, to call a spade a spade, it has been charged in speeches and newspaper and magazine articles that for not a few of the participants the trip was a drunken spree.

A magazine writer, describing the trip, tells of a newspaper reporter who telegraphed his office to have obituary sketches of some of the Pittsburgh officials in readiness, as they were drinking themselves to death.

Who paid for the whisky?

A Notable Advance

Hearing on Musmanno Bill Represents Greatest Progress Made Towards Abolition of Blue Law.

The hearing on the Musmanno Home Rule Sunday bill sets a new high mark in popular opposition to the Blue Law. Never before was the demand for repeal of the obnoxious statute so forceful and so widespread.

A notable advance was scored when the House Law and Order Committee granted the hearing, for it is the first time in years that such a concession was made to the advocates of a change in legislation for the regulation of Sunday observance. The climax was capped by the impressive demonstration that the people object to interference by the Commonwealth with innocent amusements.

Col. Samuel Harden Church, president of Carnegie Institute, ably summarized the reasons why the Blue Law should be abolished. He struck the nail on the head when he declared, in effect, that the state has no right to force a sectarian religious canon on the people.

It is the more indefensible now because, whatever may have been the case in 1794, there is every reason to believe that a large majority of the citizens object to enforced Sabbath observance.

The next task for the advocates of a cheerful Sunday is to get the Law and Order Committee to report the Musmanno bill out and to bring it to a vote of all the members of the Legislature.

Senator Coyne a Puzzle

He Acts Like a Gang Politician Sometimes, and Sometimes He Doesn't.

Max Leslie's absence from the State Senate this year is the less noticeable because of Senator Coyne's prominence. Coyne seems to have stepped into the Lawrenceville politician's shoes as a legislative leader of the Allegheny County Republican machine.

There are, however, great differences between Leslie and Coyne. Coyne acts like a gang politician a good deal of the time—but sometimes he doesn't.

Coyne's affiliations and political upbringing have all tended to ally him with the gang—but every once in a while he displays surprising independence. It will not be soon forgotten that he supported Pinchot in the primary, notwithstanding that the gang was for Brown.

Coyne's candor and modesty, as exemplified, for instance, in his remark in the Sun-Telegraph yesterday that possibly some of the bills he has introduced are bad bills, are not characteristic of gang politicians. He may be all the more worth watching because of the engaging frankness with which he disarms criticism.

There is no denying that he is shrewd and influential—a power either for good or evil.

A Remarkable Woman

Mrs. Dorothea Wagner Has Become a Lawyer While Mothering Her Six Little Children.

Unstinted admiration is due and will be forthcoming to Mrs. Dorothea Mansmann Wagner, of Squirrel Hill, who has just been admitted to the practice of law in the State Supreme Court, on motion of her husband, Attorney Samuel G. Wagner. Hers is an extraordinary achievement, for she has become a lawyer while engaged in what, to most women, would be the large full-time task of mothering her six little children. How in the world did she ever do it?

Mr. Wagner is a rather remarkable person, too, having studied law while employed as a musician in a theater orchestra.

But the wife's accomplishment beats all. With five children to care for, the sixth being born while she was studying, she prepared for the legal profession, and although she failed in her first attempt to pass the examinations for admission to the bar, she persisted and succeeded in the second attempt.

Hats off to a plucky and energetic woman!

Maple Sap Is Flowing

Good News Comes From the Pennsylvania Sugar Bush—a Satisfactory Yield Is Expected.

Word comes from Somerset County that maple sap is flowing. And the outlook is for a satisfactory yield of sugar and syrup in Pennsylvania this year. Officials of the Department of Agriculture say the production of maple products will be as good as in the average year—and perhaps a little better.

The output last year was the biggest in a decade. Although the number of trees tapped in the state—about 500,000—was no greater in 1930 than the year before, the production of maple sugar was more than twice as large and of syrup nearly three times as large.

Maple sugar and syrup are distinctive American products, and to be found only in the northeastern part of the United States. So there is reason to feel some pride in them, not only because of their goodness but because of our sentimental interest in strictly home-grown products.

Pennsylvania maple syrup, by the way, is not advertised as well as it should be. It is equal to the better known products of the Vermont and Ohio maple groves.

Marry-Go-Round

The Sweet and Lowdown

When a man devotes himself to intellectual pursuits, it sometimes leads to distinction; when a girl tries it, it merely leads to extinction.

So often, the girl who had the most chances to marry at 19, is the one who is still "thinking it over" and paying her own rent, at 39. The "one-chance girl" never hesitates—and can't be lost.

It isn't that a man is dazzled by a woman's money; but, somehow a halo of gold dollars always seems to brighten up her charms so that they outshine her shortcomings.

The average he-man despises flattery—especially when he hears a woman wasting it on another man.

There's something about one drink that makes a man want another the moment he has swallowed it—and something about one woman that makes him want another, the moment he has married her.

People are divided into two classes these days, those who are lying awake night shivering for fear they may get into Walter Winchell's column—and those who are lying awake nights worrying for fear they won't.

Perhaps everybody wishes he were in somebody else's shoes. Still you never heard of a small boy wishing that he were a girl, a blonde wishing that she were a brunette or a Californian wishing that he lived in Florida.

The lipstick is only about two inches long, but it has bridged a great chasm between mother and daughter.

A practical, conscientious wife may be her husband's right hand—but there are apt to be times when she seems more like a hangnail.

Isn't It So?

Some men's idea of being a genius is to ignore laundries and barbershops.

If riches didn't have wings there would be fewer fliers in the stock market.

Whatever Noah's shortcomings were he knew enough to go in when it rained.

Why isn't the golden rule an excellent excuse for the girl who wants to propose?

A man must not only build his own character; he must employ a night watchman to guard it.

THE LIMIT OF LIFE

By Archibald Henderson

There are certain questions, as yet unanswered, which appear to be of perennial interest. What is the age of the earth? Is the cosmos materially changing to an appreciable extent? Is the universe running down? When will the sun burn up and disintegrate? Is there life on other planets?

This last question, which seems to thrust itself forward on all occasions and which may never be answered, may perhaps show that, in some subconscious way, life here is calling to life elsewhere, deep answering unto deep. Perhaps, as Harlan True Stetson suggests in his happily conceived book, "Man and the Stars," there may be a subtle kinship between ourselves and the all but infinite universe in which we seem to play a part.

Turn a great telescope on the globular cluster of stars in the constellation Hercules. This cluster is computed to be composed of about 100,000 suns. It is likely that there are planetary systems around some of these suns, but we can scarcely ever hope to see them. Again it is likely that some of these planets support life. Still further it is likely that there are living beings, not strikingly dissimilar from ourselves, on some of these planets. There is no valid reason in contradiction of such a plausible supposition. But, of course, we cannot prove it now; and it is by no means certain that we shall ever arrive at certitude.

Our attention naturally concentrates itself, not on remote celestial objects, but on the planets in our own planetary system. Only two, Venus and Mars, could possibly support life at all similar to our own. Some form of life may exist on Venus, a sort of twin sister to the earth in size. It is still not determined whether Venus revolves upon its axis in a short period of time commensurate with our own day, or whether it rotates only once in its period of revolution about the sun, namely, 228 days. Recent observations at the Mt. Wilson and Lowell observatories favor the former hypothesis. But we do not yet know whether oxygen is found in the atmosphere of Venus.

Much of interest has been discovered regarding the planet Mars. But not enough to answer our question regarding life on that planet. On account of the eccentricity of its orbit, every 15 years Mars comes within a distance of 35,000,000 miles of the earth. This enables us to make favorable observations, and to glean much information regarding Mars. For a long time it was not known whether water was found on the surface of Mars. But it is now certainly known that water vapor exists within the atmosphere of Mars. Through any good telescope it is easy to detect a small, white polar cap on Mars. This was believed by the late Percival Lowell to be an ice cap. The recent discovery of water vapor in the atmosphere of Mars lends support to the ice-cap theory.

For a long time it was thought that the surface temperature of Mars was around 40 degree below zero! No chance for Martians under those circumstances. Recent researches indicate that, contrary to all previous suppositions, certain regions of the surface of Mars attain a temperature of some 50 to 60 degrees Fahrenheit. On the temperature score, then, it has been proved that life on Mars is possible.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 18.—I have been dipping into yesteryears through a musty, yellowed tome called "Sunshine and Shadows of New York." At that period—the 1860's—the city boasted of a population of more than 900,000 and "hoped to reach a million."

The most celebrated hotel was the Astor House, standing on the site at Broadway and Barclay, where the founder lived during active business life. It was thrown open in 1836 and was considered to be in the extreme upper section of town. It developed into an area comparable to Times Square today.

In that dim decade no one dreamed New York would stretch beyond City Hall, and stage coaches took picnic parties to that tranquil wilderness that is now Seventy-second street. Even the Chelsea district was a several hour drive and the Polo Ground site was as remote as Timbuctoo.

The magnet of high life was the notorious dance hall kept by Harry Hill on Houston street near the Bowery. Although considered a tough spot its proprietor obeyed all the laws and was the only dive-keeper to close tight on the Sabbath and attend church.

Another resort was that of John Allen on Water street. Unlike Harry Hill, Allen was a bad egg, but a fellow of erudition. He was a student at a theological seminary when he suddenly developed a wild streak. He was regarded as a rich man of his time—worth $100,000.

Great editors were Horace Greeley, William Cullen Bryant, Pulitzer and the elder Bennett. New York in the 60's was besieged by street walkers. The book says: "Many work in low restaurants and are known as 'Pretty Waiter Girls'." Their paradise was Broadway between Canal and Bleeker.

The important banking house of the 60's was Brown and Brothers. The firm members came from Ireland and were devoutly religious. No employe was permitted to drink, smoke, play cards or go to the theater. Every clerk wore a black tie.

Jacob Little was the first Wall street bear. He originated a business called "Bearing Stocks." He worked for 12 years in a little Wall street cellar and finally became one of the most influential men in the street. He was later known as "The Little Father of the Panic."

The most highly gifted of what today would be known as a columnist but in those days was "a leader writer" was Gen. Charles Halpine, better known by his pseudonym of Miles O'Reilly. He was also a poet and orator and knew good food, good wine and beautiful ladies and never wrote an offensive line. When he passed away all New York turned out.

* * *

A favorite theater was Wallack's, but the period suffered from lack of male and female stars. Mrs. Hooey had just retired and there was no one to take her place. The top price at Wallack's was $1.25.

* * *

One of the high-nosed bloods of the 60's boasted that his silk underwear was hand-knit, costing $2.50 per garment. He was pilloried in a sermon for his "wanton waste." And in a list of assets of a bankrupt actor yesterday were six suits of silk underwear at $24 a suit. It beats all.

* * *

And we wonder what old timers would think of a "gentleman's bath ensemble" we saw in a Fifth avenue window. It was all in robin's egg blue consisting of a robe, rubber cap, sandals, sponge (picture in blue tinted sponge), complexion brush and blue bath salts. Complete $215. It was all very tempting, but somehow we prefer to wait until they bust out in something in a salmon pink.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS.

Prescience

Though spring is near,
The world today
Is bleak and drear,
The sky is gray;
No hint of bloom
That soon will fill
All April's room,
From vale to hill.

And yet one spirit
Must have heard
From Earth to cheer it
Some secret word,
Or glimpsed some vision
Of days to be,
Days all Elysian
With melody.

Else, what could waken
In robin's breast
Faith so unshaken,
Songs of a nest?

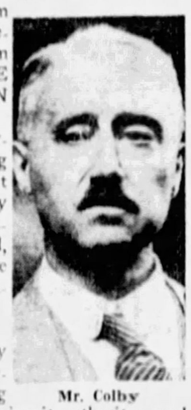
Our Falling Standards

Colby Calls for Rousing of American Citizenship, Cleansing of Institutions and Public Life.

Extract from speech of Bainbridge Colby at banquet of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, in Washington, D.C. (Hotel Mayflower), Tuesday evening, March 17, 1931.

By BAINBRIDGE COLBY

CAN a serious American fail to be impressed by the relaxation of standards, both of public and private conduct, discernible on every hand? The great material expansion following the war years seems to have driven from our minds the old conception of civic responsibility and duty. Our energies seem centered upon GETTING ON IN THE WORLD, rather than GETTING UP IN THE WORLD.



Mr. Colby

There is basis for this reproach, but correction is on the way. There is a widening recognition that it is time we took account of stock. The hour for national self-security is striking and I can detect a gnawing disposition to look at conditions frankly and, somewhat tardily, I regret to say, to take heed of the trends and tendencies of contemporary life.

IT IS NOT the broad extent of territory nor the superfluities of self-indulgent living that make a country stand out among its fellow commonwealths of the world, or give it authority and influence among nations.

We may be sure of one thing, that America will not be admired unless she sees to it that she is WORTHY of admiration.

A nation which is so indifferent to public duty that she will allow her institutions to be seized by organized minorities and bent and twisted to the service of selfish groups, is NOT an admirable nation.

A PEOPLE which looks indulgently or even indifferently upon corruption in public life, is a low and decadent people. It WILL NOT LAST.

A civilization that will suffer crime to pass unpunished, and will even view without agitation the evidence of a working alliance between crime and the forces upon which society relies for crime repression, must quickly alter its ways if it is to be saved. That this condition is NATIONWIDE, particularly in our greater cities, is a fact which NONE DISPUTES.

Today we read of self-constituted committees of citizens in cities throughout the land, organized for the purpose of taking over the work of detecting and punishing crime in order to save public order from utter collapse.

In some of our larger cities it is obvious that some members of the judiciary are sitting not only on the bench, but "ON THE LID," screening wrong-doers from punishment and interpreting not the law of the land, but the wishes of dominant and corrupt political organizations.

IN THE seats of legislation the FORCES OF PRIVILEGE AND SPECIAL INTEREST ARE SOLIDLY MASSED. Legislation in the general interest is pushed aside and postponed to legislation demanded by private and particular interests.

Votes are cast not in accordance with the dictates of conscience and patriotic reasoning, but to serve or placate a private interest; to promote not the public good, but more often, to the detriment of the common welfare, the ambitions of an unworthy representative for continuance in office.

I sometimes wonder who is representing America at the seats of government. I can identify the SPOKESMEN for the RAILROADS, and for the UTILITIES, the TEXTILE MANUFACTURERS, and the various importing interests.

The senators for SUGAR and OIL are easy to locate.

It is a simple matter to identify these interests in the state capitols as well as in the nation's capitol. But it is not so easy to find the spokesmen for America.

It almost seems at times as if the America of history and tradition had been disfranchised in its own house.

ALMOST EVERYBODY HAS HIS CONGRESSMAN EXCEPT UNCLE SAM. Almost every point of view has its exponent except the plain American viewpoint.

WE MUST overcome these conditions. To use the current expression, we must "SNAP OUT" of them, if we are to progress in knowledge and truth and move in the direction of our high calling as a people.

Let us realize that there is such a thing as spiritual hard times as well as commercial hard times. Moral collateral shrinks in value as well as banking collateral. Our spiritual obligations as Americans can go to protest as well as obligations which are evidenced by a note of hand.

A nation can be no better than its men. If we are cheap men, we shall be a cheap nation. If we are only stirred by the prospects of material gain, we shall have to be content with the meanness of mere material enrichment.

The times are calling for the best powers that reside in us. American public life needs quickening and redemption.

Our institutions need cleansing.

Our citizenship needs rousing. Our standards of public conduct need lifting.

There are enemies within the gate—slackness, indifference, callousness, the spirit that comprises with evil. Let us be up and doing. It is our duty to be alert and attentive.

IF WE DO but hearken, we can still hear the sweet note of America as she calls—the America of Washington and Jefferson—the America of VIRTUE, of SIMPLE FAITH, of HONEST AIMS and FAIR PURPOSES.

Let us listen closely, lest we do not hear it. Let us rise and go to her side, before it is too late. Let us range ourselves with the true America which should have its dwelling place in our hearts.

Let us pluck up and thrust out the malignant growth that threaten to poison and choke and slay our blessed country—the America of ideals so dear to our fathers.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

A time of depression is not without a silver lining if it makes people more understanding and sympathetic.

Certain trades or lines of work are seasonal and men are always laid off for longer or shorter time.

In winter time business slackens and perhaps your husband or your sons have always been out of work in the cold months.

It has been a very unhappy time all the way round.

The men have been restless and dissatisfied.

As a wife you may have been cross and fault-finding because you thought they did not try to get something to do.

This year, so few men are working that you know it is not altogether the fault of your men folks that they are idle.

Other families are universally in the same predicament.

Fussing won't do a bit of good.

Your good common sense and pleasant attitude has made you all better friends, has drawn the family together.

You can get together without quarreling or nagging.

No work outside for anyone, nothing to be gained by ugly moods and sympathy and understanding from "Mother," more kindly feeling for neighbors.
